CALDER ADVISES REPUBLICANS TO SUPPORT FUSION

Senator-Elect Would Have His Party Keep the Present City Administration in Office.

NO REASON FOR A CHANGE

Says It Is to the Interest of the Municipality to Retain Trained Men in the Service.

TANNER FOR CONVENTIONS

At Republican Club Dinner ex-State Chairman Urges Amendment to Direct Primary Law.

William M. Calder, United States Senator-elect, told several hundred Republicans last night at a dinner given in his honor at the Republican Club that the Republican Party could not do better than support the present fusion city administration again this Fall. He not only advised that this be done, but said that he had no doubt that the Republicans would do it. The suggestion, the first that has come from the local Republican organization concerning its possible position regarding the municipal election this year, was cheered. Mr. Calder reminded his audience that he had carried New York City last November by a majority approximating 30,000, runing on a straight party ticket, and added:

"Some few Republicans in the city believe that because of this fact we should this year place before the people city and borough tickets composed entirely of members of our party. I am not so sure, however, that we should do this."

Mr. Calder said that the Republican Party had carried forward "the greatest movement in favor of better city government" ever devised when it forced the requirement in the New York State Constitution of 1894 of the separation of city from State and national elections, and added:

Non-Partisanship in City Affairs.

"In the great City of New York the Republican Party has been the mainstay of good government. It has made possible the relief from Tammany rule. It has done this with commendable consistency, and there is no reason to suppose it is not going to preserve this same policy in the future. Its fine advocacy of the principle of non-partisanship in the government of the city has made possible the building up in our City Government of a body of trained, experienced public officials."

Mr. Calder's suggestion that the present city administration be retained was as follows:

"It is to the interest of the city that it should retain trained men in its service. No private corporation would think of doing otherwise. Municipal government should be established on the same basis of experience and efficiency as private business. It should not matter to us so much whether we agree or disagree with a man's views on national politics. The test should be, Has he shown the capacity for good public service? If so, then he is worth more to the community than an untrained man. It is the constant changing of officials which accounts in considerable part for the backwardness of city government in the past. If a man is of value to the community in his public capacity, then our party believes he should be encouraged to stay in the public service. Whatever we do to promote experience in public office and continuity in municipal politics advances the cause of good government. That this will be our policy in the important municipal election soon to take place I do not doubt."

For Convention System.

Frederick C. Tanner, former Republican State Chairman, also surprised the audience by advocating that the question of amending the direct primary law so as to provide for a return to the convention system be submitted to the voters this Fall. He said that there are many people who are sincerely in favor of either the direct primary or the convention system, as relating particularly to State office, and that the question should be settled with some degree of finality. He said:

"I certainly am in favor of the spirit of the direct primary and the referendum so far as it holds that the electorate shall pass upon the issue themselves with the least possible interference where a simple and clear-cut issue is presented. I deny the right of any man to speak for the people when, under the limitations I have suggested, they can speak for themselves. The control of party affairs in both parties should be liberalized. A good place to begin is to put the question squarely to the people by what method they wish to nominate their candidates.

"The year 1917 will be an excellent time for a referendum. All voters, whether they are enrolled or not, would have an opportunity to speak, and the question presented would not be confused with the general State or national issues incident to an election for Governor or President. The subject of primary legislation and popular representation for many years has been one on which parties have split and a new party born. From the nature of the controversy it has become the football of politics. Any discussion relating to it is necessarily obscured by attempts to gain partisan advantage. There are more than enough subjects now of national and international importance to occupy the public mind. I am in favor of a quick and certain solution of the primary which will clear the air and leave our minds for other things."

James R. Sheffield, President of the club, presided. Other speakers were Henry L. Stimson, ex-Governor Benjamin B. Odell, and County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig.

Swiss to Mobilize 2 Divisions, May Call Other Units to Colors

PARIS, Jan. 19.—General Ulrich Wille, commander of the Swiss Army, wishes to mobilize all Switzerland's military forces, according to a Berne dispatch to the Petit Parisien.

The Federal Council is said to regard such a measure as excessive and to have decided to mobilize only the Second and Fifth Divisions, but it is considered not impossible that further units will be called to the colors.

NEW HAVEN COUNSEL ACCUSED OF A PLOT

Injured Brakeman Says Three Lawyers Induced Him to Blame O'Neill Wrongly.

RECALLS OPPENHEIM CASE

Attorney Threatened with Disbarment Submits Affidavit Recanting Charges Against Him.

Charges resembling those made by Benjamin Oppenheim, who proved that his disbarment of eleven years was procured by perjured testimony, were made yesterday in affidavits submitted to the First Department of the Appellate Division on a motion to dismiss charges of unprofessional conduct brought against Thomas J. O'Neill, a lawyer of 309 Broawway, on a complaint of lawyers for the New Haven Railroad.

Charles J. Fox, an employe of the New Haven, who was the principal witness against O'Neill, asserted in the new affidavits that his testimony had been false, and that he had been influenced to give it by Charles M. Sheafe, Jr., John M. Gibbons, and Joseph Sweeney of the legal department of the railroad. The charges of Fox were denied emphatically last night by Mr. Sheafe, who pointed out that Fox had told his story against O'Neill without variation on many occasions. Mr. Sheafe added that Fox had amitted that he had not told the truth when he had made the recantation of his story against O'Neill.

Charges of unprofessional conduct against O'Neill were that he had agreed to pay to Fox, who, as a brakeman, had been injured in the Fairfield wreck several years ago, the sum of $10 a week while he was awaiting the trial of his damage suit against the New Haven, and that he had induced him to state falsely that his residence was in Westchester County in order that the trial should occur there. The charges had been heard before a referee and passed on the Appellate Court for its decision.

The affidavit of Fox was made on Jan. 8. Mr. O'Neill said last night that on that date he was trying a case in White Plains when Fox came to the courtroom and told him his conscience hurt him and that he wished to recant his charges. The lawyer said he hurried Fox before Supreme Court Justice Platt in White Plains, who took the affidavit.

Fox Accuses Three Lawyers.

In it Fox charges that the three lawyers named had threatened him with prosecution if he failed to make the charges against O'Neill. He added that "Charles M. Sheafe is the man who kept telling me to put my charges up to Mr. O'Neill and to stick to them." Fox said that his reason for making the recantation was that his conscience hurt him and that his mother continually urged him to do it.

Another affidavit submitted by ex-Senator Edgar T. Brackett, who represented O'Neill, in support of the motion to dismiss the charges of unprofessional conduct, was from Mrs. Jane Fox, 72 years old, the mother. She corroborated the statements of her son and told of his struggle with his conscience.

Mr. O'Neill said last night that Charles M. Sheafe had testified on cross-examination during the hearing of the charges that the New Haven and the New York Central had agreed to divide the expenses of prosecuting him. The lawyer said that he had made affidavit that he had collected in sixteen months more than $215,000 in damages from the New Haven. He said that witnesses on his side in damage suits against railroads had been indicted in Yonkers, in Connecticut, in Schenectady and the Bronx, but that none had been successfully prosecuted.

Sheafe Calls Fox Unreliable.

Mr. Sheafe said over the telephone from his home in Rye last night that the recanting affidavit of Fox was but "the weak effort of a weak witness to get Thomas J. O'Neill out of a hole because Fox at heart felt friendly toward O'Neill."

"In his opinion in the disbarment proceedings against O'Neill," said Mr. Sheafe, "Referee Friedman said that Fox was not worthy of belief—in short, he said Fox kas a liar, but that his testimony was backed up by so much documentay revidence that he was forced to believe the documents themselves and to send his findings to the Appellate Division, which passes on disbarment proceedings, on the basis of that documentary evidence.

"The testimony which Fox tried to recant," he continued, "was given by him in three separate proceedings of record extending over a period of more than four years. Since Fox made his affidavit he has told me that he was sorry he did it—that he 'was just trying to help O'Neill out of a hole.' Within a period of two weeks before he made it he told four persons—Kenneth M. Spence of 60 Wall Street, counsel for the Bar Association; myself, and two employes of the New Haven Railroad—that he had been offered $5,000 to make such an affidavit.

"Fox was injured in the Fairfield wreck. For the New Haven I settled the case with O'Neill for Fox, his client. O'Neill tried to get half the amount of the settlement instead of one-third. I went into court for Fox and forced O'Neill to give back that money to him. Judge Learned Hand, who heard the case, said that it was our duty to bring disbarment proceedings against O'Neill and that, if we didn't, he himself would complain against him.

"We then went before the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association and Fox gave the same testimony he gave before Judge Hand. The committee in turn became prosecutor in going before the Appellate Division with disbarment proceedings. When Mr. Friedman was appointed referee to take the testimony in that proceeding Fox, for a third time, gave the same testimony.

"I do not know what we shall do about it. I feel that Fox is just a weakling, yet it seems that he ought to be prosecuted for perjury."

STARVING AIRMEN FOUND; WANDERED 10 DAYS IN MEXICO

Bishop and Robertson of Army Saved from Death South of Wellton, Ariz.

WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER

Officers Lived Since Jan. 10 on Only Two Sandwiches and a Couple of Oranges.

DRAINED MOTOR RADIATOR

Lieutenant Colonel, Unable to Walk or Talk, Discovered Miles Away from Comrade.

WELLTON, Ariz., Jan. 19.—Lieutenant Colonel Harry G. Bishop and Lieutenant W. A. Robertson, missing army aviators, exhausted from walking four days in the wilds of Sonora, Mexico, without food or water, were found yesterday many miles south of here by a civilian searching party from Wellton.

Lieutenant Robertson was brought back here today by the searchers. Lieutenant Colonel Bishop, too weak to walk, was left under care of four searchers in the Rosario mountains, where he was found last night at 10 o'clock.

Two sandwiches and two oranges each was all the food the men had tasted since they left the North Island aviation base at San Diego, Cal., Jan. 10, on their flight, Lieutenant Robertson told the searchers. The only water they had was taken from the radiator of the airplane, and it was exhausted four days ago.

Robertson was found yesterday, thirty-two miles south of Wellton, and was following the tracks of the automobile of the searching party. He directed the searching party to the Rosario Mountains, thirty miles further south, where he said he left Bishop the day before. Bishop had become exhausted and unable to walk.

Bishop Unable to Talk.

Leaving Robertson under care of two of the searchers, other members of the party pressed southward and found Bishop lying upon the ground in a mountain pass. He was unable to talk and barely able to recognize the searchers.

Robertson said the members of the searching party were the first humans he had seen since he landed. He was unable to give exact information as to the district wherein the aeroplane landed.

The propeller of the airplane was broken, Robertson said, when he and Bishop made a landing about 12:30 P. M. Wednesday, Jan. 10. Enough gasoline for thirty minutes' flight remained in the tank. The aviators remained with the airplane until 4:30 that afternoon and then abandoned it, starting across the desert toward the mountains and heading north. They drained a gallon oil can and filled it with water from the radiator of their airplane. This they carried with them.

Lieutenant Robertson gave his story in detail tonight as follows:

"We left San Diego at 8:30 A. M., Jan. 10, intending to go across the mountains east to Calexico. Insufficient maps made it necessary to rely largely on compass reading. For this reason, to keep north of the Mexican border, we sailed a course 25 degrees north of east. I counted on this course putting me into the Imperial Valley well north of the border, and they having to sail south for about fifty miles.

"In order to cross the mountains it was necessary to travel high, averaging more than 7,000 feet. From this altitude it was impossible to detect a very strong north wind which I encountered in the mountains.

Thought He Saw Salton Sea.

"I then turned southeast. After about thirty minutes on this course I could see distinctly through a haze a large body of water we thought to be the Salton Sea. The only map of this section I had showed Salton Sea much too far south, so this confirmed my belief that I was right. As my gas was running low, my only course was to keep going further south in order to strike Calexico. Colonel Bishop thought this body of water to be the Salton Sea, so both of us were satisfied we were going the correct course.

"Neither Colonel Bishop nor myself could possibly figure on the drift of the machine. As it was hazy, it was impossible to pick out objects clearly. The strong north wind also made our rate of travel much faster than was figured on. When about thirty minutes of search was made for the Southern Pacific Railway, which I knew to by near Salton Sea, I decided to land and investigate. The landing was almost completed when the aircraft struck soft ground, and the plane tipped up. This was at 12:30 P. M., and I still thought we were at Salton Sea. We were only convinced of our error after close examination. We then decided on walking back to the Imperial Valley.

"We put one gallon of water from the radiator in an extra oil can, and with a light luncheon started northwest. That was at 4:30 P. M. Jan. 10. We kept a northwest course, traveling by night and day. Our water gave out Sunday, Jan. 14. By that time Colonel Bishop was so weak our progress was slow. We agreed it would be wise to separate when we could travel no further, and take the only available course, I to continue on and send back aid if possible.

"This I did at daybreak Wednesday the 17th. I kept to the northwest, and at daybreak on the 18th found a trail of one of the rescuing parties. Following this trail, I caught the party about 9 A. M. Thursday. They immediately set out to find Colonel Bishop, and, following my directions, they found him about 9 P. M., Jan. 18. He was too weak to move, but still conscious. It was necessary to leave him quiet for a few hours until he could recover his strength. I was brought here by automobile this afternoon, leaving Colonel Bishop in care of the rescuing parties, who consolidated."

Munitions Plant Close to London Blows Up; "Considerable Loss of Life" Is Admitted

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 20.—This official communication was issued late last night:

"The Ministry of Munitions regrets to announce that an explosion occurred this evening at a munitions factory in the neighborhood of London.

"It is feared that the explosion was attended by a considerable loss of life and damage to property."

In a recent description by Hall Caine, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES, of a visit to Woolwich Arsenal, which lies seven miles east-southeast of the heart of London, the statement was made that the arsenal itself had become the centre of numberless workshops, all engaged in feeding the arms reservoir. Within the arsenal, he said, were employed 50,000 male workers and 17,000 female, while in the factories outside 30,000 workers were employed, most of them women.

Commenting on the danger of explosion, Mr. Caine wrote of his view of a section of the arsenal, where women were completing the work on shells:

"A Zeppelin might drop a bomb on this noiseless place without doing much mischief. But what of the peril within itself, and the courage required to work in it? We walk along our causeway until we come to one of the detached wooden huts. The door is open (for fresh air is wanted) and electric light is streaming out of it.

"A dozen women are sitting within at two oblong tables, weighing and measuring out in little brass scales, like a chemist's, with all the care of apothecaries small quantities of black, green, yellow, and blueish powder, (which recall in their volcanic coloring the lakes of Kruisivik and the pits of Caltanasetta,) and then pouring them into the open mouths of half empty shells that stand upright by their sides.

"They talk very little—indeed, hardly at all. Perhaps their work requires all their attention; perhaps their spirits are under the spell of the deadly things they are dealing with. Some of them are wearing over their mouths and nostrils light green veils that are like the veils of Arab women inverted; others, in their indifference to danger, have tucked their respirators into their waistbands, and are working with nostrils and mouths exposed.

"It is not for long we can bear to look on a scene like this, so fearfully charged with spiritual as well as physical tragedy, and when we step back to the causeway outside we breathe more freely."

ROCKEFELLER BOARD TO REVISE EDUCATION

Teachers College Selected as Place for Experiment in Modern Learning.

NO MORE LATIN AND GREEK

"Three Rs" and Modern Languages Will Be Taught in Way to Shatter Old Theories.

The General Education Board announced yesterday that it has decided to support an experiment in the education of the youth of this country, which, if successful, will mean practically the complete modernization of elementary and secondary schooling. The plan calls for a practical demonstration of the theories advocated by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, and of Dr. Abraham Flexner of the board.

Teachers College, Columbia University, is the institution which has been selected for carrying out the far-reaching experiment, and the amount of money behind it is, as a member of the board expressed it yesterday, "whatever it costs."

Inasmuch as the resources of the General Education Board are about $35,000,000, provided by John D. Rockefeller, the financial question is a subordinate one.

The Director of the school, which will begin its first session next Fall, is Dr. Otis W. Caldwell of the University of Chicago, who is to become a member of the Teachers College Faculty as Professor of Education. As Dr. Flexner explained the proposition yesterday, the experiment marks a real trying-out of the "modern school" idea which is, he added, "a school which will strive to eliminate the deadwood, the lumber and the slack in education in the primary and secondary courses of instruction, and give a stimulus to natural and scientific instruction, so that the curriculum may be better adapted to the needs of modern life."

In the "modern school," as contemplated by the board, Greek and Latin will have no part, and their places will be taken by French, German, and Spanish. Science will be emphasized in everything, it being the view of the board "that modern education has not begun to realize the benefit of modern science." The students who will be matriculated next Fall will be boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 18 years.

To Reorganize Education.

The statement issued by the General Education Board from its offices at 61 Broadway yesterday reads:

> The General Education Board announces that it will provide Teachers College of Columbia University with the funds necessary to establish and conduct a school for the purpose of constructive work in the reorganization of elementary and secondary education. The keen and extended discussion of President Eliot's paper on "Changes Needed in Secondary Education" and Abraham Flexner's paper on "The Modern School" have convinced the General Education Board of the importance of supporting a school conducted in co-operation with Teachers College for the purpose of working out cautious experimentation, suggested improvements in the curriculum, so that it may be better adapted to the needs of modern life than is the curriculum now in common use.
>
> The organization of the school under the auspices of Teachers College insures the careful study of every experiment by the Faculty of Teachers College, many of whom are among the ablest critics of educational procedure in the world. This arrangement will make for carefully considered and continuous progress toward the goal for which the school is established. A number of colleges have already expressed interest in the undertaking, and it is hoped that academic co-operation will be obtained.
>
> In the curriculum modern languages will be stressed and experiments will be made with a view to determining what methods of teaching English, French, and German give the most substantial practical results. New methods of teaching literature, history, and civics will be tried, and in this connection efforts will be made to ascertain whether the important ancient classics cannot be effectively used in translations. Latin and Greek as languages will not be taught in the school. Science, industry, and the domestic arts will be prominent throughout the school, and increased attention will be given to music, drawing, and art. The subject of mathematics will receive special consideration in the hope of working out a rational course of study which connects the study of mathematics with its use, and which also makes adequate provision for those who have special ability or desire for this subject.
>
> Organized recreation, play, and games will be provided for. Constant efforts will be made by means of individual, class, and school excursions, by means of pictures, lantern slides, charts, maps, shop and laboratory, special reading matter, and discussions to give the pupils sufficient contact with their natural, industrial, social, economic, vocational, and domestic environment so as to derive the basis for their school work from real situations, and thus make school work constantly real to them. The school will frankly discard that theory of education known as "formal discipline," and will undertake to secure training through the careful and thorough study of subjects which are in themselves valuable. It is believed that a much more effective discipline can be thus secured.

Praise for Professor Caldwell.

The Director of the school will be Professor Otis W. Caldwell, now head of the Department of Natural Sciences in the School of Education of the University of Chicago. Before becoming a member of the Faculty of the University of Chicago

PERSHING REPORTED WITHDRAWING MEN

American Troops at El Valle and San Joaquin, Mexico, Coming North.

ALL TO MARCH IN 72 HOURS?

No Formal Announcement in Washington, but Action Was to Foretell Step.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 19.—It was unofficially reported by army officers today that actual withdrawal operations were under way among General Pershing's troops at El Valle, the southern outpost of the punitive expedition in Mexico, and at San Joaquin, between El Valle and the field headquarters at Colonia Dublan. Predictions that the entire expedition would begin its march to Columbus, N. M., within the next seventy-two hours were made by army officers.

All supplies billed to Americans in the Casas Grandes-Colonia Dublan district and sent to Juarez for transportation over the Mexico Northwestern Railroad have been ordered held at Juarez, and no further shipments of supplies will be made over this road for the punitive expedition.

Arrangements were also being made in Juarez today for sending all available freight cars to Casas Grandes to bring out the stocks of goods and surplus supplies from the stores of the American Mormons and others who have been supplying the American troops in Mexico.

The dispatching of four empty motor truck trains of thirty trucks each from Columbus in the last twenty-four hours was taken here to mean early withdrawal. The pitching of a number of large tents at Columbus for housing equipment, ordnance, merchandise, and other army stores also was considered an indication of the early withdrawal and arrival of the expeditionary column at the field base.

General Pershing's troops will be disposed along the border with headquarters at El Paso and San Antonio, according to reports here and in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, N. M., Jan. 19.—One hundred and seventy empty motor trucks have left the field base here in the last twenty-four hours for General Pershing's field headquarters in Mexico. They would return with excess supplies from the camps along the communication line, it was said.

Large tents are being pitched here to store supplies and other field equipment of the expedition. An early movement of the expeditionary forces was predicted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Formal announcement of orders for withdrawal of the American expedition in Mexico was still lacking tonight, though there was no disposition in official quarters to doubt the dispatches from the border indicating that the movement of Pershing's men northward already was under way. President Wilson has approved the plan to bring the troops out, and there have been plain intimations that action would precede any further statement on the subject.

All details of the withdrawal are understood to have been left to General Pershing, and General Funston already has worked out his plans for distributing the 10,000 or 12,000 men in the expedition among strategic points along the border. As soon as these regulars are available, the homeward movement of National Guardsmen still doing border patrol service will begin. The plan has been to relieve a large part of the guardsmen, if not all of them, immediately.

Withdrawal of the Pershing expedition was one of the recommendations of the American members of the now defunct American-Mexican Joint Commission. It has been advocated for a long time by army officers, who have insisted that the troops were doing no good where they were, and, what was worse, were in a poor strategic position in case of an attack.

Apparently there is no certainty about when the other step proposed by the Commissioners, the dispatch of Ambassador Fletcher to his post at Mexico City, will be carried out. This would mean establishing full diplomatic relations with the de facto Government, and it may be delayed until better conditions are restored in Mexico and Carranza's attitude is more satisfactory.

REGULATES THE PRESIDENCY.

Mexican Congress Adopts One-Term Restriction with Others.

QUERETARO, Mexico, Jan. 19.—The articles in the new Constitution dealing with the Presidency have been approved by the Constitutional Assembly, except the article which provides that the President cannot have been in the active service of the Government for ninety days before election. This article was set aside with the understanding that it be voted on with a supplemental article explaining that the provision did not apply to the coming elections because of the peculiar status of General Carranza, the First Chief of the Constitutional Army.

The articles approved provide that the President must be a native-born Mexican more than 35 years of age; have lived in the country a year before election, with no official connection with any religious sect and be not a minister of any sect, and that he be ineligible for re-election.

A man chosen to fill an unexpired term cannot be elected for a succeeding term, and an Acting President cannot be elected for a succeeding term if he is in office sixty days before election.

Congress must choose a President in the event of death or absence or a vacancy from other causes, and if Congress is not in session a permanent commission shal choose a President ad interim until Congress can assemble.

YARROWDALE TAKEN INTO GERMAN PORT; PRIZE CREW OF 16 LANDS 469 PRISONERS; NEWS KEPT SECRET FOR THREE WEEKS

Hear Raider Is Lurking in Gulf of Mexico To Sink British Oil Ships; Sailings Canceled

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19.—Persistent rumors are coming from Vera Cruz that the German commerce raider is now in the Gulf of Mexico.

It is expected in Vera Cruz, the reports add, that the raider will make an effort to cut off the oil ships en route from the Tampico fields for England. There is no confirmation of the rumors here.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—Since confirmed news of the operations of the German commerce raider was received two days ago not a ship of the belligerent nations has passed out of the Virginia Capes from this port for Europe.

In the meantime nearly twenty-five ships have come in, bringing the total in port up to seventy-one. Many of the ships have been forced to anchor in midstream because of the lack of wharfage to accommodate all. The majority of the vessels here fly the British flag.

GERMAN CITIES IN FOOD STRAITS

Speaker in Prussian Diet, Admitting Grievous Conditions, Calls for Rural Help.

ALL PRICES EXORBITANT

Dr. von Heydebrand Hopes Entente Reply to Us Will Rouse Germans to Their Peril.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 20.—Dispatches from the Continent reveal some new phases of the lively debate in the Prussian Diet on Thursday, when vital topics, such as the food supply and increased submarine warfare, were freely discussed.

A Reuter Amsterdam dispatch quotes striking passages from the speech of Dr. von Heydebrand, the Conservative leader, in reference to food. At one point Dr. Heydebrand said:

"Our economic situation is rich in deprivations and sacrifices. We may calmly state this, because it is known abroad what we are now compelled to demand from our population."

Then, says the correspondent, after asserting that the rural populations must make greater sacrifices than previously, Dr. Heydebrand added:

"The rural population is not yet imbued with the consciousness of the needs of this great time. The reply of the Entente Powers to President Wilson ought to be placarded in all communes, so that the people may recognize what will confront them if the war is lost.

"The town populations are suffering grievously. It is sad to see how long women have to wait for a couple of potatoes, and how, for the simplest of necessaries, town dwellers must pay absolutely exorbitant prices. These prices must also continue for a long time after the war."

Against Heeding Neutral Interests.

Another Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says that at the opening of the Diet session a demand that neutral interests shall not be allowed to interfere with Germany's struggle for victory was made by Herr Friedberg, leader of the National Liberal Party, who was one of several speakers who urged a vigorous prosecution of the war and increased submarine activity. He said:

"We must expect from every neutral that he do not lay stress on his own interests where for us it is a fight for existence. Such interests must not prevent us from gaining a peace that will satisfy German aspirations and safeguard the world from new and similar catastrophes."

Paul Breitenbach, Minister of Public Works, said:

"The gigantic events of the war necessarily affect State machinery. The Government and Parliament must come to an understanding and a settlement, but there can be no question that the entire State machinery needs a fundamental change. We demand that everybody does his utmost for the fulfillment of his duty in order to help our armies to victory."

Government Is Criticised.

BERLIN, Thursday, Jan. 18, (via London, Jan. 19.)—The Prussian Diet took upon itself today the rôle of critic of the Government, which the Reichstag at its latest session refrained from doing. Nevertheless the prediction which was heard yesterday that the session would be marked by very vigorous attacks on Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg turned out to be incorrect.

The speech of Dr. von Heydebrand, who is associated with the Centrist and National-Liberal parties, in favor of a less restricted use of submarines, was far more moderate than on earlier occasions and was not characterized by attacks on the United States.

It was a subject of comment that even Dr. von Heydebrand demanded unrestricted submarine warfare only at such time as the Emperor and Field Marshal von Hindenburg found it to be advisable. He said:

"If we are to win a victory, it is absolutely imperative to use the weapons which gives us the possibility of winning a victory against the toughest and strongest adversary, England. * * * If our military authorities, the higher command, and the Emperor find it suitable and timely to make the necessary use of unlimited submarine warfare, the German and Prussian people will be prepared to bear the consequences."

Paul Breitenbach, Minister of Public Works and the Chancellor's second in the Prussian Cabinet, said in a carefully worded declaration in behalf of the Government:

"This grave and difficult epoch requires ever-renewed discussion of what ways and means are to be adopted."

He added, however, that he thought that any expression of the Government's views at present was undesirable. Responsibility for decisions, he said, rested on the Chancellor, and he appealed to the patriotism of the House to support his difficult task by refraining from criticism of his policy—an appeal which the proceedings showed to be unnecessary.

WASHINGTON GETS NEWS OF RAIDER

Official Dispatches from Brazil Announce That She Armed the St. Theodore.

NINE AMERICANS LANDED

Consuls' Reports Account for Capture or Destruction of Seventeen Vessels.

The St. Theodore a Raider; British Send Out Warning

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 19.—The British authorities have issued a warning to shipping companies that the captured British steamer St. Theodore has been converted into a German commerce raider and is cruising along the Atlantic steamship routes.

Secret instructions have been given to the companies regarding routes to be followed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The British steamer St. Theodore, captured by the German sea raider, for which Entente warships have been combing the Atlantic since early in December, has been armed by her captors and manned by a German naval prize crew, and is now operating as an auxiliary cruiser in the Atlantic.

Information to this effect reached the State Department late this afternoon in a cablegram from one of its representatives at Rio de Janeiro. Thus it is officially established that there are at least two vessels under German naval control now roaming the Atlantic and preying on merchant shipping.

The cablegram to the State Department from Rio de Janeiro brought quick confirmation of the statement made in a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning that the present German raider was arming some of its captive ships.

It was intimated here last night, and so printed in THE TIMES this morning, that both the Theodore and the Yarrowdale had been armed by the raider. The Rio dispatch confirms this so far as the St. Theodore is concerned. On the basis of his message the State Department gave out this official statement late this afternoon:

"The department is advised by telegram from Rio de Janeiro that it is stated there that the captured steamer St. Theodore has been armed with two guns and a German crew put on board, and that the vessel is now operating as an auxiliary cruiser in the Atlantic."

Earlier dispatches from Rio printed in American newspapers yesterday morning indicated that passengers and crews of some of the captured vessels had been placed on board the Yarrowdale. An official dispatch to the State Department today announced that on Dec. 12 a prize crew and 440 persons captured from various steamers had been transferred from the raider to the Yarrowdale. This information was obtained from survivors.

Nine Americans Landed.

The State Department this morning gave out two telegrams regarding the operations of the raider, and incidentally disclosed that one of the dispatches had been in the possession of the Government since Wednesday, although its contents were not made known to the public until today. Both these messages came from James B. Stewart, the American Vice Consul at Pernambuco, Brazil. The first was dated Rio, Jan. 16, and was received at the State Department on Jan. 17. It read:

"Crews of St. Theodore, Dramatist, Radnorshire, Minieh, Netherby Hall, Nantes, and Asnieres arrived today. Several Americans. Reported no lives lost."

The second dispatch from Vice Consul Stewart, dated Jan. 18, and received early this morning, read:

"Hudson Maru brought 237 of St. Theodore's crew. List shows Americans: Ben Stevens, Royal Gregory, Frank Magee, David Johnson, E. Judy, all colored, and Fred Smith, Harry Picot, and Guy Vandoren. Minieh shows Charlie Jones. No Americans on other vessels named. All nine safe here. Survivors state that Yarrowdale, Georgic, Mount Temple, Voltaire, Snowden Range, King George, one English schooner, and one Norwegian were captured to Dec. 12, when prize crew and 440 were placed on Yarrowdale and not heard from since."

These two dispatches account for thirteen captured Entente vessels by name, besides an unnamed English schooner and an unnamed Norwegian vessel. In the list is the name of the steamer Snowden Range, which has not been included in the previously printed total of twenty-

ARRIVED IN PORT DEC. 31

Prisoners Came from One Norwegian and Seven British Ships.

103 NEUTRALS HELD CAPTIVE

These Were Taken from Three British Merchantmen That Carried Guns.

VALUABLE CARGOES SUNK

Wheat, Flour, Ammunition, Motors, and Steel Bars from America on Captured Ships.

BERLIN, Jan. 19, (via Amsterdam, to London, Jan. 20, 1:30 A. M.)—The British steamer Yarrowdale was brought into harbor on Dec. 31 as a prize by a prize crew of sixteen men, says an official statement issued tonight. She carried 469 prisoners, the crews of steamers captured by a German auxiliary cruiser in the Atlantic Ocean.

The prisoners on the Yarrowdale were from one Norwegian and seven British vessels. The cargoes of the captured vessels, the statement adds, consisted principally of war materials for the Entente Allies and foodstuffs. Three of the vessels sunk were armed British merchantmen.

The bringing in of the Yarrowdale, the statement continues, had been kept secret for military reasons, but in view of the statement of the British Admiralty on Jan. 17, it was decided to make the news public. The prize crew of the Yarrowdale was commanded by Deputy Officer Badewitz.

The official statement follows:

"The English steamer Yarrowdale, of 5,600 tons, was brought into harbor on the 31st of December as a prize by a prize crew of sixteen men. She had aboard 469 prisoners, namely the crews of one Norwegian and seven English ships which were captured by one of our auxiliary cruisers in the Atlantic Ocean.

"The cargoes of the captured vessels consisted principally of war material for our enemies from America and foodstuffs, including 6,000 tons of wheat, 2,000 tons of flour, and 1,900 horses. The Yarrowdale had on board 117 motor lorries, one motor car, 6,300 cases of rifle cartridges, 30,000 rolls of barbed wire, and 3,300 tons of steel bars, besides a large quantity of meat, bacon, and sausages.

"Of the vessels sunk three of the British were armed. Among the crews of the captured vessels are 103 subjects of neutral States, who, as well as enemy subjects, have been removed as prisoners of war in so far as they had taken pay on armed enemy vessels. The commander of the prize crew is Deputy Officer Badewitz.

"The bringing in of the Yarrowdale has been kept secret up to this time for military reasons, which, in view of the British Admiralty statement of Jan. 17, were no longer operative.

"It is noteworthy that the British Admiralty resolved to announce to the British public these losses, which date from some considerable time back, only when the losses were made known to the neutral world by the arrival of the Japanese prize, Hudson Maru, in a Brazilian harbor."

The British steamer Yarrowdale was last reported in shipping registers as having sailed from New York Dec. 4.

The steamer has been mentioned in the reports from the British Admiralty as among overdue vessels captured by the German raider in the South Atlantic Ocean, and as having been sent away by the raider with 400 men of the crews of sunken vessels, who were to be landed. Unofficial dispatches from Rio Janeiro also said the Yarrowdale had been used by the raider to land members of crews of ships sunk by the raider.

A dispatch from Rio Janeiro Thursday night said a report had been received there that the Yarrowdale arrived Jan.

16 at Sao Vicenti, (St. Vincent,) Cape Verde Islands, a Portuguese possession off the West African Coast.

While the Berlin dispatch does not mention the port into which the Yarrowdale was taken by the prize crew, it seems certain that it was a German port, as the official statement says that the 469 captives on board, including 103 neutrals "who had taken pay on armed enemy vessels," were removed as prisoners of war. In a neutral port such action would be impossible.

Oscar Cauchois, General Manager of the French Line in New York, said last night that the account given out in Berlin regarding the cargo of the Yarrowdale was practically correct. "She had altogether about 6,000 tons of cargo," Mr. Cauchois continued, "when she sailed from New York on Dec. 4, and we never heard of her afterward. So far as I can remember, the vessel carried a crew of about thirty-five men."

RAIDER EQUIPPED WITH FIVE CANNON

British Crew at Pernambuco Says She Also Has Four Torpedo Tubes; Skipper's Story.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 19.—Advices received here late tonight are that the crew of the British steamship Netherby Hall, arriving in Pernambuco, says that the German raider is equipped with five cannon and four torpedo tubes situated forward.

The Captain of the steamship Radnorshire, who also reached Pernambuco, said that he sailed from Bahia on Jan. 5 with a cargo of coffee consigned to London. In an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, he said:

"Safely out of the harbor of Bahia, I hugged the coast line, making almost due north. When, however, I was some 100 miles from Pernambuco the lookout sighted a strange vessel to the leeward. This was an evening in January—about 9 o'clock, I should say. It was a clear night and we could plainly distinguish the stranger, followed by another small ship, following us.

"I had been warned of the presence of suspicious ships in that lane and I did not wait to make a close scrutiny of the newcomers. I immediately ordered the crew up on deck and every man donned life belts.

Observed Navy Uniforms.

"When the bigger of the two ships was about a mile away," the Captain continued, "she signalled us to stop. We did so, and the vessel then dispatched two small boats to visit us. The boats were filled with German sailors, and among the crews I distinguished the uniform, here and there, of the German Imperial Navy.

"The small boats were commanded by a Sub-Lieutenant, and when he came aboard I asked him his intentions.

"He replied that he intended to sink the ship at once. In furtherance of this plan, he orderd us to get our belongings together, meantime asking me about our cargo. He apparently was suspicious of my replies, for he sent a subordinate down below to substantiate my answers.

"This man followed up his trip below by going over the ship's papers. He finally confiscated them and took with him manuscripts containing secret information which had been consigned to me for delivery at home. The lieutenant also appropriated our observation instruments and then, taking liberal supplies of coffee, sugar and other food, compelled us to leave our ship.

"Before the crew of the raider quit the vessel, however, they placed bombs throughout her. These bombs exploded eight minutes after we were aboard the raider and fragments of the superstructure of my ship fell upon the raider's decks.

"The Captain of the raider sought to extract from me information concerning the whereabouts of the steamship Araguaya, but I assured him that I knew nothing about the vessel. He appeared much vexed at this, and ordered me sent below with my crew.

"Down in the hold of the raider I found about 100 prisoners already confined, with only one officer in charge. There we were kept, huddled together under very trying conditions. Every day we were allowed fifteen minutes—not a minute more—on deck. This privilege, however, lasted only until Jan. 12, when we were transferred aboard the steamship Hudson Maru.

"On board the Hudson Maru we suffered keenly from lack of food. The supply doled out to us was entirely inadequate, and the best proof of how near the edge we were is seen in the fact that upon our arrival in Pernambuco we had eaten every bit of food aboard the vessel."

The Captain of the freighter Netherby Hall said that his capture was almost identical with the taking of the Radnorshire, but that very little of the cargo of his ship was taken aboard his captor.

The steamship Samara, fear for the safety of which has been expressed, arrived today at Rio, but the Garibaldi, which left Genoa on Dec. 22, is long overdue. The vessel has not been reported since she passed Gibraltar on Dec. 31. The ship, in ballast, is consigned to Santos.

BRITISH CRUISERS OUT ON TRAIL OF RAIDER

Six Leave Falkland Islands to Take Up Search—Suspect Secret Wireless Plant.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 19.—According to newspapers here six British cruisers have left the Falkland Islands in search of the German raider and to protect the shipping lane. The raider is believed here to be receiving wireless information from a Brazilian island.

Fifteen cruisers and armed ships are now searching the Southern Atlantic for the raider, according to reports received here.

The Uruguayan Government has dispatched a warship to guard the Uruguayan coast against possible neutrality violations.

The British cruiser Glasgow cast anchor today at Pernambuco after a long search of the northern coast of Brazil for the raider. The cruiser will put to sea immediately to continue her search.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 19.—It is reported from Pernambuco that a British squadron composed of the auxiliary cruisers Macedonia, Crama, and Edinburgh Castle has joined the light cruisers Amethyst and Glasgow in a search for the German commerce raiders. The total tonnage of the squadron is 36,000.

Except for the accounts brought to Pernambuco by survivors of vessels which had been sunk, no authentic information has been received here regarding the raider. Since she parted company with the Hudson Maru a week ago the raider has dropped out of sight and, so far as can be ascertained, is still at large.

Great anxiety is felt for the safety of various vessels in waters which are regarded as in the danger zone, and various reports of additional sinkings are current, but there is no indication that these stories have any substantial basis. The French merchantman Samara, 6,007 tons, which was reported to have been sunk, is safe and is due at Rio Janeiro this afternoon.

Reassuring reports have been received at Pernambuco in regard to the 8,000-ton British liner Ortega, which was on her way to Pernambuco and was feared to have fallen a victim to the raider. According to the reports in shipping circles the Ortega has reached safety, but her location is not announced.

From accounts given by men from the steamships, as published in the newspapers, it appears that the raider has a speed of about sixteen knots.

The crews of the French barks Nantes and Asnieres, which arrived at Pernambuco on board the Hudson Maru, took passage today on the Brazilian steamship Minas Geraes for Bahia, Brazil, where they will await a French steamship to take them home.

ALARM IN WEST INDIES.

Residents of British and French Ports Fear a Raid by Germans.

According to the Rev. J. Henry Cartwright of the English Wesleyan Missions Board, who arrived here yesterday on the steamship Parima from a tour of British and French ports in the West Indies, the natives are very much alarmed over the possibilities of an attack by German raiders.

The first reports of a raider were received at Trinidad just before Christmas, when the transport Magdalena was ready to leave with colored troops for England. After a consultation between the naval and military officials on the island, the troops were disembarked and the Magdalena sailed under escort for another port to load provisiosn for London.

"Lights in any of the coast towns are forbidden," Mr. Cartwright said, "and lighthouses and light buoys at the entance to the harbors have been put out of commission, and vessels leaving at night are warned to lookout for hostile craft."

The Parima flies the British flag, and on her way up the coast her wireless operator received several warnings from allied warships to look out for the German raider, and asking if any suspicious craft had been sighted.

PROOF OF TWO RAIDERS.

Shipping Men Say Area of Operations Is Too Great for One.

Ship Captains, naval reserve officers, and steamship agents generally were of the opinion yesterday that the fact of there being more than one German raider at large had been proved by the sinking of a steamship south of the equator within eight days after the Samland had sighted a raider on Dec. 4 in 47 north latitude, about 600 miles west of the Fastnet. It would have been an impossibility, they said, for any vessel to have covered the distance in the time.

The lists of vessels reported sunk or captured, which has been received from South American ports, is regarded as somewhat inaccurate. The underwriters and members of the New York Maritime Exchange are eagerly awaiting further information from reliable sources. Several of the insurance firms have cabled to Rio Janeiro, Pernambuco, and Buenos Aires for confirmation of the sinking or capture of steamships they are interested in.

The officers of the steamship Somerset, which arrived yesterday from Halifax reported that on Jan. 10 the operator picked up the following message: "German raider sighted; 359 feet long, 45 feet beam, one broad funnel, straight beam, in latitude 48.25, longitude 27.28."

This position would be about 1,500 west of Ushant, and north of the Azores. The operator on the Somerset could not identify the vessel which had sent out the warning.

DEMANDS RUTHLESS WAR.

We Fear God and Nothing Else, Including America, Says Baron.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 20.—The Daily Mail says this morning:

"The Reventlow-Tirpitz Zeppelin press is ardently acclaiming a speech, which Baron von Maltzahn, a Pomeranian junker, and member of the Diet, made at Stralsund. The Baron appealed for a ruthless U-boat war on England, regardless of the possibility of war with the United States. He said: 'Our war on England is a tonnage war.' To put a stop to Great Britain's food supply he called for the immediate establishment of a war zone around the British Isles and the sinking of every ship which dared to enter it. He went on:

"'We Germans fear God and nothing else in the world, including America. The war has become a struggle between Continental Europe and the English-American food trust system.'

"According to another report of the speech, Baron von Maltzahn said:

"'It is possible that America will join in the war against us. There is no doubt that America desires our defeat.'" three vessels reported as having fallen victim to the raider.

WASHINGTON GETS NEWS OF RAIDER

According to Vice Consul Stewart's messages, three of the captured vessels were not sunk. These were the Japanese steamer Hudson Maru, which sailed from Bombay on Nov. 27 for Philadelphia; the St. Theodore, which sailed on Dec. 5 from Norfolk for Savona, and the Yarrowdale, which sailed from New York on Dec. 4 for Havre. The Vice Consul states that the Hudson Maru brought 237 of the St. Theodore's crew to Brazil.

The Rio dispatch received at the State Department today says that the St. Theodore has been converted into a raider, while the Vice Consul's dispatch says a prize crew and 440 were placed on board the Yarrowdale on Dec. 12 and that this vessel had not been heard from.

Strike at Nitrate Supply.

In attacking vessels bound from Panama via the Azores, the German Admiralty is seeking, it is understood, to strike at the shipment of war supplies, particularly those hauling Chilean nitrates to the Entente Powers, and thus, if possible, cut down British and French sources of powder supply.

The problem of the Entente navies in dealing with these raiders will, it is contended in well-informed naval quarters here, prove no easy task. It was recalled tonight that more than a year ago, in earlier stages of the war, when eight or nine German cruisers were at large in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans, the combined British, Japanese, French and Russian navies dispatched not fewer than seventy naval cruisers, exclusive of auxiliary cruisers, in search of them.

Months passed before the last of the earlier German corsairs were driven from the high seas. These figures are taken from a British Admiralty announcement issued at the time through the British Ambassy at Washington.

Navy officers and other navigation experts say that so long as the German raiders are able to elude capture they can maintain themselves indefinitely in the vicinity of the Azorean cross roads of the Atlantic between Europe and the Western Hemisphere. Coal and provisions in abundance are obtainable from most of the ships captured.

The present raider, like the Möwe, is believed to be plentifully equipped with mines for use against Entente shipping. The Möwe is known to have been so equipped. Her mines were strewn around the British coast and it is the German contention that the British dreadnought King Edward VII. struck one of these Möwe mines and was blown up.

Whether the Moewe or the present raiders are dropping mines on the high seas away from the British coast is not known. It would be contrary to The Hague Convention to strew the high seas with such mines unless they were adjusted so as to become harmless a short period after being launched.

The exploits of such vessels as the Moewe and the present raiders are believed to be part of the German naval policy trying gradually to wear down the British Navy to the point where it might be successfully attacked by the remains of the German High Seas Fleet.

International Law Involved.

Despite the intense interest with which the raider's work is being followed here, official dispatches do not as yet indicate that American rights have been violated in any way or that the commerce destroyer has exceeded her privileges under international law.

Questions of international law are involved, however, in the conversion of a merchantman into a commerce destroyer on the high seas. The United States, as well as Great Britain, has refused to recognize the legality of such conversion. If American ships are sunk by such converted vessels or American cargo on other ships it lost it is expected that this country would press claims against Germany for damages.

Germany, however, together with the other Continental nations, has maintained the legality of conversion at sea. An attempt was made at the Second Hague Conference to reach an agreement on the subject, but the small navy nations refused to accept the Anglo-American contention.

The attitude of the South American nations is being watched with particular interest here, as it is recognized that the raider's exploits have stirred public opinion there to as great a degree as did the exploits of the U-53 here. A practical blockade of many ports, a jump in insurance rates, and crippling of a highly prosperous foreign trade are the results facing the South Americans.

POINCARE SAYS WAR BINDS US TO FRANCE

President Thinks Struggle Has Strengthened the Bond Between the Two Republics.

COMMENTS ON PEACE NOTE

Expresses Appreciation of It, but Insists Conflict Itself Must Decide Issues of Future.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—President Poincaré has received Edward Marshall, an American newspaper writer, at the Palace of the Elysée and talked with him in regard to President Wilson's note and the reply of the Allies. The crux of the interview appears in these words of the President:

"We are condemned to continue the war until we—our gallant allies and ourselves—can obtain the reparations and guarantees rendered indispensable by the aggressions of which we have been the victims, by the sacrifices to which we have subjected ourselves, and by the losses which we have suffered."

"May I tell America that France is our friend, even though we are not fighting with her?" the American visitor asked.

"The United States of America and France are closely united by ineffaceable common recollections, by the same political traditions, by the same attachment to free institutions," said President Poincaré. "This war, which Germany unloosed upon Europe and which France did everything to avoid, could not alter the good relations between the United States and France. It has even made them closer and strengthened them.

"The United States," M. Poincaré continued, "has remained neutral, but the sympathies of individuals in every section have manifested themselves in favor of France and her allies. We have been deeply moved by innumerable demonstrations of friendship. There never has been a day since soon after the beginning of the war on which I have not personally received from America a voluminous mail containing generous offerings for our invaded populations, for our war widows, and our war orphans. The letters which accompany these tributes emanate from all social classes and often are expressed in very moving words. Other letters bring to me warm wishes for the victory of France. Your great country surely understands that we, the Allies, are fighting not only for our own independence and our own national honor, but for a much wider cause, which goes further than the boundaries of our own interests. We are fighting for the rights of the individual and for the liberty of peoples.

Belgium the Symbol of the War.

"The violation of Belgium brings out the symbolical significance of this whole war. Germany was not satisfied with declaring war upon us without provocation. She had willed to butcher us without warning, and to attain that end she trampled under her feet in passing a little innocent people. This is enough evidence by which to judge the responsibilities of our enemies; it is enough to define the nature of the struggle in which we are engaged. The United States has made no mistake about this."

"Are you willing to make some comment with regard to President Wilson's note?" the correspondent asked.

"Knowing, as we do, the feelings of America, we have not failed to understand the thought which inspired the recent initiative of President Wilson," M. Poincaré replied. "We were at once convinced that in the mind of the illustrious President the suggestion made to the belligerents was in accord with the traditional friendship between our two nations. But being conscious that we are fighting for mankind, we find ourselves without the right to lay down our weapons before we can sign a peace really humane, that is to say, founded upon principles which would make it workable and lasting, which would be consistent with the rights of nations and which would spare the world from the repetition of such a terrible catastrophe as this war. Unhappily it is certain that Germany, who pretends now to consider herself victorious, although she can hardly entertain any doubt as to the end, is not ripe as yet for such a necessary peace. We, therefore, are condemned to continue the war until we—our gallant allies and ourselves—can obtain the reparations and guarantees rendered indispensable by the aggression of which we have been the victims, by the sacrifices to which we have subjected ourselves, and by the losses which we have suffered.

"The answer which the allied nations collectively have just given to President Wilson is perfectly clear in this respect. For our part we have nothing to conceal. We were attacked. We are defending ourselves. But we are not willing to be obliged to defend ourselves perpetually against fresh attacks. Therefore we are determined to have reparations for the past and guarantees for the future."

Must Have Permanent Peace.

"You feel that the President was justified in putting to the belligerent powers the questions which he asked?" the correspondent inquired.

"It will not be from our side," said President Poincaré, "that will come any repulse of the generous ideas of President Wilson regarding the international agreements to be concluded as soon as the peace is signed in order to assure respect for the pledges given. On the contrary, we very willingly shall associate ourselves with his noble intentions. But in order that such understandings later may produce their full, beneficient effect, we must begin by restoring the right violated and by protecting Europe against a peace which would contain the germ of further outrages."

The correspondent asked President Poincaré whether France felt the return of her lost provinces, Alsace and Lorraine, as well as the restoration of Belgium, essential to the conclusion of a satisfactory peace.

"In our reply," said President Poincaré, "we also have spoken of the restitution of provinces torn away in the past by main strength or separated from us against the will of their inhabitants. Note this, that during forty-four years France has strangled the pain which her old wounds have caused her. In 1871 Germany took from her Alsace and Lorraine, against the unanimous wish of the inhabitants. Whatever may have been the burning regret which she felt for this, France never would have been willing to make a war of revenge. We know too well, alas, what a war must cost humanity. Instead, we waited, taking care to avoid all occasions for conflict. France proved herself patient and resigned. She endured provocations such as that of Agadir and many others. But today, when war has been declared upon her without just motives; today, when her blood has been poured out through the fault of others, how could she fail to claim vindication founded upon right and justice? President Wilson and the people of the United States certainly will understand the high moral import of the answer of the Allies."

FOUR NEUTRAL SHIPS SUNK.

Two Spanish Steamers Among the New Victims of Submarines.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Three neutral steamers were reported destroyed by submarines in dispatches received by Lloyd's shipping agency today. The vessels were the Valle, Spanish; the Dagmar, Danish, and the Bergenhus, Norwegian.

The Bergenhus, of 3,606 tons, was last reported at Gibraltar on Dec. 21 on her way from Genoa for Baltimore.

MADRID, Jan. 19, (via Paris, Jan. 19.)—The Spanish steamer Manuel, 2,419 tons, of Billao has been sunk by a submarine. The crew was rescued by the Swedish steamer Karl.

BERLIN, Jan. 19, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—A German submarine, commanded by Lieutenant Captain Wuensche, says the Overseas News Agency, on its last trip sank sixteen ships, aggregating 2[illegible]00 gross tons.

CABINET CHANGES PUZZLE RUSSIANS

Continuous Procession of Functionaries Passes Through the Various Ministries.

TALK OF ENDING THE DUMA

Rumors of Its Impending Dissolution for Good Commented On by Petrograd Paper.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 18, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—It is difficult to penetrate the mists of Russian politics and distinguish the various figures in that long procession of functionaries and dignitaries which constitutes the changing scene of the Russian Cabinet. It is difficult, too, to suggest any explanation of the changes, and it would be a superfluous effort to analyze the ultimate causes. All that can be done is to register events as they come. Any prediction is entirely out of the question. The Russian papers in their New Year articles frankly express their inability to read the riddle of the future.

The general position is roughly as follows: M. Protopopoff is firmly established as Minister of the Interior, or Home Secretary. His chief assistant is General Kurloff, a former official of the secret police, who has, so far as is known, no formal official position in the Ministry, but appears on various occasions as M. Protopopoff's representative. The official Assistant Ministers of the Interior, or Under Secretaries, live in the realm of flitting shadows, and one of them, Prince Volkonsky, a former deputy, who still commands the respect of his onetime Duma colleagues, has just resigned.

In contrast with the firmness of M. Protopopoff's position the other departments of the Government display a pronouncedly mobile tendency. There is the new Premier, a Prince Galitzin, not the Prince Galitzin who a few weeks ago made a noteworthy speech in the Council of the Empire, but another gentleman of the same name who is unknown outside the circle of his intimate friends. The new Minister of Ways and Communications in place of M. Trepoff is M. Kriegervoinovsky, and in this Ministry again an Assistant Minister has resigned.

Count Ignatieff, who as Minister of Education enjoyed unexampled popularity and who since his resignation has received over 1,000 messages of sympathy and esteem, has been succeeded by M. Kulehitsky, a protégé of the former Minister, M. Casso. There is change, too, in the Ministry of Justice. M. Makanoff, who was a rigid legalist of the old school, has been succeeded after a short tenure of office by Senator Dobrovolsky, whose past affords a guarantee that he will carry out in his judicial sphere the principles of the present régime. Here again an Under-Secretary has resigned.

M. Bark, Minister of Finance, has taken two months' leave of absence, though fortunately the state of his health gives no ground for great anxiety. Some papers reported that M. Bark had resigned, but this rumor is contradicted. Today it is announced that War Minister Shuvaieff has resigned and been succeeded by General Belaieff, former Chief of the General Staff, who last year paid a visit to England and France.

In the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Under Secretary Neratoff, has been transferred to the Council of the Empire, but he is provisionally carrying on the duties of his department pending the appointment of his successor. M. Popkrovsky is still in office, so far as is known, but he is said to be suffering from influenza.

The Novoe Vremya complains of the prevalence of wild rumors and instances reports of the impending dissolution of the Duma for good and all. No strong Government, it says, would try such a precipitate measure as the complete suppressing of a patriotic parliament in war time. The Novoe Vremya attributes the prevalence of these rumors to the enforced silence of the press, but it should be noted that dissolution is vociferously demanded by the subsidized organ, Metshchinina.

ASSERT ALLIES SEEK TO ELIMINATE KAISER

Dr. Morton Prince Declares Terms, Not Given to Wilson, Include Wilhelm's Downfall.

Peace terms which the Allies did not give to President Wilson provide for the literal elimination of the Kaiser as the absolute ruler of Germany, according to Dr. Morton Prince of Boston, who said in an address under the auspices of the American Fund for French Wounded at the old Colony Club Building yesterday afternoon that "The German Kaiser, the felon and bully of Europe, must go." He declared that President Wilson did not represent the attitude of the American people when he said that the United States was not concerned in the causes or aims of the war.

Dr. Prince, who is an uncle of Norman Prince, killed while serving as an aviator for France, said that this country had much at stake because the theory of government back of those fighting the Kaiser was the same as that on which this Government was founded. That the Allies knew that Germany militarism must be crushed, or the battle would have to be fought all over again, he gave as the motive of their determination not to make peace until the Kaiser and what he stood for were in the dust. He predicted exile for the Kaiser or establishment in Germany of a democratic Government that would destroy Wilhelm's autocratic power.

Dr. Prince recounted the action of the late Admiral Dewey, who he said put and end to the Germans' proposed interference at Manila Bay by threatening to fire on the German ships. The English fleet under Admiral Chichester then drew up with Dewey's ships. He also praised President Roosevelt for warning Germany in 1902 to withdraw her ships from the Venezuelan coast in ten days, and then after seven days had passed, telling the German Ambassador at Washington that the limit had been cut to nine days. The German ships withdrew in thirty-six hours.

"But," Dr. Prince continued, "in 1898 and in 1902 we did not have a pusillanimous administration. It is known that the Kaiser said that if he had had a bigger fleet at Manila he would have 'taken Uncle Sam by the scruff of the neck.'

"The Allies hope to rid the world of the House of Hohenzollern, and if they do, they will get the thanks of the world. The determination to do this is one of the 'details' of their peace terms, which they told President Wilson could not now be known."

Discussing the President's proposal to open peace negotiations, Dr. Prince said:

"What chance is there about a conference table for the Kaiser to agree to eliminate himself? Here is the reason why negotiations cannot now end the war.

"It is all too easy to question the legal right of the Allies to dictate what kind of Government there is to be within Germany. Yet there was no legal right for the North to free the slaves in the South. That was done because slavery was a moral wrong, and so Prussian militarism must go, even within Germany, because it is a moral wrong. And it is against this moral wrong that the Allies—I mean the people in those nations—are willing to make any sacrifice to win. It is a task for the people of the world and the people of the world should be grateful to the Allies in their fight for permanent peace. And we in America should see that we do not hamper their purpose."

OCNA, IN MOLDAVIA, SHELLED BY TEUTONS

Berlin Reports Repulse of Russian Attacks North of the Suchitza Valley.

FIERCE FIGHT IN GALICIA

Germans Enter Russian Trenches in the Zborow Region, but Are Driven Out Again.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 19, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—The town of Ocna, on the railroad line which virtually parallels a considerable section of the front along the Moldavian southwest frontier, has been under bombardment by the Teutonic heavy artillery, the War Office announced today. The statement reads:

Rumanian Front—In the valleys of the rivers Trotus and Oituz the enemy's heavy artillery bombarded the town of Ocna and the village of Bordaneshti. On the rest of the front there were scouting reconnoissances and infantry firing.

BERLIN, Jan. 19, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The Russians made attacks yesterday on German positions along the northern Rumanian front, north of the Suchitza Valley. The official statement reads:

Front of Archduke Joseph—North of the Suchitza Valley, in the district of Marasti, attacks undertaken against our height positions failed with heavy losses for the enemy.

Front of Field Marshal von Mackensen—The situation is unchanged.

German Field Posts in Russia Taken.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 19, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—The capture of two German field posts in the Baranovichi region on the Russian front, and the failure of an attack by the Germans near Zborow, east of Lemberg in Galicia, are reported in today's War Office statement, which says:

Western Front—Last night, in the region northwest of Baranovichi, detachments of one of our regiments surprised two enemy field posts. The posts were both captured. Seventeen Germans were made prisoners, and the remainder bayoneted.

The enemy bombarded with heavy artillery the narrow valley in the neighborhood of the village of Bubnov.

In the region of Zborow, (Galicia,) the enemy, after having destroyed our barbed wire entanglements in places by his artillery, assumed the offensive against our detachments situated on the heights southwest of Zborow. Notwithstanding our artillery fire, a small portion of an enemy detachment entered our trenches. The enemy was promptly driven out and our position restored by reserves who arrived in good time.

VOPICKA IS EXONERATED.

Germany Withdraws Charges of Unneutral Conduct Against Him.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Germany has withdrawn her charges of unneutral conduct against Minister Vopicka, accredited to Rumania, Serbia, and Bulgaria, it was announced today at the State Department. An explanation of the full facts in the charges of unneutral conduct was made to Germany which proved satisfactory.

Mr. Vopicka is now in Berlin. It is probable that a leave of absence, which he requested many months ago and to which he is entitled, will be granted to him in order to avoid any embarrassment in sending him on to his post at the Rumanian capital at Jassy, just after gaining considerable military information in his trip through the Central Empires.

Who will care for American interests in the occupied part of Rumania, and for the allied legations and interests intrusted to Minister Vopicka on the withdrawal of the allied diplomats has not been decided. There is no American Consul resident near by, and it is probable that a special agent with Consular rank will be dispatched shortly by the department.

TOOK 428,770 MEN IN 1916.

Russians Also Captured 525 Cannon and 1,661 Machine Guns.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—More than 428,000 officers and men were taken prisoner by the Russians during the last year, and 525 guns captured, according to the Russian service organ, as quoted in a Central News dispatch from Petrograd today.

The journal closes its review of the war operations during the year with the following approximate figures of men and booty taken: Officers, 8,770; men, 420,000; guns, 525; machine guns, 1,661; trench mortars and mine-throwers, 421.

More than 80 per cent. of the foregoing was yielded by the operations of General Brusiloff.

TO SAVE SYRIAN REFUGEES.

American War Vessels to Transport 1,000 of Them to Barcelona.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Word received today in a cablegram from Ambassador Elkus at Constantinople that the number of Americans seeking to leave Syria and Palestine had grown from a few hundred to more than a thousand, caused the State Department to arrange with the navy for indefinite use of the cruiser Des Moines and the Collier Caesar to bring the refugees out.

Barcelona, the nearest neutral port, has been selected as the place at which to land the Americans for transshipment home on commercial liners.

Officials estimate that at least one trip of the Caesar, now nearing Beirut with 2,500 tons of relief supplies, and two trips of the cruiser Des Moines, also on her way there, will be required. The Allies, after long negotiations, have granted permission to both vessels to pass their blockade with relief supplies, and Turkey has agreed to conduct them through the mine zones in the harbor. Most of the refugees are naturalized Syrians, Armenians, and Hebrews. There also are numerous native American missionaries.

Conditions in Syria and Palestine have been extremely bad, with famine and pestilence on all sides.

U-BOAT NEAR THE CANARIES

Norwegian Ship Captain Reports Being Held Up 160 Miles from Pal:

GULFPORT, Miss., Jan. 19.—Captain Knudsen, of the Norwegian Bark Ariel, reported today that his vessel was stopped by a German submarine on Dec. 12, about 160 miles from Palma in the Canary Islands.

The submarine, according to Captain Knudsen's statements to port officers, appeared unexpectedly on the surface and fired a shot across the bow of his vessel, which was stopped. After examination of the bark's papers the vessel was allowed to proceed. The bark was in ballast from a Portuguese port to Gulfport.

GERMANY ANGERED BY THE BALFOUR NOTE

Sword Will Answer, Say Some Papers; Reventlow Says It Was Made to Please Wilson.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 19, (via London.)—The Cologne Gazette, commenting on the note of Arthur Balfour, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, says:

"The note is a falsification of history apparently aimed to wipe out the bad impression made in large circles of Americans and neutrals by the Entente's rude reply to President Wilson. Naturally Balfour suppresses the fact that England possesses a world empire, which certainly was not brought together by peaceful means. He suppresses the fact that a ring was drawn around Germany, which was designed to exclude us as far as possible from the distribution of colonial territory still to be disposed of. He invents for this purpose a story of Germany's lust for world empire without giving the least proof of his charges.

"We now know exactly the aims of the Entente, and our answer will be by deeds. We do not want peace such as they offer, not even by neutral mediation. We ourselves will secure such a peace. Our sword will prove stronger than their lies."

The Cologne Volkszeitung says:

"Our reply to English arrogance, distortions and menaces must be the sword and torpedo. Then the British will abandon writing notes and the world will be freed from the covetous tyrant who has too long been allowed to stretch his arms around the earth, and who, for centuries, has not shrunk from wicked and inhuman means to satisfy his lust for power and expansion."

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Balfour's note, amplifying the reply of the Entente to President Wilson, is commented on here as a peace composition, specially calculated to catch the American ear. But the papers pronounce it substantially a rehash of the often-reiterated charges against Germany.

The Boersen Zeitung calls it an extremely clever compilation, and after describing it as a masterpiece of Machiavellian statesmanship, says:

"We trust that the truth will triumph finally and penetrate the poisonous vapors with which our enemies are trying to conceal it. Nevertheless, we must expect that this intrigue, designed to discredit the loyalty of Germany's peace offer and executed almost with genius, will for a moment find willing ears in Washington."

The Vorwärts thinks that Secretary Balfour adopts the methods of old style novelists of the most stupid kind, who see in the world only one important point. The newspaper adds:

"In Balfour's dispatch there is the frank confession that the Entente is not seeking a peace of compromises and compensation, but one of might and oppression."

Referring to the fact that Bebel, the elder Liebknecht, and other Socialist leaders declared themselves against the Government in the second stage of the Franco-Prussian war, the Vorwärts argues that the Socialists are acting in a similar spirit now and must declare themselves against the Entente "which confessedly is protracting the war for the purposes of conquest."

The Morgen Post writes:

"If Balfour's note is intended to soften the impression necessarily made by the stupid, brutal, and mendacious Entente note to Wilson, it will not succeed, for Balfour's explanations are nothing more than a hypocritical and sniveling paraphase of the note in which the Entente unveiled its true character without reserve or shame."

The Vossische Zeitung thinks that the note is good enough material for editorials in anti-German newspapers in America. In answering Balfour's statement that there are no means for compelling Germany to observe a treaty of peace, it refers to treaties which, it says, have been broken by England.

Count von Reventlow regards the note as constructed skillfully to please the President and the average American, and thinks that "in view of the American policy and its aims, no German comment can have any effect whatever."

In general, the newspapers voice the opinion that the Balfour note indicates that the effect of the Entente answer in the United States must have been bad. They regard the latest communication as an effort to retrieve an error in the form of the earlier note.

ALLIES' IDEALS AKIN TO OURS.

Italians Think Balfour Note Shows General Identity of Aims.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 19.—According to opinion here, the British note to President Wilson demonstrates the great affinity existing between the ideals of the President and those of the Allies, while it is held that there is almost an agreement on the plans for establishing and maintaining peace after this war by organizing an international army and navy capable of enforcing decisions of the powers acting under international agreements.

Ambassador Page has had a long interview with Baron Sonnino, wherein the views of America and Italy were discussed, both agreeing that, despite sharp comments in the press, relations between the two countries were most friendly.

UPHOLD REPLY TO WILSON.

French Deputies Indorse Briand's Refusal to Answer Socialists.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—By a vote of 437 to 57 the Chamber of Deputies today supported the Government in its refusal to reply to an interpellation presented by Adrien Pressemane and thirty-four other Extreme Socialist Deputies as to why the Government replied to President Wilson's note.

Premier Briand took the opportunity to speak in the most cordial terms of President Wilson's motives and of the attitude of Americans.

In his speech M. Briand said:

"When the French Government, at the same time as the allied Governments, received Germany's peace note, which was without precise terms or substance, it made known its opinion, and, in agreement with its allies, replied as the note deserved to be replied to.

"Almost at the same time the allied Governments received a note emanating from the United States, inspired by the noblest and highest sentiments. Dictated by generous feelings, it came from one of the great nations which since the beginning of the war has given us proofs of sympathy, and caused us to make a suitable reply.

"We have considered it with all the seriousness it merited and, I may add, with all the deference we owe to the President of the United States. (Here the Premier was interrupted by applause.) It is the answer of a great country sure of its cause and sure of itself. We have told with the utmost clearness, frankness, and brevity the cause for which we are fighting. We have made known the reparations, restitutions, and guarantees we considered as alone acceptable to assure a peace, and we have indicated the objects of the war. These are in the note of the Allies. What more could one ask in a debate?

"We should take our stand on this note, which was made in consort with our allies. It expresses the profound feelings of the French nation and it marks our confidence in the noble ideal for which we fight and which victory will enable us to realize."

SAVE NEW YORK COMMITTEE

CLAIMED GERMAN COLONIES.

Berlin Report Britons Overseas Insisted They Should Be Kept.

BERLIN, Jan. 19, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The Vossische Zeitung today carries reports from Holland that before the formulation of peace conditions in the Entente note recently issued, there was a lively exchange of views between England and her colonies regarding the fate of the German colonies.

"The English colonies," says the Overseas News Agency summary of the Vossische Zeitung's article, "declared that nothing should be receded that had been conquered by the sword. England agreed, but in order to save her face did not mention the German colonies in the peace conditions of the note.

"The colonial parliaments are to take important steps in this connection, but complications are expected, as the London Foreign Office has the alternative of either declining the Japanese demands or running counter to the interests of the United States."

CHEER PLEA TO KEEP BELGIUM

Munich Audience Enthusiastic Over a Speech by Dr. Pfleger.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 19, (via London.)—Dr. Pfleger, naval reporter of the Reichstag, says the General Anzeiger of Düsseldorf, in a speech at Munich aroused a storm of applause by demanding that Germany should retain Belgium and the most important part of Northern France.

CHANGES IN COMMAND IN FRANCE RUMORED

British Authorities Deny London Reports Concerning General Nivelle's Future Position.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The recent visit to London of General Nivelle for a conference with the War Cabinet and Field Marshal Haig, and the fact that General Nivelle is partly of English extraction, as his mother belonged to a prominent English family, have been seized upon by gossip to spread rumors. The rumors became so insistent today that they induced the British authorities to issue the following official denial:

"The Press Bureau is authorized to state that there is absolutely no truth in the suggestions that any changes are contemplated in the present arrangements as to the relations between the French and British commands on the western front. The subject has not even been discussed."

KAISER WOULD CRUSH ENEMIES' 'ARROGANCE'

Adjures the King of Wurttemberg to "Hold On with Blood and Treasure."

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 19, (via London.)—According to German newspapers the Emperor, replying to a telegram from the King of Wurttemberg indorsing the Emperor's address to the nation following the Entente's reply to President Wilson's note, telegraphed:

"You have strongly expressed, in the name of your brave Swabians, the feelings of indignation and determination which, in these days of the unmasking of the enemy's plans of destruction, are the entire nation's.

"Accept my heartiest thanks for your fresh expression of loyalty. Hold on with blood and treasure until the arrogance of our enemies is shattered by the unshakable will to victory of the Fatherland and its loyal allies."

CHECK THE AUSTRIANS IN A CARSO ATTACK

Rome Says an Intense Bombardment Preceded Effort South of Gorizia.

ROME, Jan. 19, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—An intense bombardment of the Italian lines in the Oppachiasella sector of the Carso front, south of Gorizia, all day yesterday, was followed by an attempted attack by the Austrians, the War Office announced today. The Italian artillery, however, broke up the hostile groups, which made advances toward the Italian positions. The bulletin reads:

Yesterday there was again only limited artillery activity on the Trentino front. Our batteries interrupted enemy movements in the valley of the Adige.

On the Carso, during the morning and afternoon of yesterday, the enemy carried out an intense and prolonged artillery bombardment against our positions in the sector between Frigido and the Oppachissella-Castagnavizza road. Our artillery vigorously replied, stopping and dispersing the enemy groups which tried to advance against our positions. In the evening the activity ceased.

SAY FRENCH EXPOSE CAPTIVES AT VERDUN

Germans Allege Prisoners Are Shot at to Make Them Work Under Fire.

BERLIN, Jan. 18, (by Wireless to Sayville, Jan. 19.)—The Overseas News Agency gives out the following for publication:

"The Zeitung am Mittag has published the details of the reports of a Sergeant Major of pioneers, a corporal of a telephone detachment, and a grenadier, all of whom declared that Germans made prisoner by the French were coerced into doing work directly connected with the war. This was done by the direct orders of the chief commander on the Verdun front, that is, General Nivelle, now in supreme command of the French forces on the west front. The statement made by these three soldiers, who escaped from the French, follows:

"'Without interruption German prisoners are forced to work in face of violent artillery fire, and, in spite of daily sanguinary losses, to do work on roads and railroads carrying ammunition and material, while the French from behind shoot at them with rifles if they attempt to escape from the zone of fire. If prisoners refuse to work, the leaders of the working detachments receive threats that they would be shot, according to the order of the chief command of the army.'

"Those made prisoner were lodged near a depot at Balleycourt, not far from Verdun, where they were exposed to a strong artillery fire. Thier losses were twenty-five men within two months."

OUST HOHENZOLLERNS, SAYS BAVARIAN WRITER

Pamphlet on "Only Way Out" for Germany Urges Succession of Bavarian Dynasty.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 18, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—"The Only Way Out" is the title of a Bavarian pamphlet, which has reached Rome via Zurich. It was published in Munich under the auspices of the "Association of Male Citizens of Southern Germany." The thesis developed by the pseudonymous author, ("Heinrich Sieger,") is that Germany's only practical course to avert final ruin lies in the dethronement of the House of Hohenzollern.

Reviewing the military situation the author likens the series of German victories to those of King Pyrrhus. They are, he says, purely ephemeral and nobody can be more keenly alive to this fact than Hindenburg, whose colossal forward movement on the eastern front merely succeeded in shifting the scene of the trench warfare a few hundred miles, and whose warworn forces have been for a long time inert and impotent in front of Riga and Dunaberg and have still before them the vast untrodden stretches of the Russian Empire. He goes on:

"Germany cries, 'We will fight till the last man, and when no more men are left we will enrol women and old men,' but the people themselves are convinced that no manoeuvre of this sort can avert ultimate defeat, which at this moment is mathematically certain."

The pamphleteer regards Germany's present situation as identical with that of the French Empire a century ago. When the crucial moment comes will William II., he asks, stand prepared to sacrifice himself for the German people as Napoleon did? He adds:

"Even as France avoided terrible peace conditions by deposing Napoleon, so Germany, faced by the vision of final catastrophe, will one day be driven to decide on deposing the King of Prussia in favor of a Bavarian ruler. The house of Wittelsbach has fulfilled all its duties to the empire, its escutcheon is unstained, and in this war it has won its laurels again and again. Not only would the German Empire under a Wittelsbach dynasty offer the necessary security for a European peace, but also the possibility of realizing a still greater Germany."

The writer foresees that England, France, and Russia will never consent to negotiate peace with the present Kaiser or the German Crown Prince, whereas "with the disapearance of the Hohenzollerns it will become possible for Germany to promote and cement cordial relations with England, as has happened in Great Britain's relations with France."

The Zurich Volksrecht says that the document, here summarized, voices a state of opinion very widely diffused in Bavaria and indeed almost everywhere in Southern Germany, as well as in influential middle-class circles and among the lower orders.

'VICTORY SOON'—NIVELLE.

French Commander Replies to Dover Town Council's Congratulations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—General Nivelle, commander of the French forces in France, replying to congratulations from the Town Council of Dover, of which town his mother was a native, telegraphed as follows:

"I do not doubt for a moment that, with the assistance of the magnificent British Army and its distinguished chief, Field Marshal Haig, whose friend I have the honor to be, we shall soon obtain complete victory over our detested enemy."

UNTERMYER ASSAILS PEACE LEAK INQUIRY

Telegram, Read to the House, Protests Against "Bandying" of His Name.

WHIPPLE LIKELY TO ACCEPT

Goes to Washington to Consult the Committee — Lawson Strongly Recommended His Selection.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—There were two outstanding developments today in the inquiry into the alleged "leak" on President Wilson's note to the belligerents, which has been suspended while the House Committee on Rules sought an attorney. Samuel Untermyer, whom Postmaster General Burleson had suggested to the committee as attorney, telegraphed to John J. Fitzgerald, Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, a heated condemnation of the "bandying about of his name on the floor," and a letter from Thomas W. Lawson was made public showing that Mr. Lawson approved the selection of Sherman L. Whipple of Boston as attorney, and had advocated the appointment.

Mr. Untermyer's telegram was read to the House at the request of Mr. Fitzgerald, who said that the lawyer had called him by telephone from the Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore to ask him to present the message. Mr. Untermyer was leaving today for Palm Beach, he said, to try to recover his health. The telegram was as follows:

Baltimore, Jan. 18, 1917.

The Hon. John J. Fitzgerald, Chairman House Committee on Appropriations, Washington:

This bandying around of my name on the floor of the House as though I had been seeking a job is no less and perhaps more of an outrage than the dastardly action of dragging the names of public men in the mire on authority of short-selling gamblers and Wall Street gutter rumor.

Congressmen have immunity from punishment and have public responsibility. Their words carry corresponding weight. I did not want the place. Nobody ever suggested that I take it, and I would not have accepted it except at great risk apart from all other considerations.

I have been and am still ill and am leaving the hospital here tomorrow for Palm Beach for a two months' stay upon peremptory instructions of my physicians, pursuant to long-since-made arrangements. I am anxious to see a thorough investigation for the sake of those who may be proved to have been cruelly libeled. They are helpless against vilification that cripples the public usefulness for which they made great sacrifices. That is the sort of thing that drives men out of public life in disgust.

I have just learned of the use that has been made of my name, and will feel indebted to you if, in justice to me, you will set the matter right for me before the House and the country in return for the effort to perform a public service at great personal sacrifice in championing the regulation of the Stock Exchange, so that it will be a legitimate security market, which I believe to be one of our most urgent needs.

I have persistently been misrepresented and maligned by their far-reaching press bureau for five years. They have been pursuing me, but I did not expect members of Congress to swallow their inspired libels. I could have no purpose other than the public welfare, since I have in my life never bought stocks on margin or engaged in any form of speculative transactions. If I had they would be bound to know of it. My Bethlehem stock has been owned by me for over ten years. SAMUEL UNTERMYER.

Calls Message an "Insult."

Representative Miller of Minnesota objected to the message, which he said was a reflection on the House.

"It is an insult to Congress," he said, "and I do not think it is either parliamentary or decent."

Mr. Fitzgerald immediately objected to "throwing bricks" at private citizens who have rendered public service. Representative Moore of Pennsylvania closed the discussion by saying: "Mr. Untermyer was retained to investigate the money trust. He was the people's representative for that inquiry, but I know that he represented great corporations. When Lawson suggested Untermyer I questioned his right to serve. He is the last person to be considered in connection with counsel for the inquiry."

Chairman Henry made public a letter written by Mr. Lawson when the committee was considering the choice of an attorney on Jan. 17, in which he strongly recommended Mr. Whipple.

"The one man who will fit the job's every requirement of ability, experience, patience, persistence, mental and physical endurance, strong patriotism, and 100 per cent. honesty," the letter said, "is Sherman L. Whipple, leader of the New England bar and successful pleader for the people in the New Haven looting.

"Mr. Whipple and I have no mutual interests, connections, or affiliations of any nature. He is a Democrat and I am a Republican, but I am convinced that when your committee applies the acid test to Mr. Whipple, and his qualifications he will stand forth clearly as the one best bet."

Mr. Henry would make no comment today on the committee's choice of the man whom Lawson, the chief witness, had recommended, and refused to discuss the Lawson letter.

Whipple Goes to Washington.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—Sherman L. Whipple, designated by the House Rules Committee to act as special counsel in the peace note leak investigation, left here tonight for Washington to confer with Chairman Henry and the committee. Mr. Whipple said that he probably would accept the appointment if pending court cases in which he has been retained could be arranged satisfactorily.

It is not expected by Mr. Whipple that the committee will proceed with its inquiry on Monday. Should he undertake the task, he said, he would ask for time to prepare the case before going ahead with the examination of witnesses.

Untermyer Leaves the Hospital.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—Samuel Untermyer, the New York lawyer, who came to Johns Hopkins hospital yesterday for a physical examination, left for Florida today after receiving treatment for throat trouble.

$5,000 PROFITS FREE OF TAX

Proposed Revenue Bill Also Exempts Agricultural Earnings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A tentative draft of the revenue bill was completed today by a House Ways and Means subcommittee. It will be laid before Democratic members of the full committee Monday and a caucus of the House Democrats may be called some time next week to approve it as a party measure.

The bill proposes to raise $236,000,000 from a tax on excess profits of business and increased rates on inheritances, and $289,000,000 from a bond issue. A provision may be incorporated later to increase to $300,000,000 the maximum amount of certificates of indebtedness which may be issued to tide the Treasury over until the new taxes come in. The Treasury now has authority to issue not exceeding $200,000,000 of these certificates, limited to a year and to 3 per cent. interest.

In levying the excess profits tax of 8 per cent. upon all profits of corporations and co-partnerships in excess of 8 per cent. of caitalization, the bill defines capitalization as including actual money paid in, actual property used or owned, and all surplus and undivided profits. Concerns having annual profits of $5,000 or less would be exempt, as would profits derived from agriculture or from solely personal services, such as the incomes of professional men. Representatives Kitchin, Rainey, and Hull, who framed the bill, exempted agriculture on the ground that the farmer already was taxed heavily enough, and that it was impossible to tell how much a farmer had invested in his business. Excess profits laws in France, Russia, Great Britain, and Italy exempt agriculture and personal services.

J. A. DONALD OPPOSED FOR SHIPPING BOARD

Progressive Republicans Object to New York Member's Appointment; Four Others Approved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The nominations of William Denman of San Francisco, Bernard N. Baker of Baltimore, James B. White of Kansas City, and Theodore Brent of New Orleans as members of the Federal Shipping Board were confirmed tonight by the Senate.

Opposition by progressive Republicans to John A. Donald of New York, the fifth member of the board, held up his confirmation. Senator Phelan spoke against confirmation of Mr. Donald, and there are indications that several other Democrats will join in the opposition. It was said, however, that Mr. Donald would be confirmed without long delay. Opposition to him is based largely on the fact that he owned and operated steamships under the British flag and that he employed Chinese coolies as sailors.

Mr. Donald at his home on Staten Island last night made the following statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"I have operated twenty-two ships under the American flag, the Norwegian flag, and the British flag. As far as statements regarding the Chinese coolies are concerned, I have never had in the crews of any of my vessels as many Chinese as 50 per cent. of the total. On these vessels Chinese were employed in the fireroom, especially in the West Indian trade—the fruit trade—where competent white men cannot be obtained to undertake work of this nature. About a third of the crew may have been Chinese, but the total has never been 50 per cent. of the entire crew of the vessel."

GREECE SATISFIES ALLIES.

Speedy Return of Normal Relations Expected in London.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Ministers at Athens of the Entente Powers are thoroughly satisfied with the present attitude of the Greek Government in carrying out the Entente demands, according to telegrams received today by the British Government from Athens.

The release of Venizelos adherents who had been imprisoned already has begun, and a considerable number of them have reached their homes. Moreover, the dispatches say, the movement of Greek troops from Thessaly in pursuance of the demands of the Entente Allies is proceeding rapidly.

It is stated here that if the attitude of the Greek Government remains as satisfactory as it is at present a speedy return of normal relations between Greece and the Entente Powers is certain.

ATHENS, Jan. 18, (via London, Jan. 19.)—Entente officials who are to administer the allied control in Greece have reached this city. The arrivals comprise a British military mission, headed by General Philipps, and an Italian mission, headed by the ex-chief of the Italian mission formerly charged with the reorganization of the Greek police.

People of Athens Quiet.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Jan. 18.—On my return today from the provinces, where the general wish is to see all difficulties satisfactorily solved, I find the situation very greatly improved.

The release of the imprisoned Venizelists is a very important step. They were set at liberty in the course of the night by direct order of the Minister of Justice and the act aroused no opposition nor have they been molested in any way. This gives evidence of much calmer public feeling. Other steps will be taken to carry out to the full the Allies' demands without disturbance.

The question of indemnity for persons who have been imprisoned will be settled by a mixed commission, acting in collaboration with the Italian Minister. It will be composed of English, French, and Italians and the commission probably will begin work tomorrow.

Nothing definite has yet been settled regarding controls, but the Government hopes these will not be so severe as they were before Dec. 1. No great difficulty it is believed will be met with in adjusting this matter.

The blockade has not yet been raised and it will be maintained until all demands are fully carried out. In addition there will be no extension of the time fixed in the ultimatum for carrying the demands into effect. On both these points the Allies stand firm. My inquiries lead me to believe that all matters will be definitely regulated within the course of the next nine or ten days.

CECIL DEFENDS BLOCKADE.

Says Allies Will Use Their Sea Power to the Utmost.

PARIS, Saturday, Jan. 20, (by Wireless Press.)—Lord Robert Cecil, British Blockade Minister, in an interview published today, says the Allies have an undoubted right to use sea power to cut off the chemists' supplies, and intend to exercise that power to the utmost. Neither on grounds of international law nor humanity can the enemy or the world complain in this respect.

"Our method of conducting the blockade," he continues, "is strictly in accordance with international law and undisgraced by outrages such as those committed in all too many instances by the enemy naval forces. We contend that neutral countries adjacent to Germany have not been penalized regarding their real home requirements. We are prepared to, and do, facilitate their obtaining goods necessary under this head.

"The Allies control many sources of raw material, and it is quite clear they are entitled to make their own conditions before supplying any countries with goods which they control. They are prepared to supply neutral countries if the latter agree to limit their demands to the amounts they need themselves and not become enemy supply bases.

"The present economic condition of Germany certainly appears very grave. There is every reason to believe that that of Germany's allies is even worse."

To Exchange Prisoners with Japan.

BERNE, Switzerland, Thursday, Jan. 18.—Germany and Japan soon will begin an exchange of invalid prisoners of war by the way of Holland and the United States, it is announced. This is the result of successful negotiations undertaken by the Swiss Government with the German and Japanese Governments, upon representations of the Evangelical Missionary Society of Switzerland.

GRAYSON FACES FIGHT IN SENATE

Republicans Will Oppose Confirmation and Democratic Division Is Predicted.

NAVY OFFICERS PROTEST

Delay in Senate Action Certain —Hint of a Filibuster Until the Session Ends.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Decided opposition developed in the Senate today to the confirmation of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., as a Medical Director, with the rank of Rear Admiral. Dr. Grayson, who is President Wilson's physician and aid, was nominated by the President yesterday over 137 officers in intervening grades of the naval medical service. Dr. Grayson is a passed assistant surgeon with the rank of Lieutenant, but was about to be promoted to surgeon with the rank of Lieutenant Commander in regular course.

The Republican members of the Senate today discussed the question of confirmation informally among themselves, and a general agreement was reached to oppose the confirmation. It is practically certain, however, that the opposition will by no means be confined to the Republicans. There is a feeling among many men on both sides that Dr. Grayson should not have been promoted over the heads of so many men of greater experience and his seniors in age and time of service, in spite of their personal liking for the man himself and their belief in his ability as a surgeon.

One Democratic Senator said this afternoon that he had been told by a Democratic colleague that he regarded the nomination as "outrageous," and that this man at least did not intend to vote for confirmation. Several of the Republican members were much disturbed because they said that an attempt was made yesterday by some of the Democrats to rush the confirmation through as soon as the appointment was announced without giving the Senate time to realize what it meant.

The dissatisfaction with the President's appointment of Dr. Grayson was further emphasized by many informal protests from officers in all branches of the navy which reached various Senators this afternoon. Most of these protests emphasized the belief of their sponsors that Dr. Grayson was entirely capable of filling the higher office with complete satisfaction and that the objection was in no sense personal. The chief cause of complaint was that Dr. Grayson's appointment at the age of 38 left those beneath him practically no chance of preferment, since he would be in the service much longer than most of those inferior to him in his new rank, while the feeling that it was a "personal" and not essentially an official promotion rankled.

Surgeon General Braisted, who was also nominated yesterday to be a Medical Director with the permanent rank of Rear Admiral, will be the ranking medical officer of the navy for eleven years, when he will reach the retirement age. Dr. Grayson will be the second ranking medical officer of that period, and will then become the ranking member of his corps, with fifteen years' additional to serve before retirement for age. Nearly every officer whom Dr. Grayson will jump if his nomination is confirmed by the Senate is older than he. Under his new commission he would be senior to every officer of the medical corps except Dr. Braisted for twenty-six years.

It was made known today that the Senate in executive session yesterday, shortly after receiving the nominations of Dr. Grayson and the heads of the Construction, Medical, Pay, and Civil Engineering corps to the new rank of Rear Admiral, confirmed the nomination of Chief Constructor David W. Taylor in the higher permanent rank, but sent the other nominations to the Committee on Naval Affairs. The prompt confirmation of Chief Constructor Taylor was due to the fact that he was the head of his corps, and would not displace any other officer. It was apparent that some Senators desired to scrutinize the proposed promotions of the other officers nominated, all of whom will jump a considerable number of officers who are at present their seniors.

While there is nothing yet to indicate whether there is a possibility of the rejection of the nomination of Dr. Grayson, it is certain that the opposition has become pronounced enough to delay it greatly. It is quite possible that a filibuster may be started against it which would last until the end of the present session of Congress, March 4, although no definite plans of this nature have yet been formulated.

Dr. Grayson has been the personal aid to the President since Mr. Taft's administration. Since President Wilson has been in the White House he has become a close friend and companion of the President while acting as his medical adviser, and it is due to his care that the President's present excellent physical condition is attributed. His promotion probably would not change his duties at the White House.

HOUSE PASSES 'PORK' BILL.

Vote Is 234 to 92, Many Republicans Supporting the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—An Omnibus Public Buildings bill, which President Wilson has said he would veto, was passed today by the House, 234 to 92. It carries $38,000,000 for buildings, improvements, or sites in cities and towns all over the country. The bill now goes to the Senate, where it will encounter determined opposition.

Action in the House followed a long and bitter debate, during which advocates of the measure defended it and opponents denounced it as "pork barrel" legislation. The final vote was not along party lines, although there were more Republican than Democratic negatives.

While the bill carries a total of $38,000,000, Chairman Clark of the Public Buildings Committee, told the House that this would be reduced about $6,000,000 by money returned to the Treasury through sales of old sites and buildings.

PREDICTS AMERICA WILL BE DRAWN IN

P. Y. Alexander, Just from London, Says English Think We Cannot Avoid Clash With Germany.

That the United States will face new danger of being drawn into the war before the end of six months was said to be the opinion in well-informed circles in England by Patrick Y. Alexander, who arrived yesterday on the Cunard steamship Orduna, on his fifth visit since the beginning of the war in Europe. Mr. Alexander, who formerly was a leader in English aeronautical development, further predicted that the war will last three years more.

"One of the absorbing topics abroad in connection with the war," he said last night, "is the position in which the United States is placed. The feeling in England is that the States have been forced into a position that will soon prove embarrassing. In fact, it is generally believed that the United States will be in the war within three to six months. The reason for this is that it is generally thought that the German submarines have received orders to start operating soon without regard to any guarantees.

"This is not all. There are underground influences at work which are dragging the United States into the conflict. It is my opinion, and that of many better informed than I, that this country is practically on the brink of war."

Speaking of the war in general, Mr. Alexander said:

"Every one in England and France feels that it will last three years longer. All preparations are being made with that idea in view. It is generally understood that England has at least 5,000,000 men under arms and munitions sufficient to supply them. The Allies will soon be in the position where they will have no fear about their ability to maintain their armies in the field.

"Probably the greatest development has been in aeronautics. Everything indicates that the war is to be decided in the air. Aeroplanes by the thousands are being added to those in service, so it is safe to estimate that the Allies have nearly 100,000 machines. There are aeroplane bases of large sizes in the most unheard-of places.

"It is now proposed to name an Air Minister, who will be in charge of the Allied aeronautics. Under him would be the national heads, who would manage this fighting arm in their own countries.

"In England aeroplanes are now flying that can carry tons of explosives, being driven by motors developing more than 1,000 horse power. In addition, there are new fast machines which can climb faster and make greater speed (nearly 150 miles an hour) than any others yet built.

"It is safe to say that the Zeppelins will not cause much more trouble. They will have to move so fast and the danger of destruction will be so great that they are not likely to do much damage. If England had had 10,000 aeroplanes at the beginning of the war there never would have been any destructive Zeppelin raids.

"I find Americans much interested in what English women are doing in connection with the war. Before the fighting started we had 1,000,000 surplus women and before it is over there will be at least 2,500,000. That is, the men, who normally support these women, will be killed or incapacitated by wounds, so that they will be practically non-productive and have to be taken care of. Women are at work everywhere, not alone in the war industries, but in every other industry where they can supplant men. Thousands of men have been released to the army by the women being willing to do their bit. After the war they will have to be reckoned with, and it is likely that many thousands will emigrate to this country and the colonies."

Mr. Alexander believes that this year will see the first transatlantic aeroplane flight. He also thinks it likely that a Zeppelin may fly across, as this will be quite possible under the conditions usually found in the Summer.

Mr. Alexander will return to England on the Orduna, which will sail Monday. According to him the vessel has been ordered to return as soon as possible and will be taken over by the Government.

DUTCH MAIL SHIP SEIZED.

Two Americans on Board Liner Taken Into Zeebrugge.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 19, (via London.) —The Handelsblad says the Dutch mail steamship Prins Hendrik has been taken into Zeebrugge.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—According to an Exchange Telegraph Company dispatch from Flushing, the reason for the seizure of the Dutch steamer Prins Hendrik is not known. The steamer, which was taken into Zeebrugge by German torpedo craft, says the dispatch, carried no contraband. She was bound for London.

Among the passengers on board the Prins Hendrik, a Reuter message from Flushing says, were Robert Hill of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium and Judge de Brouckere of the Antwerp Tribunal, a Belgian.

The 2,000-ton Prins Hendrik was captured by the Germans last September and taken to Zeebrugge, but subsequently was released.

WILSON AGAIN URGES SPEED IN CONGRESS

Visits Capitol to Try to Hurry Through His Program of Legislation.

INSISTS ON RAILWAY BILLS

Only 35 Days Remain to Complete Business of Session with Democratic Majority.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Wilson again visited the Capitol today to urge Congress to speed up the Administration legislative program. For two hours he conferred with the members of the Senate Democratic Steering Committee, discussing the parliamentary situation and the means by which the important measures now on the calendar can be disposed of before the session expires March 4. The President has shown increasing anxiety in the last few days over the passage of the program he recommended in his address to Congress at the beginning of the session.

The measures Mr. Wilson especially emphasized, it was learned, were the railroad bills, the Webb bill permitting combinations of corporations engaged in foreign commerce, the Corrupt Practices bill, the Porto Rican bill, and Water Power and Public Land Leasing bills. Appropriation bills and measures providing for increased revenue are regarded as absolute necessities in addition to these. With only thirty-five legislative days in the session left, the Administration is seeking every means to hasten the action of Congress so as to avoid an extra session.

Senator Kern, the Democratic floor leader, said after the conference that no conclusions had been reached about the form the measures will take. The Democratic leaders, in considering the necessity for haste, are keeping in mind the fact that it will be much easier to pass legislation at this session than it will with the new Congress, when the House will not have a Democratic majority.

At the conference both yesterday and today, it is understood, the President let it be known that he has not weakened at all in his desire to have railroad strike prevention legislation passed. The Interstate Commerce Commission, however, in a preliminary vote, has already decided against the Canadian Disputes act, which he recommended in his address to Congress. This was the measure which prohibited strikes and lockouts during the course of Government investigation of industrial disputes. The opposition to this measure, as well as to the bill giving the President power to take over the railways under the military power in time of emergency, remains as strong as ever.

Mr. Wilson took pains this afternoon to deny reports that he opposed either the Shields Water Power bill or the Myers Land Leasing bill, or that he had expressed a preference for the House measures corresponding to these two.

PARLIAMENT HEADS ASSEMBLE IN BERLIN

German Press Reported Cool Toward Preceding Conference on the Food Question.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Presidents of the Parliaments of the Central Powers arrived at Berlin this morning and were welcomed by the President and Vice Presidents of the German Reichstag, representatives of the Foreign Ministry and the Turkish and Bulgarian Ministers, says a Reuter dispatch from Berlin, forwarded by way of Amsterdam.

Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, the German Foreign Minister, has gone to Vienna, according to the Zeitung Am Mittag, says the Reuter dispatch.

The conference of Premier Clam-Martinic of Austria and General Hoefer, head of the Austrian War Feeding Department, in Berlin yesterday with Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg, Foreign Secretary Zimmermann and Adolf Batocki, German Food Controller, according to a Hague dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, was mainly concerned with economic questions, including the distribution of the food captured in Rumania. It is understood, however, that peace and Galician questions were discussed. The German press, according to the dispatch, treated the conference with marked coolness.

It was reported more than two weeks ago that a conference of the Presidents of the German, Austro-Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish Parliaments would be held at Berlin. The Foreign Ministers of these powers were expected to participate in this conference. It was stated that a meeting at Vienna of Emperor William, Emperor Charles of Austria, King Ferdinand of Bulgaria and the Sultan of Turkey would precede the Berlin conference.

The inference was drawn in London that, as the war staffs were to take no part in these meetings, they would deal with matters of policy rather than the conduct of the war.

WAR WILL AID JEWS, MR. TAFT BELIEVES

Ex-President, in Address, Declares They Will Enjoy New Status When Hostilities End.

LAUDS THEM AS CITIZENS

He Expects Russia and Rumania to Give Them Full Equality as Rewards.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—In two addresses before the National Geographical Society here today on the Jew in history, ex-President Taft said that after the war, with the financial burdens of the belligerent countries bound to be heavier than ever in the history of the world, the Jewish banker would have to be called in to help solve the fiscal problems involved. In his conclusion he said that one of the blessings that would grow out of American participation in a League to Enforce World Peace would be a constant influence for the betterment of the condition of the Jew.

"I do not need to pause and emphasize the remarkable character of the Jewish people," said Mr. Taft. "They are the only people, who, for 1,800 years, have had no country, who have been dispersed to the four quarters of the globe, and yet have retained their religion, their cohesion, their intellectual capacity, their loyalty to their race, and have, whenever there was any pretense of equality of opportunity for them, forged their way ahead into positions of prominence, influence and power in business, in professions, in philosophy, in art, in literature, and in government."

Mr. Taft recalled how the Jews were permitted to return to England under Cromwell, how many of them rendered great service to the American Colonies during the Revolutionary War, how France followed the United States in giving them complete legal equality, and how Germany, after the years of persecution, finally fell in line about 1,850.

"By the Congress of Berlin, in 1879, the Jews secured political and civil equality in Bulgaria and Serbia; Turkey had already granted it to them. On the whole then, at the present time, the sons of Israel have before the law equality of opportunity and religious freedom except in Rumania and Russia, where mediaeval conditions persist," said the ex-President.

"What are the reasons for this almost endless persecution of the Jew from the Fourth Century to the Nineteenth? I regret to say that it must be mainly attributed to the intolerance of the Christian. Other causes may be pointed out but in the last analysis the initial cause was religious prejudice.

"The history of the Jews in all countries in which they have settled has been that they have rallied to the support of the Government under which they lived

"If the war does not help the Jew, it will indeed be a blessing in a dreadful disguise. Its miseries, its cruelties, its sufferings have fallen heavily on one-half of the Jews of the world. They live in the theatre of war between Russia and Germany and Austria."

Mr. Taft further declared that all three countries have promised better conditions after the war, vying with one another in the cultivation of the good-will of the Poles and the Jews, and that it is inevitable when the war ends that some governmental changes in policies will follow.

"In the world's congress," he said, "the form and constitutional guarantees of an independent government must in that case form the subject of discussion, and nothing could be more relevant than the question of what shall be done with the Jews."

TAFT SEES US IN NEXT WAR.

Therefore We Should Labor fon World Peace, He Tells Press Club.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Former President Taft, speaking tonight at the National Press Club, said that the United States could no longer remain half in and half out of international affairs, and that it was to the nation's interest to exercise every influence to prevent another world war. His speech was a plea for the assumption by America of a new international responsibility.

"I am very strongly convinced," he said, "that the power of the United States was never greater as an influence for good in the world than it is today and will be when this war is over, and I have a profound conviction that if we choose to exercise that influence we can do a great deal of good, but that we must not allow ourselves to be influenced too much by the traditions that have heretofore governed our foreign policy.

"We are so near to Europe, we have so many world interests of our own, that we have got to take our part in the game. We cannot be in partly and out partly. We have got to realize what the President himself has said with great justice, it seems to me, that in another world war there will be no neutral. Therefore it is to our great interest that we exercise every influence that we can to prevent another world war."

Mr. Taft condemned the Congressional "leak" investigation as a tremendous and useless expenditure of the people's money and the brain power of their lawmakers.

PEACE, A SPORTING VIEW.

Supplied by Major Dugmore, A. S. C., in Pink Print from London.

Major Cyril Patrick William Francis Radclyffe Dugmore of the Army Service Corps, which is the commissariat annex of the British Army, arrived here yesterday from England on the Cunard liner Orduna to visit his wife, formerly Mrs. Bramhall Gilbert, a daughter of William V. Brokaw.

The Major appeared somewhat ruffled by the bad weather, which had lasted through ten days of the voyage from Liverpool. He had no comment to make for reporters on the war, the fighting in France, the possibilities of peace, or anything else until some one asked him what was the opinion in England of President Wilson's note. Then Major Dugmore bucked up a bit, fished down in his pocket and handed out a pink clipping from The London Sporting Times of Jan. 6 with the remark:

"Here is what we think of your President in our country."

The clipping proved to contain verses addressed to President Wilson. Here are three of them:

Oh! President Wilson, you're wasting your time
In sending out peace notes so soon.
  Do not, please, interfere.
  It must surely be clear
That it's we who are paying the piper, old dear.
So it's We who'll be calling the tune.

You've sat on the fence for two years and a half,
Which from motives financial 's discreet;
  You have prattled of right
  And you've ta'en a delight
  In telling the world you are too proud to fight,
Which is merely the Yank for "cold feet."

So do not imagine that now you can start
To dictate to us what we should do.
  We will finish the Hun
  With the bayonet and gun,
  And you jolly well mind your own business, my son.
We're a little bit fed up with you!

The Sporting Times, better known, for several reasons, as "the Pink 'Un," is the chosen organ of certain classes in London. The Major intimated that he thought its verses were "rather nippy, eh, what?" He intends to linger for about a month at Great Neck, L. I., where Mrs. Dugmore owns an estate, and then to return to his job in the provision department of the British Army.

400,000 CANADIANS ENLISTED, SAYS DUKE

165,000 Troops Sent to the Front in 1916—Parliament Opens for Seventh Session.

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—With the usual ceremonies but less ostentatious display the twelfth Parliament of Canada was today opened, for its seventh session, by the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of the Dominion.

Lack of accommodation in the temporary quarters in the Victoria Memorial Museum made it necessary to eliminate the customary long list of invitations to seats in the Senate Chamber during the ceremonies. The Duchess of Devonshire and her daughters, Ladies Maud and Blanche Cavendish, attended.

Calling attention in his speech to the fact that the life of the present Parliament would expire in October, the Duke announced that a resolution would be presented which would authorize and request the enactment by the British Parliament of legislation necessary to enable Canada to avoid the "distraction and confusion of an election at so critical a time." In this way, he said, "the wishes of the Canadian people and the urgent requirements of war" would best be met.

The Duke said he looked forward to Canada's "ability and capacity" to exercise an ever-increasing influence toward bringing the war to a victorious conclusion, and asserted that the two and a half years of conflict had "not been more than sufficient for the enormous preparation necessary" to enable the Dominion to assemble its full strength. He reviewed Canada's participation, including the enlistment of 400,000 troops, of which 165,000 were despatched overseas in 1916, and paid a tribute to the valor of these forces in battle, and to Canada's loyalty as reflected by her people.

The Governor General said steps had been taken for better organization of the national service; and, in co-operation with Great Britain, to facilitate increased production of munitions. Alluding to Britain's invitation to the Ministers of the various dominions to attend meetings of the War Cabinet, the Duke emphasized that Canada had accepted.

In conclusion, the Governor General said:

"In common with the rest of the Empire, the people of this Dominion are firmly resolved that in this war which has entailed so much sacrifice and which we have undertaken for the highest ideals of humanity and civilization our efforts shall be continued and strengthened until they are crowned with an abiding peace."

URGES NAME FOR THE WAR.

French Deputy Wants It Known as "The German Invasion."

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Jules Roche, Republican Deputy for Ardeche, introduced a bill in the Chamber of Deputies today requiring Government officials, officers, Judges, newspapers, and every one making any public reference to the war to name it "the German invasion," under penalties provided for those aiding the countries hostile to France.

The object of the measure, the Deputy says, is to prevent a false conception historically of the origin of the war. Mr. Roche and his colleagues who support the bill, point out that history refers to certain previous wars as invasions by Attila, by the Teutons, and by the Cimbrians.

DIETERS PUT TABOO ON 'CORN CHOWDER'

'Mock Chicken' and 'Peanut Hash' Also on the List at Which Rookies Balk.

PERKINS A LUNCHEON GUEST

Believes Test Will be of Value in Educating Public to Cut the High Cost of Living.

Of some thirty original combinations of food served to the police diet squad since Jan. 9 only three of the dishes have failed to find favor with the twelve rookies. They objected to "peanut hash, corn chowder, and mock chicken." The latter was composed of baked beans, bread crumbs, and sage. These dishes went to them at meals on different meatless days, but they made no protest until yesterday.

As eleven of the squad members are Catholics and omit meat on Fridays, they had a suspicion that maybe "corn chowder" would again make its appearance on the menu at dinner last night.

"A bas chowder de corn!" exclaimed one of the rookies, who was formerly a student at St. Francis Xavier College, as he led the squad into the diet kitchen last night at 49 Lafayette Street.

"We'll try anything twice, but the corn chowder, mock chicken, and peanue hash," the spokesman of the squad confided to Miss Eula McClary, who represents the Life Extension Institute. Miss McClary passed the warning along to the colored chef, Hannibal Vesszey Parsons, who sent back this verbal flag of truce:

"I ain't goin' to repeat them culinary efforts to which you gentlemen objects. Besides you all is goin' to be policemen some day an' I want to stay in New York."

After their regular workout in the gymnasium at Police Headquarters the members of the squad were again weighed last evening. The scales showed that the total weight of the squad had been reduced two pounds since Jan. 15, but that it was still eight pounds heavier than at the beginning of the test. The weight of the squad on Jan. 8, the day before the test began, was 2,030 pounds. On Jan. 12, the weight was 2,037. On Jan. 15, there was a gain of three pounds. Yesterday the total had dropped to 2,038 pounds.

Table of Individual Weights.

Here is the table of the individual weights of the men from the beginning of the test to date, showing the gain and loss of each:

	Jan. 8.	Jan. 19.	Gain.	Loss.
Gilroy	161	162	1	..
Corcoran	165	167	2	..
Packingham	200	201	1	..
Twombley	161	159	..	2
Hogan	150	154	4	..
Lyons	169	168½	..	½
Smith	195	194¾	..	¼
Curley	172	172½	½	..
Reilly	156	159¾	3¾	..
Hanlon	167	165	..	2
Goldman	179	178	..	1
Rasch	155	157	2	..
Totals	2,030	2,038	13¾	5¾

Hanlon, who first lost two pounds, then regained one pound, has lost in the last four days all he had gained. Twomley lost one pound in the first four days and another in the last week. Lyons and Smith, who were each a half pound ahead in weight four days ago, are now each half a pound below their first weights. Goldman, who had lost a half pound on Jan. 15, has dropped another half pound in four days. Hogan and Reilly continue to be the champion weight-makers of the squad.

Dr. E. L. Fisk, director of the Life Extension Institute, who weighed the men yesterday, said their present weights showed the best results of the ten days' experiment. He expects the weights to become more normal, but says a slight change in weight either way has no significance. It is not desired, however, that the men should either put on too much flesh or show heavy losses.

Mr. Perkins's Ideas of Test.

George W. Perkins and Police Commissioner Woods were guests of the rookies at luncheon yesterday.

"I am intensely interested in this experiment," said Mr. Perkins. "My interest lies in the educational effect. Two years ago the Mayor's Committee on Food Supply distributed pamphlets in the public schools, giving information on buying and cooking foods and showing how to reduce the high cost of living. We were surprised at the wide spread interest among all classes.

"This experiment will have just as much value. No better public service could be performed than to teach the public how to eat economically and well. Girls leave school often at the age of 14, go to work and get married in four or five years. They enter upon their household duties without having had any experience whatever. It would be a splendid thing to teach them how to buy their food, how to keep it and how to prepare it."

Fifty letters were received at the diet kitchen and many more at the Life Extension Institute, 25 West Forty-fifth Street, yesterday, asking for copies of menus and recipes of the food served to the diet squad. The supervisors of the test make the request that stamped and addressed envelopes enclosed with the requests will facilitate speedy compliance with the wishes of the public.

The menus yesterday were:

Breakfast: Oatmeal, milk, toast, butter and coffee; this contained 870 calories and cost 7 cents; luncheon: salmon croquettes with peas, date bread, butter and tea, cost 8 cents and contained 990 calories; dinner: baked split peas, stuffed green peppers, stuffing consisting of spaghetti and cheese, rice and samp; whole wheat bread, sliced oranges and bananas and tea and milk, cost, 10 cents contained 1,375 calories.

FOR STABLE MILITIA POLICY.

Employers Dissatisfied with Present Hit-or-Miss Plan.

As an appendix to its report upon the mobilization of the National Guard, the Executive Committee of the Mayor's Committe on National Defense made public yesterday a digest of the replies to a questionnaire circulated among employers in this city. The employers were asked to tell whether they paid their employes absent with the National Guard; how much time off they would be willing to give their men each year for military training, and what in their opinion was the correct national military policy. The report said:

"Of the 484 employers who reported that they had employes in the Guard, 357 said that they had allowed full pay and 79 that they had allowed part pay; the other 48 did not answer this question. Two hundred and seven said that pay continued during the entire period of service; the others were uncertain how long it would continue.

"When the War Department announced that men with dependents might be discharged, many employers revoked their original offers; and more revocations followed the appropriation by Congress of $2,000,000 for the relief of Guardsmen's dependents.

"Sixty-five per cent. of the Guardsmen who answered the committee's question about the continuance of their regular civilian pay said that it had been cut off entirely. Since more than 3,000 employers failed to reply to this same question—and it is to be supposed that those who cut off their men's pay would be less likely to reply than those who continued it—the committee assumes that the Guardsmen's own reports reflect the actual experience.

"In their comments upon military policy the employers laid stress upon the very lack of uniformity of practice, in the matter of continuance of pay, that was disclosed by the filled-in-blanks returned to the committee. It was the hit-or-miss character of the whole National Guard voluntary enlistment scheme that impressed them most. They declared themselves willing to make sacrifices for national defense, but they wanted to have some way of estimating what the nature of the sacrifices was to be, and, particularly, they wanted the end of a condition which, they said, failed to distribute the burden equitably among employers."

TAO KUANG VASE FOR $310.

Edson Bradley Sale of Oriental Art Yields $25,771 to Date.

Returns of $5,871 at the fifth afternoon of the Edson Bradley sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday brought the total returns to date to $25,771. A globular bottle shaped vase of the Tao Kuang period, brilliant yellow glaze, brought the highest price of the afternoon, going to Edward Getz for $310.

A peachbloom rouge box with cover, of the K'ang-hsi period went to Getz for $115; an apple green ovoid jar, K'ang-hsi, went to Seaman for $260; the Long Sang Ti Co. paid $130 for a peachbloom coupe, same period. H. C. Hupfer paid $130 for a peachbloom water jar K'ang-hsi, and another peachbloom coupe, same period, went to O. F. Roberts for $120.

The sale will be concluded this afternoon.

STARVING AIRMEN FOUND AFTER 10 DAYS of Bishop are expected to arrive here tomorrow. The searchers said neither of the men was delirious when found.

Continuous rains saved the lives of the two aviators, according to S. Hovatter, a member of the searching party which rescued them. Had it been clear and warm, they could not have survived after their water supply was exhausted, he said.

Robertson walked into the camp of E. L. Gamble, W. Proebestle, and Hovatter yesterday morning as they were preparing to renew the search. This party was joined soon afterward by a second rescue party from Ajo, Ariz. The parties consolidated and began the search for Bishop.

From San Diego School.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 19.—Colonel W. A. Glassford, commander of the North Island aviation school, late this afternoon received a message from Lieutenant W. A. Robertson stating that both he and Lieut. Col. Harry G. Bishop, the other missing army airman, were both alive and well. Lieutenant Robertson's message was sent from Wellton, Ariz.

Since the morning of Jan. 10, when the two aviators began a flight from here with Calexico as their objective, they had not been heard from. Searching parties consisting of fellow army aviators, civilians in automobiles, and Mexican troops had been scouring the deserts of Lower California and Sonora.

Friends of the two officers speculated tonight as to the attitude the War Department would take toward Lieut. Col. Bishop and Lieutenant Robertson. Neither, it was officially announced here last Sunday, had obtained authority to make the flight, and it was said they would be subjected to court-martial in the event of their safe return. Colonel Glassford refused to discuss the question tonight, saying it was a matter for Washington to determine.

Many Searchers Out.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The War Department received telegrams tonight from San Diego and San Francisco announcing that Lieut. Harry G. Bishop and Lieutenant W. A. Robertson, the army aviators who have been missing since Wednesday, Jan. 10, had been found near Wellton, Ariz., at 4:40 this afternoon. There were no details in the dispatches from the Western Department headquarters as to the condition of the officers or their experiences. They will be taken to San Diego tomorrow, according to the dispatch.

Wellton is 240 miles east of San Diego, on the Southern Pacific Railroad. The men were found in the Lechuguilla Desert, near the Gila Mountains. They had been for five days without food or water. It is supposed their aeroplane broke down after the long flight from San Diego, and they found themselves hundreds of miles from human habitations. Automobile searching parties were sent out on both sides of the Mexican boundary, and several aviation expeditions were made in search of them.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 19.—"Out of the desert alive and well," said a telegram from Lieutenant Robertson at Wellton, Ariz., received here tonight by his sister, Miss Julia Robertson.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 19.—Louis H. Bishop of Normal, Ill., father of Lieut. Col. Harry G. Bishop, broke down and wept at receipt of the news of his son's safety given to him tonight. No personal message has been received from Lieut. Col. Bishop.

SAYS SECRET SAVES WARD CO. MILLIONS

Dr. Rosanoff Tells of Process by Which Bakers Cut Yeast Used by 65 Per Cent.

THEIRS FOR 15 YEARS MORE

Mellon Institute Scientist Declares Formula Cost Only Fees Paid to Institution's Chemists.

The Ward Baking Company, which in common with other baking concerns a short time ago raised the price of bread, is in the possession of secret formulae which mean an advantage of more than $1,000,000 a year, and the company will be in exclusive possession of those formulae for fifteen years more, according to Dr. M. A. Rosanoff of the Mellon Research Institute of Pittsburgh. He said at the annual dinner of the National Institute of Social Sciences at the Hotel Astor last night that the formulae had been worked out at that institution without cost to the Ward Company other than the payment of the salaries of the scientists who worked on the problem.

This statement was made by Dr. Rosanoff in his recitation of how the development of the sciences in America would lend to the advancement of the country's industries. He told of how Governor Stubbs of Kansas had had trouble in getting salt-rising bread baked at home. The master bakers said sometimes it would rise and sometimes it wouldn't, and the problem was put up to the institute, which found that salt-rising bread rose because of the activity of a bacillus. The bacillus, he said, had been patented.

Then he told of how the Ward Company had come to the institute for the elimination of a loss of between 4 and 5 per cent. of the flour in its loaves because of the exodus from the loaf of that proportion of the wheat in the form of alcohol evaporation and carbon dioxide. He said the institute had worked out a plan whereby much of this loss was avoided and the amount of yeast used by the Ward Company was cut by 65 per cent. He also said the Ward Company had found that the same flour sent to different cities acted in different ways. The institute had found that this was due to the different salts in the water of the different cities. He said a way had also been found to cure this.

"By this means," he said, "there is saved to the Ward Company more than $1,000,000 a year. It may be said that the Institute in this way is helping only one firm and not doing social service, but after fifteen years the Ward Company will not have exclusive use of these methods, and they will be available for the whole country. This is only one of the instances of our aiding industry, and we have found that the most effective way is to do work for one big firm, work which will eventually be for all the people."

Dr. Rosanoff said that the great display of preparedness the Germans had been able to make was due to the work done in the universities. He said that real American preparedness must be worked out in our universities, not so much in teaching knowledge as in creating knowledge.

Professor M. T. Bogert of Columbia, a member of the National Research Council, said that that body could be of great usefulness in the development of science in America by acting more or less as a clearing house for research knowledge.

"Industries can advance," he said, "only as the sciences on which they are based advance."

He said scientific research in America was greatly handicapped because of the fact that scientists left the educational field to go into industries which offered them big salaries. He said there was an urgent need in this country for more institutions like the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, the Mellon Institute, and the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin.

He declared this country should send scientists to Europe to study at once the advance of science evidenced in warfare.

He believed Germany had the right idea in spending vast amounts in finding out how to do a thing in the most efficient way and told of how one factory had spent $5,000,000 to learn how to make synthetic indigo that was better than the natural product. To show how science could do in five seconds what nature took months to do, he poured the contents of a test tube containing caustic soda solution into another test tube containing ortho-nitrobenzaldehyde and acetone. Instantly the two colorless liquids formed a most brilliant indigo.

Police Commissioner Arthur Woods told of the police diet experiment, which, he said, wasn't designed to show people how to live on 25 cents a day.

"It is," he said, "to show the people that in stoking up the human frame for a day's work they should use as much care as in stoking up an automobile for a day's journey."

The Commissioner also praised the police and their work.

Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, President of the institute, presided. He said private interests had made full use of science, and the time had come when the nation would have to do the same thing.

Dr. John H. Finley, New York State Commissioner of Education, presented to E. H. Sothern, the actor, an institute medal for valuable social service. He thanked Mr. Sothern "for what you've done to make America a sweeter, better, and more inspiring place in which to live." Mr. Sothern thanked the society for the honor. Julia Marlowe, Mr. Sothern's wife, read Grey's Elegy.

During the scientific discussion, Enrico Caruso occupied himself in sketching the profile of a woman diner. When the dinner was finished he walked up to her and handed her the sketch, strolling away, humming a song.

CASSIDY'S CIVIL RIGHTS RESTORED BY WHITMAN

Ex-Democratic Boss of Queens, Out of Sing Sing Nearly a Year, a Citizen Again.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Joseph Cassidy, former Democratic boss and ex-Borough President of Queens, has been restored to citizenship by Governor Whitman. The papers were filed in the office of the Secretary of State before the Governor left the Capitol today for a trip to Cortland, where he was to be the guest of State Highway Commissioner Edwin Duffey, prior to attending the funeral of Excise Commissioner George E. Green, which is to be held at Binghamton tomorrow.

The former Democratic boss of Queens was convicted of selling a nomination for Supreme Court Justice to former Congressman William Willett, also of Queens. He was released from Sing Sing under parole on Jan. 25, 1916, after serving one year of an indeterminate sentence of from one year to eighteen months and paying a $1,000 fine. On July 12 last year Cassidy was discharged from parole.

It is the understanding here that William Willett, who was convicted with Cassidy, will be restored to citizenship in April, when a year will have expired from the time of his release from the State prison at Great Meadow. The minimum term of imprisonment in Willett's case expired simultaneously with that of Cassidy, but James C. Cropsey, then District Attorney of Kings, who prosecuted both, enjoined the Parole Board from letting Willett out until after his fine had been paid. He was finally released on April 12 last year.

At the Executive Chamber it was said Governor Whitman, in restoring Cassidy to citizenship, had merely carried out a policy established by him when he took office and in pursuance of which discharged prisoners who behave are restored to citizenship twelve months after their release. Pardon Clerk Owen L. Potter, when asked who had intervened with the Governor on behalf of Cassidy would merely say: "Oh, dozens of very prominent persons."

Announcement that Cassidy had been restored to citizenship was made yesterday by Michael P. McNamara, editor of the Far Rockaway News and one of the former "Boss's" closest friends. The executive order was sent to Far Rockaway by special messenger and delivered to Cassidy at the Rockaway City Club late Thursday night.

At his home in Hollywood Park Place, Far Rockaway, the ex-boss told a reporter from THE NEW YORK TIMES last night that he had no comment to make on the Governor's action, except to say that it gave him the greatest pleasure. Beyond saying he was out of politics, he would not commit himself in regard to future plans.

In this connection McNamara is quoted as saying: "Naturally, Joe and all his friends are delighted. He has not confided to any of us his intentions, but all his followers are ready to go with him if he takes up politics again."

When Cassidy returned from Sing Sing, his homecoming was made an occasion of a welcoming demonstration.

Willett refused yesterday to comment on the Governor's action in Cassidy's case.

Miss Milholland Starts Crusade to Carry Out Her Sister's Wishes.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—To carry out the wishes of her sister, the late Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, Miss Vida Milholland announced here today that she will join actively in the fight to abolish capital punishment in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Boissevain, who died several weeks ago as a result of overexertion during the Presidential campaign, also was a strong opponent of capital punishment.

Miss Milholland declared that she would fight not only for the abolition of capital punishment in Pennsylvania but throughout the nation. Because of the present outlook in Pennsylvania, which she believes is promising, Miss Milholland will direct her energies toward the passage by the Legislature of the bill to be introduced by Representative Wells of this city, proposing the substitution of life imprisonment.

EX-CONFEDERATES AS HOSTS

Veterans Hold "Campfire" and Many Prominent Men Attend.

The Confederate Veterans in this city held a "camp fire" in the north and east ballrooms of the Hotel Astor last night, which was attended by 500 of the veterans and their guests. General Lee's farewell address was read by Commander W. Roy Mason, Irving S. Cobb delivered a humorous address, and Don C. Seitz, publisher of The New York World, made a speech on "The South of Today."

Among the guests were Mayor Mitchel, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, and Charles Feckie, Passenger Manager of the Cunard Line. After the reception and speeches there was a musical and vocal program and dancing.

Dr. Caldwell had experience as teacher and supervisor in elementary schools, high schools, State Normal school and college. He is the author of several important books dealing with botany and general science for the use of secondary schools, and has also edited a leading textbook in agriculture for secondary schools. He has been for years one of the most active and effective workers in adapting science subjects to elementary and secondary school uses. In addition to his books he has published numerous papers dealing with the educational aspects of science work, and has been constantly in demand as a speaker on educational programs. Recently he has participated in the Gary survey which is being conducted by the General Education Board and he is just completing a monograph on the teaching of science in the Gary schools. In addition to his position as Director of the school Dr. Caldwell will become a professor of education in Teachers College. In recruiting the staff, the country will be searched for able and resourceful teachers in all the different fields of elementary and secondary education.

It is expected that the school will open with part of its classes in the Fall of 1917. Both boys and girls from 6 years of age up will be admitted, though they will not necessarily be in the same classes in all subjects. It is expected that the tuition fees will be moderate and that there will be a number of free and partial scholarships. Subject to the authority of Columbia University and Teachers College, the general management of the school will be vested in an Administrative Committee composed of James E. Russell, Dean of Teachers College, Chairman, and the following additional members: Otis W. Caldwell, V. Everit Macy, Mrs. Willard Straight, Felix M. Warburg, Arthur Turnbull, appointed by Teachers College, and George E. Vincent, Wickliffe Rose, Charles P. Howland, and Abraham Flexner, appointed by the Chairman of the General Education Board.

Formal Study to be Discarded.

In his paper entitled "The Modern School," which is referred to in the General Board's announcement, Dr. Flexner, in describing the curriculum of such a school, says that, "aside from reading, writing, spelling, and figuring, the curriculum of the modern school will be built out of actual activities in science, industry, aesthetics, civics."

"The work in science," said Dr. Flexner yesterday, "will be the central and dominating feature. The curriculum will include nothing for which an affirmative case cannot now be made out. The modern school will drop the formal study of grammar, for such evidence as we possess points to the futility of formal grammar as an aid to correct speaking and writing.

"The modern school will not go through the form of teaching children useless historical facts, just because previous generations of children have learned and forgotten them; neither will it go through the form of reading obsolete and uncongenial classics simply because tradition has made this sort of acquaintance a kind of good form."

Referring to the teaching of languages, Dr. Flexner pointed out that Greek and Latin were eliminated, not because their "literatures were less wonderful than they are reputed to be," but because their present position in the curriculum rests upon "tradition and assumption." Languages, he adds, have no value in themselves, and exist "solely for the purpose of communicating ideas and abbreviating our thought and action processes."

"If studied," he says, "they are valuable only in so far as they are practically mastered—not otherwise, so at least the modern school holds.

New York as a Laboratory.

"A school trying to produce a resourceful modern type of educated man and woman would provide practical training in one or more modern languages. A realistic treatment of literature would take hold of the child's normal and actual interests in romance, adventure, fact, or what not, and endeavor to develop them into as effective habits of reading as may be. Translations, adaptations, and originals in the vernacular—old and new—are equally available. They ought to be used unconventionally and resourcefully, in order that his real interest in books may be carried as far and as high as is for him possible, and in this effort the methods pursued should be calculated to develop his interest and his taste, not to 'train his mind,' or to make of him a make-believe literary scholar.

"The modern school would, in the same way, endeavor to develop a spontaneous, discriminating and genuine artistic interest and appreciation, rather than to fashion makers of music and art.

"Let us imagine a modern school located in New York City; consider for a moment its assets for educational purposes; the harbor, the Metropolitan Museum, the Public Library, the Natural History Museum, the Zoological Gardens, the city Government, the Weather Bureau, the transportation systems, lectures, concerts, plays, and so on. Other communities may have less, but all have much.

"As things now are, children living in this rich and tingling environment get for the most part precisely the same education that they would be getting in, let us say, Oshkosh or Keokuk.

"Again, the modern school is as much interested in the child's body as in his mind. It would therefore provide play facilities, sports, and gymnastics."

Dr. Caldwell, who is to head the new school, was present yesterday when Dr. Flexner made the announcement of the experiment. Dr. Flexner said the working out of the experiment would be progressive, beginning in New York and eventually extending to other parts of the country.

MRS. DONA IN PHILADELPHIA

Fled from Her Home Here While Detectives Were Approaching It.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Ida von Claussen Dona, who has figured in newspapers through alleged attempts to annoy Theodore Roosevelt and other prominent men and who was this week ordered recommitted to the Middletown, N. Y., State Hospital, is in this city, having avoided, she said today, New York detectives who were about to carry out the directions of the court. She is staying at a hotel, and said her husband will join her later.

Mrs. Dona said she saw detectives approaching her home in New York City, but managed to escape without being seen by them. She remained in seclusion in New York, she said, until Wednesday night when she came here.

Mrs. Dona had been committed to the Middletown Hospital and later paroled in custody of a relative. She married Francis A. Dona, and later was ordered returned to the hospital. Last Monday Supreme Court Justice Tompkins at Nyack, N. Y., refused to vacate the order for recommitment.

T. M. DAVIS WILL STANDS.

Court Holds That Alleged "Million-Dollar" Agreement Never Existed.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 19.—Justice Chester W. Barrows handed down a decision today in the suit of Annie B. Davis against Thomas L. Manson, executor of the will of Theodore M. Davis of Newport, finding that the so-called "million-dollar" agreement between Mr. Davis and his wife was apparently never signed by Mr. Davis. Justice Barrows decided in favor of the executor. There were about fifty contestants in the case, and the trial lasted several months.

The case hinged upon the validity of the alleged agreement whereby Mr. Davis was said to have agreed to give his wife, Annie B. Davis, $1,000,000 in lieu of her dower rights.

In the decision Justice Barrows finds that the complainant's case is not established. Twenty issues of fact are passed upon, and in deciding the tenth, which covers the alleged agreement, the decision reads:

"The tenth issue of fact we answer by saying we do not find it to have been proved by sufficient evidence that Theodore M. Davis ever signed the so-called million-dollar agreement."

PROGRESSIVES DENY PERKINS AS LEADER

Men Who Refused to Support Hughes Ridicule Fight Against the Old Guard.

HALE AND TAYLOR SCOFF

Ask Who Gave Perkins and Colby Authority to Speak for the National Moose Party.

George W. Perkins, leader of the faction in the Progressive Party that protested against the election of John T. Adams as Vice Chairman of the Republican National Committee, returned from Albany yesterday feeling well pleased with having obtained the promised support of Governor Whitman in his fight against the Old Guard element in the Republican organization. Mr. Perkins would not discuss his conference with the Governor, but it was learned that he felt satisfied that when the Republican National Committee met it would rescind the action of the Executive Committee in electing Mr. Adams.

Neither would Mr. Perkins go into details regarding his threat made at Albany on Thursday that if the Republicans did not do as the Progressives wished they would form another party or revive their own organization to fight the Republicans in State and national elections. His plan, however, did not meet with approbation outside what is known as the Perkins-Roosevelt combination among the Progressives. A number of Progressive leaders who threw in their lot with President Wilson at the last election ridiculed the idea that Mr. Perkins could control any important strength in the party.

"Who gave Mr. Perkins the right to call himself a Progressive or to assume to speak for the Progressive Party?" asked National Chairman Mathew Hale of the Progressive Party. "Mr. Perkins, by his own claims, is a Republican."

John R. Taylor, head of the present Progressive organization in Kings County, made this comment:

"How does Mr. Perkins dare to use this word 'we' in talking of what the Progressive Party will do? At every point in the Perkins statement is what 'we' will or will not do. He is no longer a part of the third party. Who would follow him back into the party which he deserted and then tried to kill? He speaks of 'Colby and I' when both of them are now Republicans. Of course I mean Everett Colby of New Jersey, and not Bainbridge Colby of New York, who is a real Progressive. The very act of Mr. Perkins in closing National Progressive Headquarters here is indicative that he has no more interest in Progressivism. And I notice that all these telegrams which he is receiving are coming, not from Progressives, but from men who have returned to the Republican fold, and are now kicking because they have not been able to arrange their own little personal deals with the various Republican State organizations."

Chairman Hale, it was learned yesterday, has sent out a call for a preliminary organization meeting of the new Progressive Party in this State, to be held at Albany on Jan. 27. Mr. Perkins has not been invited to attend. Asked what would be done if the Republican National Committee is not called to consider the action of its Executive Committee in electing Mr. Adams, Mr. Perkins said:

"I can only refer you to the old song we used to sing in our church choir, 'Lead Kindly Light, One Step Enough for Me.' Let them meet and decide what they have to offer and then we will decide what will be done."

"Will you call a meeting of the Progressive National Committee to decide what steps to take?" Mr. Perkins was asked.

"Why, no," he replied. "I mean we will confer about future action. The National Executive Committee usually acts for the party in the interim between campaigns, and I am Chairman of that committee. Our fight is not against the rank and file of the Republican Party, but against the machine of that party, which for years has refused to allow the voters to have a voice in party affairs. That is what caused the split in 1912."

Does it mean a revivification of the Progressive Party?" Mr. Perkins was asked.

"I don't know," was the reply. "I cannot say what this will lead to, but I do know that it means vigorous action."

Mr. Perkins continued to receive numerous messages yesterday backing him up in his fight on the Republican Executive Committee.

Charles S. Bird of Massachusetts wired: "I would tell the Republican National and Executive Committees to go to the devil. They will hang themselves."

William Flinn of Pennsylvania sent this message: "If the committee does not act fairly, sever your connections."

Other senders of messages were Irving K. Taylor, I. R. Kirkwood, J. R. McCormick, H. P. Gardner, H. B. Anderson, W. L. Ransom, John A. Kingsbury, A. L. Garford, J. C. Shaffer, R. S. Sheridan, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Henry F. Cochems, H. N. Jackson, W. H. Childs, Henry L. Stoddard, P. S. Stephenson, D. H. Carroll, E. A. Knapp, G. D. Pope, and G. T. Taylor.

Chairman William R. Willcox of the Republican National Committee said yesterday that he had taken no action regarding a meeting of the National Committee. He will go to Washington next week to confer with leaders of the party there. Asked if he thought Mr. Perkins would be able to make good his threat to form a new party or rejuvenate the Progressive Party, he said:

"I don't think I care to discuss that question."

COST OF CRIME CUT IN HALF.

Sing Sing Applauds Jersey Judge's Leniency to the Poor.

Prisoners in Sing Sing and elsewhere, according to reports received yesterday, are applauding Judge Charles F. O'Brien of Jersey City because they have been informed that he has taken official consideration of the high cost of living and, in consequence, has promised leniency in fines. The bulletin of the Mutual Welfare League, received from Ossining yesterday, has the following paragraph on the subject:

"The cost of crime was cut in half in Jersey City today, to continue so long as the cost of living stays up. Judge Charles F. O'Brien in the Criminal Court made the announcement. Fines will be halved by the court, he declared, and he will make an earnest attempt to remit them altogether wherever possible.

"'Most of the men fined in my court are poor men,' he said, 'and the burden falls not so much on them as on their families.'"

In the Bulletin was also an account of the last meeting of the Mutual Welfare League at which Chairman Meagher, addressing Warden Moyer, said:

"Warden, this is the first time I have met you, but I have seen and observed you, and it appears to me that you are a business man, and as such, like to see results. I feel sure that if we show you we are anxious to make the league a good and sound business proposition everything will be all right. We will convince you that most of our methods are right and that the whole principle is right."

"Thank you," replied the Warden, according to the report.

TO PROSECUTE DAIRYMEN.

Health Commissioner Will Act if Dillon Will Give Evidence.

Health Commissioner Emerson yesterday addressed a letter to John J. Dillon, Commissioner of Foods and Markets, in which he offered to prosecute those responsible for milk violations, if the list of tests were sent to him. The letter follows:

"If you will forward to me the tests of milks in which your Inspectors have found violations of the regulations now in force in New York City, I shall take pleasure in starting prosecutions at once in all instances where the evidence is sufficient to warrant it, and I assure you that if there is any reason why prosecution is found impracticable, I will give full explanation for refraining from prosecution."

Janitors to Study at College.

The City College announced yesterday two new vocational courses for the Spring term, one in fuel economy and the other in boiler and fuel management, both of which are expected to interest janitors of apartment houses, superintendents and real estate managers. Applicants may register from Jan. 22 to 29.

SON SEES PROPHECY IN TOLSTOY'S WORK

Russian Philosopher Foretold Europe's Woes in War, Count Ilya Says.

DESCRIBES HIS DESPAIR

So Keenly Did He Realize "Spiritual Desolation" of World That He Contemplated Suicide.

The life and work of Count Leo Tolstoy, the eminent Russian novelist and philosopher, was discussed last night in Carnegie Hall by his son, Count Ilya Tolstoy, on the occasion of his first public appearance in this country on the lecture platform. Count Tolstoy, whose American tour is to arouse interest in a project to build a home for aged literary men at Vasnaya Polyana, near his father's birthplace in Russia, was introduced by Oscar Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, who presided.

Mr. Straus lauded the life and teachings of Leo Tolstoy, whom he termed "one of the world's greatest teachers," and whose life, he said, was guided by a fearless sincerity to find the truth.

"There never was a time when the world was so much in need of the message of my father as now," Count Tolstoy said. "At this epoch, when the hurricane of madness is sweeping the earth, it is indeed proper to consider the gigantic work of my father in giving to humanity the gospel of love and non-resistance."

During the middle years of Tolstoy's life, which the speaker characterized as "the bloom of his literary activity," Count Tolstoy, the philosopher, gave to the world the message of peace and good will through "Anna Karenina," "War and Peace," and other equally notable works.

"His message of peace still lives," the lecturer said. "There never was a time when 'War and Peace' was read with such lively interest in Russia as today, especially in military circles. It describes to the minutest detail what is occurring today in Europe. Although the technique of war has changed through the introduction of submarines, aeroplanes, and other methods, still the psychology of man has not changed. All this was seized intuitively by Leo Tolstoy with such subtlety that it seems written today."

The speaker told of the spiritual crisis which came later in his father's life, when the novelist became gloomy, brooding over the "religious and spiritual desolation around him." From an examination of his father's diaries Count Ilya Tolstoy said he was shocked to learn that Tolstoy contemplated suicide at many times.

"When people believed Tolstoy was the happiest of mortals," Count Tolstoy said, "he suddenly began to run hither and thither like a beggar. He renounced everything and at times sank to such spiritual despair that he contemplated taking his life. Only his powerful will kept him from doing this. His search for truth and God continually occupied his mind."

Tolstoy secluded himself from his family, studying the religious beliefs and dogmas of the world part of the day and working at some form of manual labor the rest, the speaker said. One by one the novelist cast aside each system of belief until he finally accepted the teachings of Christ, Count Tolystoy said.

"Until then my father seemed to experience the feelings of a man lost in the woods," he said. "After careful study and much serious thought he finally found the key to the new comprehension of religion in St. Matthew, verses 38-39, which read: "And ye have heard that it has been said 'a tooth for a tooth and an eye for an eye,' but I say unto you, resist not him that is evil, but whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek turn to him the other also."

"And so, after much painstaking, study, and introspection covering a period of many years, my father gave to the world his everlasting message of peace and nonresistance."

Count Tolstoy closed his lecture with a description of his father's last days and the impression he still had of the philosopher.

DEWEY TO BE BURIED TODAY

President Will Attend Services at the Admiral's Home.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Admiral Dewey, the hero of Manila Bay, will be buried at Arlington tomorrow with public honors seldom equaled in the nation's history. After services in the rotunda of the Capitol the body will be followed down Pennsylvania Avenue and across the Potomac to its resting place by a cortege including all the high officials of the Federal Government, the Diplomatic Corps, ranking officers of the army and navy, many military and naval units in uniform, committees of the Senate and House, and representatives of many patriotic societies and other organizations.

Flags on American public buildings, forts, and naval vessels throughout the world will be at half-mast, and at noon, while the last rites are being said at Arlington, senior warships of the American Navy everywhere will fire a farewell salute of nineteen guns.

A brief ceremony at the Dewey home, attended by near relatives, the President and Mrs. Wilson, and a few close friends, will precede the Capitol funeral, and, in conformity to the Admiral's desire, the Annapolis Midshipmen will be the only military escort when the body is taken from the home. The private service will begin at 10 o'clock and that at the Capitol an hour later.

The larger military escort which will accompany the body to the cemetery will include the entire corps of midshipmen, the bluejackets of the battleship New Hampshire, marines from Norfolk and Philadelphia, artillerymen from Fort Monroe and other posts along the Potomac, and many other units. Accompanied by their officers on foot, they will march in the inverse order of their rank, in special full-dress uniform.

Behind the military, in carriages, will be the President, the Cabinet, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, the Diplomatic Corps, and the committees of Congress.

Principal stores and business houses have arranged to close from 11:30 to 12:30 while the funeral cortege is passing through the streets.

Suffrage headquarters announced that the silent sentinels who have been picketing the White House would be withdrawn for the day in respect to the occasion.

The Executive Committee of the National Special Aid Society, of which Mrs. William Alexander is President, at a meeting here yesterday sent a set of resolutions to Mrs. George Dewey expressing the society's sorrow over her husband's death.

Exercises in Memory of Admiral Dewey at Mrs. Van Rensselaer's.

Commemoration exercises for Admiral Dewey were held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, the author, 134 East Ninety-fifth Street. She is the member of the New York Historical Society who, on Jan. 8 last, told that society it lacked animation. The principal participants were a dozen boys and girls of 12 and 15 years of age, members of Mrs. Van Rensselaer's city history classes.

The idea of the exercises occurred to her when the children requested that they be permitted to drape with mourning and flags the photograph of the Admiral hung at the head of the stairway in Mrs. Van Rensselaer's home. They did this, after which Mrs. Van Rensselaer told several anecdotes in which the Admiral figured and which, she said, had escaped the biographers.

Nearly all the children in the classes organized and instructed by Mrs. Van Rensselaer are foreign born.

$108,000 AUTO FRAUDS.

Sales Company Manager Tells of Insurance Paid on Faked Fires.

The admission that during the last three years he had destroyed more than fifty automobiles and collected $108,000 from accident insurance companies by filing false claims was made yesterday by Frederick Strobel, former manager of the Moon Auto Sales Company of Brooklyn, while testifying at the trial of William Stark before Judge Nott and a jury in General Sessions. Stark, who was a partner in the company, is charged with collecting damages on a car wrecked last Summer on Long Island. Strobel has already pleaded guilty to a similar charge and is awaiting sentence.

"As soon as we had destroyed a machine," Strobel testified, "we collected both the fire insurance and the theft insurance. We would register the license number in the theft insurance and the manufacturer's number in the fire insurance. Sometimes we bought the damaged car after we had collected the insurance from the adjuster and used the same car again to defraud the same company from whom we had just purchased it."

Strobel declared that one car which had been bought for $350 netted the company more than $6,000 in false accident claims, which were paid. The trial will be continued today.

DR. TWITCHELL WINS MEDAL

Receives Prize for Greatest Discovery in the Chemical Industry.

Dr. Ernst Twitchell, inventor of the "Twitchell process" of saponifying fats, received the Perkin medal, the national prize for the greatest discovery in the chemical industry, last night at a meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry at the Chemists' Club, 52 East Forty-first Street. The prize, which is given annually, is named after its first recipient, Dr. Perkin, and is awarded by the vote of a committee of American chemist societies.

FOX HUNT IN TIMES SQUARE.

Pet Finally Captured and Taken to Police Station.

There was a real fox chase in Times Square last evening. Just before theatre time a small gray fox with a leather collar, evidently a pet, appeared in front of the Hotel Astor. Apparently it had escaped from its master. A crowd gathered around it and attracted the attention of Philip Dollard, a New York Central brakeman, who used to hunt foxes out West.

He chased the little beast, which ran around Times Square with the crowd close behind, and finally caught it in the entrance to a flathouse near the Times Annex Building in Forty-third Street, where it sought refuge.

Dollard took the fox to the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station, and there it was confined in an empty ballot box to await the arrival of its owner.

SAFFORD TESTIFIES IN HIS OWN BEHALF

Tells Court He Had 16 Highballs In One Day and Remained Sober.

ONE WITNESS IS BALKY

Called by the Defense, Former Tombs Prisoner Refuses to Answer Questions.

While Franklin D. Safford, the former Plainfield hotel clerk, who is being tried in the Federal District Court for perjury because he testified at a hearing before United States Commissioner Clarence Houghton that it was James W. Osborne, the lawyer, who accompanied Rae Tanzer to the Kensington in Plainfield on Oct. 18, 1914, and registered there as "Oliver Osborne," told his story yesterday on the witness stand the centre of the stage in the court room was held by other witnesses. One of these was Joseph Marshall, who has been known as Erber, and who has persistently refused to answer questions upon the ground that it would tend to degrade and incriminate him. He is a slight young man, wearing broad rimmed glasses. He was arrested several weeks ago on a charge of having used the mails to defraud. He spent one night in the Tombs, and while there he met and conversed with Charles H. Wax, the self-confessed Oliver Osborne.

While Marshall, called by the defense, has admitted he talked with Wax he refused to answer a question whether this conversation took place during the time he was in the Tombs. This refusal was on the advice of William C. Bowers, 2d., his lawyer. There have been conferences between Judge Learned Hand and counsel on both sides, but Marshall persisted in evading a reply upon his constitutional rights. As this is only the second question asked him by Benjamin Slade, Safford's counsel, he has blocked the entire line of Mr. Slade's inquiry. Judge Hand told the witness he might answer, but he refused. The Judge then ordered Mr. Slade to make out a commitment and if Marshall persists in his refusal to answer on Monday the Court will sign the order committing him to the Tombs.

The other two witnesses who aroused interest were Mrs. Rachael Goodkawich of 1,210 Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, and her 14-year-old son. Their appearance disclosed a masked gun in the battery of the defense. They testified that Wax, posing as Weiss, came to their house "during vacation time" in 1915. This is a time when Wax is supposed to have been out of the city.

There was some delay before Mrs. Goodkawich took the stand while the services of a Yiddish interpreter were being obtained. She told how Wax, whom she knew as Weiss, had come to her house.

"What was the object of his visit?" asked Mr. Slade.

William Rand, Jr., the special prosecutor, objected at once. The question was a very material one, Mr. Slade held. He said that he intended to show that Wax was a professional witness who would testify to anything, and that he was a "plant" when testimony against a person was wanted. He said that Mrs. Goodkawich was interested in litigation and that Wax had gone into her house, pulled off his hat and coat, and waited until some one came in and saw him, with a view of testifying against the woman. The question, however, was not allowed.

When Safford was called to the stand he plunged into an account of the coming to the hotel in Plainfield of the man he asserts was James W. Osborne with Rae Tanzer. He appeared to be indignant when he told how the man left without paying for the room. His narrative then took up the coming to Greenwood Lake, where he was then employed as a clerk, of David Slade and others, and how he accompanied them to this city, and afterward identified James W. Osborne as the Oliver he had seen in Plainfield. His journeys after the identification included stopping at hotels under assumed names until he was finally arrested by the United States authorities and lodged in the Tombs. He said he registered under names not his own because he was afraid of trouble with his wife, whom he confessed to having deserted three years before. He repeated his positive identification of James W. Osborne and his repudiation of Wax as Rae Tanzer's companion.

He denied with equal emphasis that any one had ever pointed out James W. Osborne to him.

"It wasn't necessary; I knew him," he said.

It is alleged by the defense that after he testified as to Mr. Osborne Safford was drunk for two weeks. The witness denied this, and told Mr. Slade that he had only been drunk twice in his life. During the cross-examination Mr. Rand wanted to know particularly about Safford's capacity for drinking. Safford admitted that on the morning of the day he testified before the United States Commissioner he had taken four highballs before noon and twelve more before dinner.

"I was sick, but I was not drunk," he said.

While the witness denied any intention of dishonesty the cross-examination brought out that at every place he had worked there had been a difference in his accounts to be adjusted after he had left. His accounts did not balance by $20 when he worked at the Broadway Central Hotel. There was a difference in his accounts when he left an Auburn firm of importers, and Safford said that he had taken the responsibility for a $1,800 deficit and had paid off some of the money. It was the same thing when he left the Keystone Distilling Company at Little Falls. This time his bondsmen settled.

The morning session opened with Albert J. McCullough, a private detective on the stand. He went over former testimony and denied having nudged Safford at the hearing before Commissioner Houghton and pointed out James W. Osborne to him. Under cross-examination, Mr. Cullough, who is under indictment for perjury, said that he had had a photograph of Mr. Osborne in his pocket for two weeks, but said he mistook United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall for Osborne when he first entered the room. Mr. Marshall stood up so the jury could see him.

BERKMAN DENIES THREAT.

Anarchist Says He Did Not Write Article Warning the President.

Alexander Berkman, anarchist, editor of The Blast, who shot H. C. Frick in 1892 in the course of the Homestead riots; once accused in connection with a plot to kill John D. Rockefeller, and most recently charged with plotting with others the death of Governor Hiram Johnson of California, denied yesterday that he had written the article in The Blast which threatened the life of President Wilson.

The extract quoted from The Blast at the trial of labor leaders alleged to have instigated the bomb explosion that killed ten persons in the San Francisco preparedness parade read as follows: "The weather cock in the White House had better watch out. Suppression of the voice of the discontented leads to assassination."

"I am quite sure," said Berkman yesterday, "that I did not write that line. I never would have phrased it in that manner, though since I haven't the copy of The Blast in which this was alleged to have been printed, I cannot say whether this assertion was made, but as it was quoted by the Assistant District Attorney conducting the trial, the words were probably taken out of its context. It seems as if they were trying me out there instead of Mooney.

"I know they have no evidence against me—in fact the whole thing is a frame-up."

A farewell reception will be held in honor of Berkman at the Harlem Casino on Jan. 27 before he leaves for California.

MRS. TEARLE ASKS DIVORCE.

Former Roberta Menges Wants Referee's Decree Confirmed.

Counsel for Mrs. Roberta Menges Tearle asked Supreme Court Justice Giegerich yesterday to confirm the report of John Gilray as referee in recommending a decree of divorce for Mrs. Tearle from Conway Tearle, actor. The plaintiff, who is the actor's third wife, accused him of misconduct with Adele Rowland, but both Miss Rowland and Tearle insisted that they were merely reading a play in Miss Rowland's apartment when the detectives entered.

"As to the robe in which I was clad," said Miss Rowland, "it is the custom in the profession to read plays attired like that."

The court reserved decision.

FINDS 'INNOCENT FELONIES.'

Law Forbids Photographs of Naturalization Papers.

Because many persons unacquainted with the Federal statutes are committing violations of law punishable by ten years in prison and a fine of $10,000, County Clerk Schneider issued a warning yesterday that he would be compelled to notify the authorities of such violations as came to his attention.

The law in question, which is not widely known, provides the penalties stated on conviction of engraving, printing, or making a photographic likeness of a naturalization paper.

"It would be a source of regret to all of us to see any prosecutions of an innocent violation of the law," said Mr. Schneider, "but the statutes are so strict that even a person who has a photograph of a naturalization paper in his pocket is liable to arrest and imprisonment."

The violations have come to the attention of County Clerk Schneider through applications to have the photographs certified as copies of the original, in order that they might be sent abroad to prove the American citizenship of the person to whom the certificate had been issued.

"The proper course in such a case is for the litigant to get an exemplified and certified copy of the paper, because this is the only legal proof of naturalization," said Mr. Schneider.

West Side Hearing Feb. 14.

The Board of Estimate yesterday set Feb. 14 as the date for beginning public hearings on the proposed agreement between the city and the New York Central Railroad in regard to the West Side improvements. The temporary injunction recently obtained restraining the board from acting on the proposed contract will not interfere with the hearings, which will continue until the whole matter has been thoroughly gone over.

Greatest Year in History of The New York Times

Supreme in General Advertising

In 1916 The New York Times published 11,552,496 agate lines of advertising, including the largest volume of display advertising ever published in one year by any New York newspaper—3,028,163 lines more display advertising than the second morning newspaper, 3,393,787 more than the third newspaper, and 2,752,527 lines more than any evening newspaper.

Display Advertising Gains

In 1916 The New York Times published 1,869,934 agate lines more advertising than during 1915, a gain of 19%—an increase of 1,588,570 lines display advertising, more than twice the gain of the next newspaper, and approximately one-half (½) the total gain of all other morning newspapers.

Leads in Classifications

In 1916 The New York Times gained in 30 of the 37 advertising classifications and published more advertising than any other New York morning newspaper in the following twenty-one classifications:

Financial Automobiles
Women's Specialty Shops
Books
Dry Goods
Men's Furnishings
Musical Instruments
Steamships and Travel
Hotels and Restaurants
Tobacco
Beverages
Newspapers
Legal Building Material
Boots and Shoes
Railroads
Public Service
Jewelry
Charity and Religious Office Appliances
Miscellaneous Display

The New York Times led all New York morning and evening newspapers in national advertising in 1916.

Advertising in The New York Times is 52% cheaper than ten years ago. At that time the daily and Sunday circulation was 131,140 copies—advertising rate, 40c an agate line, $.0305 per agate line per 10,000 circulation. In 1916 the circulation was 340,904 copies—advertising rate, 50c an agate line, $.0147 per agate line per 10,000 circulation.

BANK ROBBERS SLAIN IN FIGHT WITH POSSE

Bandits Had Terrorized Southern Oklahoma for the Last Six Months.

ACTED ONLY IN DAYTIME

Would Take Available Cash and Then Lock Bankers in the Vaults—Traced by Burns Men.

Special to The New York Times.

OKMULGEE, Okla., Jan. 19.—Three bank robbers, members of a band which had terrorized Southern Oklahoma for six months with almost daily robberies in broad daylight, were killed this morning in a battle with a local posse and Burns detectives in Deep Fork Canyon, about eighteen miles southwest of here. A fourth had been killed yesterday, and still another member of the band was brought here wounded.

Oscar Poe, leader of the band, and Will and Harry Hart, his chief lieutenants, were the victims of today's fight. Their bodies were brought here by the posse, which included Sheriff C. F. Roach, Deputy Sheriff W. L. Robbins, Chief of Police Mel Bowman, and three Burns detectives. Bowman, the only officer wounded, was shot in the hand.

Poe and his fellow-robbers had a price on their heads for several months, and the Burns Agency, acting for the American Bankers' Association, had been co-operating with Oklahoma authorities in the chase. Mr. Burns received word yesterday afternoon of the death of the three leaders in Deep Fork Canyon.

So successful were the robbers at their holdups that burglary insurance companies were obliged to suspend business in the districts where they were operating. They had cleaned up a total of $100,000, Mr. Burns estimated yesterday.

The robbers would ride up to a bank in broad daylight, leaving sentries outside, cover the bank officials with their revolvers, take the cash from the open vault, and then lock up the bankers and any one else who happened to be there in the vault.

Usually they were able to get a good start before the cries of the imprisoned men were heard and their release could be brought about. Several weeks ago, however, after they had robbed banks at Alluwe and Vinita, they were followed by a posse, who engaged them in a revolver fight. They fought the officers off, however, an escaped. They were not so lucky after a robbery at Centralia a few days later. Poe and Will Hart were caught after a desperate fight and lodged in jail. They made their escape and rejoined their band.

Spurred by the widespread activities of the band and their daring methods, new posses were organized, and when news came of the robbery of the First State Bank at Harrah, on Jan. 12, the Burns representatives, who happened to be nearby, joined the local authorities and quickly picked up the trail. The bank thieves were tracked through some of the wildest regions of the State, and on Thursday made a stand at Okemah. In a skirmish there one Deputy Sheriff and a robber were killed. Another robber was wounded and captured.

The pursuers kept up the chase, and about 9 o'clock yesterday morning they overtook the robbers at Grand Fork Canyon. The fight that followed was a desperate one, but the officers were ten to three against the robbers.

All of the robbers killed, according to Mr. Burns, were ex-convicts.

BROWER OUT ON BAIL.

Man Indicted in the Thaw Case Gets Out of the Tombs.

Oliver C. Brower, who was indicted on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the alleged kidnapping by Harry K. Thaw of Frederick Gump, Jr., the Kansas City boy, was yesterday released from the Tombs on a bond for $15,000 furnished by the National Surety Company.

District Attorney Swann had been afraid that Brower would leave the jurisdiction of the State, as he is a material witness against Thaw. He accordingly applied for heavy bail when Brower was arraigned to plead to the indictment against him. An attempt was made on Thursday to have the bail reduced, but Justice Cohalan, before whom a writ of habeas corpus was argued, declined to lower the amount.

ORPHAN KITTENS ADOPTED.

People Reading How Cat Lost Life to Save Them Offer Homes.

The orphan kittens of Minnie, the Police Headquarters mascot cat, which was killed rescuing the kittens from the hot ash pit of the furnace in the building at 300 Mulberry Street on Wednesday last, will be well provided for. The publicity which the cat's deed received resulted in 100 readers of New York newspapers from Troy to Philadelphia either writing or telephoning to John Furlong, Superintendent of the building, asking to be allowed to adopt the kittens.

Furlong gave one kitten to Miss Frieda Freund of 85 Leonia Avenue, Bogota, N. J. A Philadelphia woman received one of the kittens, and Furlong decided to retain one for himself.

FOR PEACE LEAGUE IN THIS HEMISPHERE

Justice Ford Doubts the Wisdom of Any Meddling in the Affairs of Europe.

CITES MONROE DOCTRINE

Would Make It Mean Something or Abandon It—Sees Great Power in American Coalition.

A recommendation that the United States form defensive alliance with the South and Central American republics rather than with the European nations was made last night by Supreme Court Justice John Ford, speaking on "The Manifest Destiny of the American Republics," at the annual dinner of the Society of American Wars, at the Ritz-Carlton. In addition to Mr. Ford, other speakers introduced by Chairman Rufus G. Shirley were Justice Clarence Shearn, Captain Richard Henry Greene, and John J. Kuhn.

"I am not among those who would recklessly consign to the scrap heap our traditional policy of avoiding entangling alliances with the countries of the other hemisphere," said Justice Ford, "and I desire, therefore, to be recorded as against the proposal that the United States join with them in a league to enforce peace.

"What we should do is to weld together a league of American republics to conserve Pan American peace, and leave Europe to kill its own snakes and skin its own polecats. Take the present war, which came because one mediocre life was taken away, and remember that we broke away from wars of such origin on July 4, 1776. In the future as in the past we should follow Washington's advice, and keep well clear of them.

"Nevertheless, we must recognize that we are one of the great nations of the earth, and as such we have a dignified place which must be maintained. Our commerce, our capital, and our people will more and more flow into foreign fields, and to protect and care for future foreign investments requires a state of preparedness for war on land and sea to which we have not yet attained.

"To my mind the wise policy would be to adhere to the Monroe Doctrine in all its pristine vigor, but so amplified as to win the whole-hearted support of all the Americas, and a Monroe Doctrine that would bind them into a Pan American Union for Pan American peace and Pan American protection."

Summing up his argument that the United States should either make the Monroe Doctrine "mean something or abandon it," Justice Ford said with the twenty-one American republics united in its defense, no foreign combination of powers would dare challenge it and the peace of the Western Hemisphere would forever be assured.

Court Confirms Scully's Election.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 19.—The Court of Errors and Appeals today sustained the Supreme Court in holding valid the order for a recount in the Congressional contest in the Third District between Robert Carson, Republican, and Representative Thomas J. Scully, Democrat. The recount showed Scully re-elected by 202 votes, and this will stand unless the House of Representatives should take a stand.

Why Meat Supply Is Certain Though Other Foods Fail

WHEN the late Philip D. Armour developed the traveling refrigerator car, he brought to you America's choicest foods in the prime of perfection. He reduced shrinkage and spoilage, thus lowering distribution costs. But greater than these is the unfailing food supply which Armour's refrigerator cars make certain, regardless of any transportation condition short of a complete blockade of the railroads themselves.

No matter how great the cry for cars, car shortage can never affect Armour. Your daily food supply is assured.

Long ago, Armour and Company foresaw that car shortages would occur—that at times the sustenance of the nation might be imperiled.

And realizing their responsibilities as a great public utility, Armour and Company met the situation in advance by building a line of refrigerator cars, which would be under Armour's ownership and control at all times.

This has meant a tremendous investment.

But, as a result, though seventy per cent of the people live east of the Mississippi, while the bulk of livestock is raised in the central west, Armour is able to assure both a regular supply to consumers and an ever-ready market to producers.

Thus, equipped to deliver foods rapidly, systematically and with absolute certainty, Armour can say to the farmer: "Send us your cattle, hogs and sheep as fast as they are ready for market—we will buy from you at any time."

In no other way could Armour continue to accept trainload after trainload of stock at a score of plants throughout the country. And without a ready market, producers would become discouraged, fewer cattle would be raised, and you would either eat less meat, or pay infinitely more for it.

As Armour foresaw present conditions and prepared for them, so is Armour today planning to meet other conditions which may arise in the distribution of foods years hence.

And with this in mind, it can be no more than good judgment on your part to direct that Armour meats and Armour products be served at your home table regularly.

KILLS HERSELF UNDER TRAIN

Young Woman Jumps in Front of Cars on Elevated in the Bronx.

An unidentified young woman, poorly dressed, committed suicide yesterday by jumping from the platform of the northbound station of the Third Avenue elevated road at 149th Street, in front of a moving train.

John J. Duigman of 457 East 187th Street, motorman of the train, applied the emergency brakes with such force that it stopped within five feet, but not before one of the forward trucks had passed over the woman's body.

This point is probably the busiest in the Bronx, where thousands of passengers transfer from the elevated to the subway. Calls were immediately sent for reserves from the Alexander Avenue Station and for a fire truck and wrecking crew. Jacks were put under the car in order to extricate the body. Thousands of persons lined the street under the elevated structure watching the work of the wrecking crews. Traffic was blocked on the northbound tracks for over an hour.

FIGHT ON CLASS SOCIETIES.

Rutgers Follows Princeton's Lead Against Club System.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Jan. 19.—Following the lead of Princeton students in attempting to do away with the club system, Rutgers College boys today started an effort to do away with the class societies of the college and their "Tap Day."

Francis J. Scarr of Hasbrouck Heights, Captain of the 1916 football team, himself a member of the Cap and Skull senior society, headed the movement today when the Senior Council was asked to abolish the societies. No action has yet been taken.

At present there are four class societies—Cap and Skull for seniors, Casque and Dagger for juniors, Chain and Bones for sophomores, and Serpent and Coffin for freshmen. Each Spring on "Tap Day" these organizations pick men from the Greek letter fraternities. These men wear special hats, and try to manage all class activities. There has long been a smoldering revolt against them, but the attacks have never gained much headway; but with one of their own members, and he the most influential in college, opposing them, it is expected that they will be abolished.

"Y" CLUB LAUNCHED AT GREATEST GATHERING OF YALE ATHLETES IN HISTORY

YALE MEN HONOR ATHLETES OF ELI

Greatest Gathering of Letter Men Pays Tribute to 1916 Eleven Here.

NEW "Y" CLUB LAUNCHED

Prominent Men at Celebration Out of Which Organization for Wearers of Insignia Is to Grow.

The greatest gathering of Yale "Y" men ever assembled was at the Yale Club last night to form the new 'Varsity Club for all the former Yale athletes who have upheld the glory of the Blue on gridiron, track, diamond, and river. Never before have so many letter men of a single university collected under one roof. The assemblage of former Yale stars represented nearly every State in the Union. The guests of honor of the occasion were Captain Black's 1916 football squad, which downed both Princeton and Harvard; the 1916 coaching staff, and the Football Committee.

All of Yale's athletic heroes for many years back were there to join in the movement for the new "Y" club. It is to be built at New Haven and its membership will include all athletes who have made their letter in any branch of college sport. The idea for the club was submitted to the Yale men at the late supper which followed their big theatre party at the Century last night. Not only were athletes of the past and present at the celebration, but also Yale men to the number of nearly 2,000. The formation of the new 'Varsity Club was placed in the hands of a committee, and its formation will be effected in a short time.

Celebration Is Enthusiastic.

The big celebration for Cupid Black's football eleven, which downed both Princeton and Harvard last Fall, began late in the afternoon, and was still going on when the milkmen were making their rounds this morning. First there was a reception which was attended by every former Yale athlete you ever heard of. The old fellows locked arms with the present generation and barked out cheer after cheer for Captain Black's band. Not only did Captain Black come in for attention, but also this year's Captain, Art Gates; Tad Jones, the head coach; Johnny Mack, the trainer, and the faithful drudges, the scrubs. All got their share of the reception. In this huge Yale party were also Cord Meyer, the crew Captain, and Johnny Overton, Captain of the track team. The dinner which followed the reception was given to the team by all the other men who made their "Y" at New Haven.

The athletes did not tarry very long over their dinner, for at 8:30 they swooped down upon the Century Theatre in the largest fleet of taxis ever gathered on Vanderbilt Avenue. After the show the revelers went back to the Yale Club, where there was another reception and supper.

Then followed a festival of cheering, singing, and speechmaking, which lasted far into this morning. Speeches were made by Former President William Howard Taft, Former Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Vance McCormick, who engineered President Wilson's last trip to the White House, and many others.

Stars, Old and Young, on Hand.

The members of the team and the squad and the former Yale stars who attended included the following:

Last year's Captain, Clinton R. Black, Jr.; the 1917 Captain, Artemus L. Gates; Harry W. Le Gore, A. La Roche, C. A. Commerford, L. W. Fox, Jr., H. M. Baldridge, J. M. Braden, J. M. FRAZIER IN GOLF FINAL.

Will Meet Bingham for Honors at Palm Beach Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Jan. 19.—Splendid short approach shots to difficult sand greens gave H. P. Bingham, the Cleveland golfer, who was a Western semi-finalist this Summer and the medalist, a victory over A. J. McClure of Lakewood 2 to 1 in today's semi-final round of the New Year tournament. Much the same sort of a game brought Frank D. Frazier, Essex, from behind to a clean-cut victory of 1 up in his semi-final round with M. A. Carroll of Wisconsin. Tomorrow it will be a case of East versus West in the title round.

In the beaten eight the finals will be another intersectional affair, as F. C. Van Dusen, Minneapolis, came through his match with H. C. Colborn, Indianapolis, 2 and 1, and will meet R. L. Whitman, Myopia, who disposed of A. M. Shook, Jr., Birmingham, 1 up in nineteen holes.

The summary:

FIRST FLIGHT.—H. P. Bingham, Mayfield, beat A. J. McClure, Lakewood, 2 and 1; Frank D. Frazier, Essex, beat M. A. Carroll, Algoma, 1 up.

SECOND FLIGHT.—Oscar Lewisohn, Sunningdale, England, beat O. A. McClintock, Maple Bluff, 2 and 1; J. C. Anderson, Yale Club, beat E. A. Reid, Rivermead, 3 and 2.

BEATEN EIGHT.—F. C. Vandusen, Minikahda, beat H. C. Colburn, Indianapolis, 2 and 1; R. L. Whitman, Myopia, beat A. M. Shook, Jr., Birmingham, 1 up (19 holes.)

FISH IS VICTOR AT TRAPS.

Misses Only Twelve Out of a Thousand Targets at Pinehurst.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 19.—The fifth session of the mid-Winter trap shooting handicap was held at Pinehurst today, the morning event being the last 80 targets out of the 500-target contest, and the afternoon event being the mid-Winter handicap, in which more than 150 contestants took part, shooting at 100 targets from distances of from 16 to 28 yards.

The 500-target event was won by George N. Fish of Lyndonville, N. Y., who missed only 12 targets out of the entire number. H. J. Pendergast of Phoenix, N. Y., was second, with 484. The mid-Winter handicap was won by Ira Galbraith of West Frankfort, Ill., who broke 97 at 21 yards. D. K. Dickinson of Kansas City, at 16 yards, was second, with 95.

The Eastern New York team, composed of D. F. McMahon of New York, Ralph Spotts of New York, and H. J. Pendergast of Phoenix won the sectional contest by a score of 1,441 targets out of a possible 1,500, finishing 14 targets of the Western New York team, its nearest competitor.

FAVORITES TRUE TO FORM.

Four Well-Played Choices in Van at New Orleans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—Four favorites and one heavily played second choice rewarded form players at the Fair Grounds today, the sport being good despite a very ordinary card. Bracelet, Lucille P., Stolen Ante, and Minda were the winning favorites, while Billie Baker, which captured the last race, was backed from 4 to 1 to 13 to 5. Watch Your Step, against which odds of 30 to 1 were offered at post time, won the third race, while Valas, at 8 to 1, captured the sixth.

COREY IN FINAL BRACKET.

Defeats Abbott in Hard-Fought Class B Squash Contest.

In the play for the national Class B squash tennis title at the Columbia Club yesterday Alan Corey of the Yale Club gained a place in the final round when he defeated R. Abbott of the Bridgeport University Club in straight games, 15—10, 18—17. The final round bracket in the lower half of the draw lies between Livingston Platt of the Yale Club and Kenneth Bulkley of the Columbia Club. The former made his advance to the semi-final round yesterday when he defeated J. Ford Johnson, also of the Yale Club, by a score of 15—8, 16—14. The only match which Bulkley actually won in the tournament landed him in a semi-final round bracket. In this he defeated a brother Columbia player, I. H. Cornell, by a score of 18—14, 15—10. Bulkley's advance up to this point came as a result of defaults.

Although Corey won his match in straight games it was far from being an easy victory. Abbott has played excellent squash tennis all through the tournament, and, pitted against Corey, he extended himself to the limit of his playing skill. Prior to this Corey had had a primrose path, but now he was forced to display his best game to secure victory. In the first contest the Yale Club man gained the upper hand and pulled out the game by a fair margin. In the second contest, however, Abbott played with more dash and fire, and Corey found himself seriously threatened. It was by the closest of calls that victory perched on his standard.

The semi-final round match between Platt and Bulkley will probably not be played until tomorrow, and this will postpone the final round to Monday.

HUELSENBECK IS VICTOR.

Junior Captures All-Around Track and Pentathlon Title at Columbia.

A. L. Huelsenbeck, a member of the junior class, won the all-round track and pentathlon championship of Columbia University in the two-day competition which ended yesterday in the Morningside gymnasium. Huelsenbeck was elected cross country Captain last week, and previous to entering Columbia he was P. S. A. L. middle-distance champion.

Huelsenbeck's score was the low total of 15 points. H. G. Larson, another cross country runner, was second, with 19½; Captain H. A. Schulte of the track team was third with 21 points, and J. F. Pettibone was fourth with 21¼. F. C. Nolte and L. W. Zychlinski tied for fifth place with 26 points. Proficiency in five events constituted the requirement for the point scoring. Huelsenbeck finished first in the 300-yard run, his favorite distance. He was second in the mile run and in the 40-yard dash, third in the high jump, and seventh in the shot-put. Ten men entered the competitions.

A. Schnaars, Jr., formerly of the Hotchkiss School, won the freshman pentathlon contest with a low total of 9 points. B. D. Wefers, Jr., was second with 13 points and R. N. Sibley was third with 21 points.

TERRY IS CLASS C BILLIARD CHAMPION

Wins Final Game of Tourney from Spear and Keeps Record of Victories Clear.

CLASS C BILLIARDS.
Standing of the Players.

Name.	Won.	Lost.	H. R.	H. Aver.
C. B. Terry	6	0	47	7 11-27
J. Rice	5	1	76	13 5-15
P. Mathews	3	3	27	5 20-36
G. Spear	3	3	46	5 10-38
I. Lewine	2	4	36	6 8-32
Dr. H.W.H'ley	1	5	54	6 3-20
F. A. Unger	1	5	37	4 16-46

For the fourth time Clyde B. Terry is the holder of the national amateur Class C billiard championship. In the final game of the tournament, contested at Maurice Daly's Academy last night, he scored a victory over George Spear by a score of 200 to 181, and finished the event with an unbroken record of six victories. Neither of the contestants played particularly well last night, the strain of the final game being much in evidence in their work. Terry made an average of 4 20-45, while that of his opponent was 4 1-45.

It was a nip and tuck struggle all the way. At the outset Terry did not play creditably, several innings going by before he caught anything like his true stroke. In the sixth inning Spear followed runs of 12 and 14 with a cluster of 37, and this boosted him well along in front. It was the product of a semi-nurse game and left Terry many points behind.

The next dozen innings, however, saw Spear fall far below the prowess with which he started. Runs in the smallest of figures were repeatedly in evidence, and Terry, even though he was not playing consistent billiards, began to draw up on his rival. For all this Spear was able to maintain an advantage until the twenty-eighth inning, when a run of 12 placed the former champion in front. The score then stood: Terry, 114; Spear, 113.

Terry went further out in front in the succeeding two innings, the thirtieth giving him his highest run of the night, 26. Spear, however, held on doggedly and was never really out of the race. He tried desperately to get his stroke working, but the harder he tried the more evident was his failure. Sometimes it was an easy shot that he missed, and, again, it was a difficult one; but in any case he could not gather the balls for good-sized clusters, and Terry ran out the game by counting only in single figures during the last eleven innings.

The afternoon games supplied little that was sensational. For the most part the victors gained the honors by rather indifferent billiards. Even Rice, who has shown such brilliant form in the present event, could not gather himself to display his greatest skill. To be sure, he scored a victory over Ferd A. Unger by a score of 200 to 182, but his average was only 4 16-46, rather low for this Columbia student, who had only the night before established a record high average and also high run. Unger fell to an average of 2 42-45, one of the lowest recorded in the tournament. Rice put together two runs which showed excellent balkline, one in the twentieth inning of 30 and another of a like amount for the final run of the game.

C. P. Mathews fell a victim to Irving Lewine, the averages in each instance being low. Lewine won with the count 200 to 175, and for his winning average made only 3 17-61. Mathews, on the other hand, could get but 2 53-61.

Lewine did better in his game against Unger, defeating the latter by 200 to 105. The average for the victor was 6 8-32, the highest with which Lewine is credited in the event. His high run of 36 was also his best in this respect.

Princeton defeated C. C. N. Y. last night in a dual swimming meet by 32-20, in the City College pool. Princeton started by taking the relay in 2:45 3-5. Wade took the lead for City College, but Georgi and Holden regained it and gave Morris a safe advantage at the finish.

The most interesting race of the evening was the 100-yard swim. Wade of City College took the lead and held it for two lengths when he swam out of his course and collided with Holden of Princeton. While they were disentangling themselves, Georgi, who had been swimming second, took the lead and held it to the end of the race.

Princeton, intercollegiate champions, won the water-polo game by a score of 58-14.

The summaries:

Relay.—Won by Princeton, (Mathiason, Georgi, Holden, and Morris); C. C. N. Y., (Wade, Schreiber, Baehr, and Schoenberg,) second. Time—2:45 3-5.

Fancy Dive.—Won by Brereton, Princeton; Kazanjian, Princeton, second; Kurzman, C. C. N. Y., third.

50-Yard Swim.—Won by Georgi, Princeton; Baehr, C. C. N. Y., second; Holden, Princeton, third. Time—0:27 4-5.

220-Yard Swim.—Won by Karsten, C. C. N. Y.; Mathiason, Princeton, second; Schoenberg, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—3:02.

Plunge for Distance.—Won by Auerbach, C. C. N. Y.; Warden, Princeton, second; Pepys, C. C. N. Y., third.

100-Yard Swim.—Won by Georgi, Princeton; Wade, C. C. N. Y., second; Schreiber, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—1:08 3-5.

YALE BEATS PENN. IN TANK.

Blue Wins Dual Swimming Meet from Quakers Easily.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—The University of Pennsylvania swimming team lost to the Yale watermen in a dual meet in the Weightman Hall tank tonight by the score or 35½ to 17½ points. This was the first defeat of the season for the Red and Blue, the Quakers having scored victories over Princeton and C. C. N. Y., and it was the second triumph for the Elis. In the polo game Penn swamped Yale, winning by the score of 46 to 5.

The summary:

800-YARD RELAY.—Won by Yale, (Captain Ferguson, Hopkins, Schleat, and Mayer;) second, Pennsylvania, (Keiser, Watt, Captain Russell, and Simonton.) Time—8:33 4-5.

FANCY DIVING.—Won by Roche, Pennsylvania; second, Benjamin, Yale; third, Leopold, Pennsylvania.

50-YARD DASH.—Won by Simonton, Pennsylvania; second, Mayer, Yale; third, Schleat, Yale. Time—0:26 3-5.

CLUB OWNERS SEE FRATERNITY BREAK

Think Signing of Schalk and Collins Marks Beginning of End of Strike Talk.

Just what action will be taken by the Players' Fraternity in the cases of Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox and Edgar Collins of the Boston Braves, two members of the organization who have signed their contracts, has not yet been decided. President David L. Fultz of the fraternity returned from Boston yesterday, and said that at the meeting of the players there on Thursday night all the men who attended expressed determination to stand out against the club owners until the minor league requests were granted.

Both of the players who have signed are members of the fraternity, but President Fultz stated last night that they did not sign the pledge to withhold from signing their contracts. Their cases are different from that of Harry Sallee of the Giants, who was expelled from the organization, as Sallee, Fultz said, was one of the players to sign his name to the pledge.

The club owners are of the opinion that the signing of these players marks the beginning of the break in the fraternity. Even if the players who signed the compact do not sign their contracts, the club owners believe that all the fraternity members who did not sign will fall into line.

It was learned yesterday that none of the major league club owners is thinking seriously of closing up the parks, even if the players do carry through their threat. The magnates say that they can start the season with the players who will break the ranks of the fraternity, together with promising young players whom they will be able to sign through flattering inducements. Many of the club owners believe that minor league players, whether or not they are members of the fraternity, will jump at the chance to play in the major leagues if it is offered to them.

"Secret organizations such as the Players' Fraternity and any kind of sports do not go hand in hand," said Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants yesterday, "and that is the reason why the present movement by the players will not succeed. Secret societies have killed athletics before and will do it again. The basis of athletics is individual competition, in which superior talent is always supreme. Just as soon as athletes form secret organizations the public immediately becomes suspicious.

"Years ago the bicycle riders formed a secret organization and it killed the sport. There have been numerous cases where secret societies have slain athletics in colleges. Players have got to be open and aboveboard with the public which supports the game. Any suggestion of secrecy and organization suggests collusion, and destroys the spirit of competition. Unionizing baseball would dampen individual effort and tend to destroy the spirit of competition which now makes the game so attractive."

HOME FOR AGED PLAYERS.

Ban Johnson Will Propose Plans for Baseball Institution.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Establishment of a home for aged baseball players is a proposal that in all probability will be submitted to club owners of the American and National Leagues, B. B. Johnson, President of the American League, announced tonight.

"Such a home could easily be established and maintained," he said. "It might be feasible to give a part of the world's series receipts to such a cause, and club owners probably could be induced to contribute to the fund. Several benevolent organizations have homes for the aged, and I think baseball players should have one."

The subject, President Johnson said, has been informally discussed by certain major league club owners, but no action has been taken.

ST. JOHN'S QUINTET WINS.

Beats Crescent A. C. Five by 1 Point in Keen Game.

St. John's College of Brooklyn and the Crescent Athletic Club basket ball teams met in one of the keenest games ever played on the New Moon court last night and the final whistle found the Brooklyn collegians the victors by a score of 31 to 30. Captain Murphy's goal from foul in the second half, with thirty seconds to go, gave the St. John's quintet the game by a one-point margin, for up to that stage the teams had battled practically on even terms, with the lead alternating frequently.

The lineup and summary:

St. John's, (31.)	Position.	Crescent, (30.)
Murphy	R. F.	Steinbugler
Mahony	L. F.	Heath
Farrell	C.	G. Halstead
Barry	R. G.	McLanahan

YALE FIVE WINS BATTLE.

Captures Spirited Game from Columbia by Score of 33 to 27.

Intercollegiate League Standing.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Pennsylvania	3	0	1,000
Yale	3	0	1,000
Princeton	2	1	.666
Columbia	1	2	.333
Dartmouth	1	3	.250
Cornell	0	4	.000

Yale's basket ball five maintained its place as one of the two undefeated teams at the top of the Intercollegiate League by a 33 to 27 victory over Columbia last night in the Morningside gymnasium. It was an unusually spirited court battle, with victory rewarding the aggregation having the greater stamina and endurance.

Columbia showed marked strength at the start, and after Farer had made the initial score, the New Yorkers retained the lead for the first ten minutes of play, at which point the tally was 11 to 9 against the Elis. Then Kinney, the star performer of the battle, with eight floor baskets and five foul goals to his credit at the finish, rallied the men from New Haven and closed the first half with the score 17 to 13, the Eli left forward having contributed four baskets in succession.

Yale always led in the second session, but with two minutes left to play, Columbia braced and brought the score to within one point of a tie, but there was lack of weight and endurance in the Columbia team, which played without the services of Captain Buddy Wilber, and Kinney widened Yale's advantage by two baskets and a foul.

Captain Charley Taft, son of the ex-President, played a steady game for the Elis and held Katz, his opposing Columbia forward, to a single basket. Farrell, right guard for the New Yorkers, received two minor injuries to his knee, but he continued in the game, although his speed was retarded, and Kinney, his opponent, had little difficulty in caging baskets from all angles of the court.

The line-up:

Yale, (33.)	Position.	Columbia, (27.)
Kinney	L. F.	Roberts

Loomis Equals 50-Yard Mark.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Joe Loomis, the Chicago Athletic Association sprinter, who recently returned from the international meet in Norway, equaled the A. A. U. indoor record of 5 2-5 seconds for fifty yards tonight in the meet of the C. A. A. and Northwestern University.

Richards Advances in Squash.

G. M. Richards advanced to the third round of the squash tennish tournament at the New York Athletic Club yesterday when he defeated M. A. Bergfeld in a spirited contest with the score 12—15, 15—12, 18—16. Richards played from minus six aces, while his opponent was on scratch.

NEW MOON SEVEN HAS AN EASY TIME

Crescent A. C. Team Triumphs Over I. A. A. C., 9 to 2, at Brooklyn Rink

Standing of the Clubs.

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Crescent A. C.	2	0	1,000
Hockey Club	1	1	.500
Irish-American A. C.	1	1	.500
St. Nicholas S. C.	0	2	.000

Showing a superior style of aggressive playing practically all the way, the Crescent Athletic Club hockey team triumphed over the seven of the Irish-American Athletic Club last night at the Brooklyn Ice Palace, 9 to 2. It was the first game played on the new Brooklyn rink, and the first hockey competition the borough across the bridge has had in ten years, and attracted capacity crowd. The game was played under protest, as Dufresne, one of the I. A. A. C. players, notified the officials that he would protest the match, but failed to give his reasons for this action.

In the opening period the New Moon seven showed an offensive style of play which carried the Irish-American seven away from the start. In that period the Brooklyn team tallied seven goals, Conway getting three of these, while McCarthy negotiated two, and the remaining two were split up between Des Jardins and Roach.

The Irish players showed a different front in the second period, but although they made a game uphill fight, they could not overcome the advantage piled up in the first period by the opposition. Patsy Sequin, the little I. A. A. C. centre, saved his team from utter rout by scoring the only two goals for the vanquished seven. His work, with able assistance from Dufresne, was the feature of the second period. Sequin was all over the ice, darting in and out among the New Moon players, with the puck generally on the end of his stick, and his two successful attempts at goal were received with an outburst of cheering by the spectators. His first came in 13:39, after a spectacular pass from Dufresne, and his second in 14.42.

The line-up and summary:

Crescent A. C., (9.)	Pos.	I.-A. A. C., (2.)
Mitchel	G.	Woods
Browne	P.	Powers
White	C. P.	Dufresne
McCarthy	R.	Smith

WEST SIDE T. C. TO SEEK TITLE EVENT

Will Make Effort to Gain Award of Tennis Championship Tourney Again.

The West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills will again bid for the honor of holding the national tennis championships when the annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association is held in this city on Feb. 9. This action was decided upon at the annual meeting of the club last night at Delmonico's. The events for which bids will be entered are the national championship in singles, the national junior championship, and the national boys' championship. No action was taken with regard to the doubles event in view of the proposal which will come before the meeting of the national association that this be made a separate tournament.

The West Side Club, however, is apparently not as anxious for the event as has been the case in the recent past, for the meeting decided that, while the bid would be entered, no definite campaign would be launched to secure the fixture. In other words, the club wants the event, but is not prepared to battle to secure it. It was reported that if the national championship did go elsewhere the West Side Club would bid for the national doubles championship, but there was no confirmation of this from any of those in authority in the club.

There was argument as to whether a bid was advisable. Some of the members maintained that giving over the courts for a national championship deprived the members of the use of the turf for too long a time. It was further represented that, while the national championships were profitable, the club could probably make as much out of the rental of the courts as through devoting them to the title event. While this opposition cropped out, it was not so determined that the motion to seek the national title event was not eventually passed by a unanimous vote.

The amateur rule did not come up until late in the evening, and when it did there was opposition presented, some contending that the delegate, Raymond D. Little, should go to the annual meeting of the tennis association instructed to vote against the amateur rule proposed by the Executive Committee which would bar men engaged in the sporting goods business from the amateur ranks. The opposition did not prove of serious consequence, however. After some debate of the question, the meeting determined that the delegate should be instructed to vote in favor of the amateur rule as presented by the Executive Committee in all its parts.

Julian S. Myrick was re-elected President of the club and Marshall S. Hager succeeded Raymond D. Little as Vice President. Spencer Fullerton Weaver was elected Treasurer in place of Theodore Hetzler, and W. A. Campbell was re-elected Secretary. The members elected to the Board of Governors, to serve until 1919, are Watson M. Washburn, W. J. Gallon, C. G. Heylman, Theodore Hetzler, and E. H. Hooker.

PENN FIVE DOWNS TIGERS.

Red and Blue's Steadiness Spells Victory by 18 to 13 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 19.—The University of Pennsylvania basket ball five defeated Princeton here tonight, 18 to 13, in the most hotly contested game seen on the floor this season. Princeton led during the first part of the game and the final outcome was in doubt until the last few minutes of play, when Pennsylvania took a five-point lead. Pennsylvania's accuracy at caging goals and steady floor work was mainly responsible for its victory, while Princeton's shooting was of the lowest order.

The Princeton five started the game with a rush and opened the scoring in the first minute of play with a foul goal by Paulson. McNichol tied the score shortly afterward, but Haas's field goal gave Princeton the lead again. The Orange and Black five kept the margin on their side until the last minute of the first half, when scores by McNichol and Lavin gave Pennsylvania a two-point lead. The half ended with the score 9 to 7 in favor of Pennsylvania. Princeton started well in the second half, when Rahill's goal tied the score, but Pennsylvania opened up a brilliant attack and took the lead to win.

The lineup:

Pennsylv'a, (18.)	Position.	Princeton, (13.)
Lavin	L. F.	Paulson
Connelly	R. F.	Parmele
Jefford	C.	Foster
Emery	L. G.	Rahill
McNichol	R. G.	Haas

Field goals: Princeton—Haas, (3,) Rahill. Pennsylvania—Lavin, (3,) Emery, (2,) Connelly.

Foul goals: Princeton—Haas, (2,) Paulson, (3.) Pennsylvania—McNichols, (6.)

Substitutions—Eddy for Foster, Cuneo for Rahill.

Referee—Mr. O'Shea of St. John's. Umpire—Mr. Fisher of Oberlin. Time of periods—Twenty minutes each.

A Sharpening of Swords, Instead of Peace

a stiffening of the resolve to fight on to victory or the bitter end, would seem to be the chief result of President Wilson's efforts to hasten the end of the war in Europe.

This conclusion is reached after reading the Entente Allies' reply to President Wilson's proposal for peace negotiations, altho in some quarters it may be felt that there is still a loophole for a continuance of peace discussion. Lloyd-George, the British Premier, supplements the stiffness of the Allies' answer by saying in his Guildhall speech that "The Allies are still convinced that even war is better than peace at the price of Prussian domination over Europe," and that before anyone can "attempt to rebuild the temple of peace, they must see that the foundations are solid."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for January 20th, the leading article deals with the Entente Allies' response to President Wilson's request to the warring Powers, and in the form of quotations from statesmen and leading newspapers gives an all-sided presentation of public opinion on the subject.

"The Digest" a First Aid to the Doubtful

The world is now going through a period of momentous changes under conditions that tend almost invariably to make every man and woman a partizan on one side or the other in the great struggle being grimly fought out between autocratic and democratic ideals. With the destiny of our whole social and governmental system hanging in the balance we are so deafened by the clamor of the advocates of these two conflicting parties that we find it hard to know which to follow, or what are the actual rights and wrongs of the questions involved — Here THE LITERARY DIGEST comes to our aid with its cool and sane discussions of these world-shaking events along absolutely impartial lines, quoting from all sorts of periodicals without a shadow of bias. Reading it, we are enabled to recover our bearings, to judge values accurately, to rise above personal and political view-points, and to know things as they are.

THE CENTURY ROOF OPENS ITS DOORS

The Cocoanut Grove Is a Good-Looking Copy of the Ziegfeld Frolic.

A COSTLY MIDNIGHT REVUE

Lavish Entertainment for the Benefit of the Few Whose Seats Afford a View of the Floor.

The roof of the Century Theatre has come into its own. Long a somewhat uninviting shelter for such chance transients as a desultory children's theatre, a passing group of amateurs, a lecturer, perhaps, or a forlorn and impoverished French company, it is now transformed—by a wave of the Dillingham-Ziegfeld wand—into another rendezvous for those to whom the witching hour is but the shank of the evening, who, in the dead vast and middle of the night, feel stealing o'er them an unconquerable impulse to eat, drink, dance, and see a bit of vaudeville. In the early hours of yesterday morning there was given the first performance of "Dance and Grow Thin," a midnight revue and the first program of the Cocoanut Grove, the little uptown brother of the Midnight Frolic. Its opening marks the last step in the process of converting the erstwhile New Theatre into the greatest music hall in the world.

The Cocoanut Grove bears more of the marks of Ziegfeld than Dillingham. This is not merely because two of the dishes on the menu are named after Mr. Ziegfeld while only one is named after his partner, nor because part of the first performance had as its talisman a bootee owned by the baby of Billie Burke Ziegfeld. It is not merely because Leon Errol, a Ziegfeld star, directed the entertainment, but because that entertainment is so close a copy of the famous Frolic. You know the kind. Gertrude Hoffman and four other girls get into as many swings, begin to disrobe, keep the process up rather longer than you had expected and then rush roguishly out of sight—just in time. Or a dozen dainty coryphees, neatly disguised as mail boxes, implore you, with as much melody as they can command, to drop leters into them. Soon it dawns on you that you might dash off a note inviting the mail-box to dance with you after the performance. Of such character is "Dance and Grow Thin"—an injunction, by the way, that Miss Hoffman has long obeyed.

The entertainment is abundant and needs pruning. Van and Schenck contribute the best voices. Joe Jackson all the time and Leon Errol part of the time contribute most of the laughter. One newcomer is disguised as a parrot. She is a vision to behold, and her voice is fresh and pleasing. Then there are many, many chorus girls, a veritable pony ballet, younger recruits than the more famous beauties who preen themselves nightly at the Frolic.

Certain radical measures will have to be taken before this Cocoanut Grove can be established as a perfect thing of its kind—a kind in which New York leads the world, if that is any source of gratification to you. It is so arranged that an unobstructed view of the proceedings is afforded only to those who have the first circle of tables. To give as much to all, the table space would have to be terraced, and it was whispered this morning that the Fire Department could not assent to such an arrangement. Then, too, the more vigorous dancing this morning produced a shudder in the floor, as though it were made of India rubber. Many gazed about them uneasily as though they expected any moment to drop down into the auditorium of the Century without any preliminary negotiations with the ticket speculators.

The roof is bravely decorated, the very walls are lively and the promenade is spacious. From its French windows you look out across the lamp-studded darkness of Central Park. It should be an ideal Summer resort. No money has been spared to make it so.

Everything was exceedingly good looking at the first performance of "Dance and Grow Thin"—even the audience. It was a smart gathering. Table after table was filled with personages calculated to warm the heart of a society reporter. There were many notables of the stage present. After the revue was over you might have seen Laurette Taylor dancing with Douglas Fairbanks, Elsie Janis dancing with Jack Barrymore and Maurice dancing with any one he chose to ask. It was 4 o'clock before the orchestras called it a day's work and gave vent to "Home, Sweet Home."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The American Academy of Dramatic Arts will give its second matinee of the season next Friday at the Cohan Theatre. A. E. W. Mason's comedy, "Green Stockings," and a one-act comedy by Stanley Houghton, entitled "The Fifth Commandment," will make up the bill.

Marcus Loew will open his twenty-ninth theatre in Greater New York today. It is known as the Forty-second Street Theatre and is near Lexington Avenue. Its policy will be photoplays, with daily change of film.

Anna Pavlowa will end her engagement at the Hippodrome tonight, and many of her admirers have arranged to be present. She will add a special number by Delibes to her farewell program.

Winchell Smith will be the guest of honor at the third annual dinner of the Playwrights' Club, to be held next Friday night at the Great Northern Hotel.

Arnold Daly, who was operated on for peritonitis two weeks ago, was reported to be on the road to recovery yesterday at the Roosevelt Hospital.

Simone A. Puget will give the second of her series of lectures next Wednesday afternoon at the Garrick. Her subject will be "Charles Peguy, Politician, Socialist, and Lieutenant of Infantry."

The Philharmonic's Concert Devoted to American and French Music.

The Philharmonic Society continued its festival in commemoration of its seventy-fifth birthday with a concert in Carnegie Hall devoted to American and French composers. The audience was large, filling the hall, as is the case at all the Friday afternoon concerts now. The program comprised Edward MacDowell's "Indian" suite, Henry Hadley's Symphonic Fantasie, op. 46; Saint-Saëns's symphony in A minor, and Dukas's orchestral scherzo, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice."

Here was a representation of two sides of the Philharmonic's activities; it has not been negligent of either the American or the French composer. MacDowell's "Indian" suite is both one of his own best orchestral compositions and one of the most successful attempts to utilize the chants and rhythms of the Indians in artistic music. MacDowell did it without sacrificing the characteristics of the material he used, on the one hand, or beauty and charm and expressiveness in his music on the other. The Indian formulas do not lend themselves readily to the manipulations of composers, or to the imparting of beauty or charm or expressiveness in music, unless they give up a large part of their essential qualities. Recent attempts at writing American music in the aboriginal vein only elicit the more admiration for MacDowell's success.

Mr. Hadley's piece was heard for the first time at the Philharmonic concerts. It is thirteen years old, and may not represent Mr. Hadley's latest development as a composer, yet it is a work of imagination and inventiveness, of fluency and skill in writing, of rich and varied orchestral color. It shows that the composer, in his thirtieth year, was unusually well equipped, not only in technical resources but as well in musical ideas. It received an eloquent performance at Mr. Stransky's hands, whose treatment of it suggested a liking for it, and at the close a wreath was presented to the composer.

The symphony of Saint Säens, less often played than its younger brother in C minor, and Dukas's amusing scherzo, "L'Apprenti Sorcier," are not strangers to the Philharmonic's programs, and their performance kept the interest of the audience.

CECIL FANNING IN SONGS.

Baritone Gives a Widely Varied Program—Mischa Levitzki Plays.

Cecil Fanning faced a surprising attendance at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon, when he sang many baritone songs in English, such as Loewe's "Edward," a battlehorse of Bispham's, and in German the "Erlking," also Loewe's and not Schubert's version, though he gave an encore from Schubert's "Schoene Mueklerin." Hugo Wolf's "Zur Ruh" was done in English and on recall in the original tongue. From Rubinstein's "Persian Songs" to some old French and later American by Hendriks, Walthew, and Homer, the singer ranged a wide variety of tone and style, not without some exaggeration.

Mischa Levitzki gave a third recital in Aeolian Hall last evening, playing piano sonatas of Scarlatti and Mozart, and then Beethoven's own variations on the "Ruins of Athens" march, which he followed on recall with Glück's "Gavotte," retouched by Brahms, a favorite encore of Josef Hofmann. Chopin's "Fantasie" and other pieces, including Rubinstein's "Staccato Etude," by request, recalled the land of Levitzki's origin. The young artist, who, thanks to American generosity, had not been early "exploited," and who himself avoids mere display, was heard again by an enthusiastic assembly.

CRAIG IN THE GARRICK SOON.

His First Production Will Be a New Play by E. H. Sothern.

John Craig, who directed the Castle Square Theatre in Boston for several years as a producing theatre, will take over the Garrick when Lucien Bonheur's French company moves into its own new playhouse next month, and will operate it along lines similar to those on which he ran the Castle Square. It was there that he produced the plays written by members of Professor George P. Baker's class at Harvard that won the Craig prize. Among these were "Common Clay" and "Believe Me, Xantippe!" In addition to producing new plays Mr. Craig will revive classical dramas from time to time.

Mr. Craig's first offering will be a new comedy by E. H. Sothern, entitled "Stranger Than Fiction." This is the first play Mr. Sothern has written since "The Light That Lies in Woman's Eyes," in which Virginia Harned was seen. Mr. Craig and Mary Young, who in private life is Mrs. Craig, will head the cast, which will also include G. Cooper Cliffe, Fred Eric, Maude Milton, and Auriol Lee. Lee Shubert will be associated with Mr. Craig in the production of Mr. Sothern's comedy.

Sombre "Fidelio" Is Sung Again.

For the third time this season, a Metropolitan subscription audience last night heard Beethoven's "Fidelio," an opera with which former managements placed the general musical public in their debt on rare or festival occasions. There were evidently many unaccustomed theatregoers who welcomed the sincere and sombre drama, with its songs of prisoners and story of wifely loyalty. Mme. Kurt and Mr. Sembach reappeared, as did Messrs. Braun, Goritz, Weil, Reiss, Leonhardt, Bloch, and Mrs. Mason. There was only one intermission, and in the last act Mr. Bodanzky conducted the overture "Leonore" No. 3 before a lowered curtain.

'You're in Love' at the Casino Feb. 5

Anna Held will begin the last two weeks of her engagement in "Follow Me" at the Casino on next Monday night, and on Monday night, Feb. 5, Arthur Hammerstein's musical comedy production, "You're In Love," will be presented there. Otto Hauerbach and Edward Clark wrote the libretto of the new piece and Rudolph Friml the music. It has already been produced out of town.

Mr. Kappel paid $41 for No. 253, the first issue of the "History and Evidence of the Passage of Abraham Lincoln from Harrisburgh to Washington on the 22d and 23d of February, 1861."

DEFEND SCHOOL TRAINING.

Dr. Crampton and General Wingate Explain Plans for This Year.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Director of Physical Training, and General George W. Wingate, in charge of the military training contemplated by the Public Schools Athletic League, made a statement yesterday in which they said that the delay in the formation of plans by the Military Training Commission had caused the league to take preliminary steps to enlarge its activities. Last year it had military training at the Stuyvesant, Boys', Commercial, and Curtis High Schools.

A conference of delegates from the schools was held at Dr. Crampton's call in the latter part of 1916. Since that time preliminary steps have been taken, but no final call for volunteer training has been issued. All the registration that has been made at the various schools is merely preliminary.

With reference to the boy at the New Rochelle High School who objected to physical training, Dr. Crampton said this was an example of "perverted moral courage." The extensive physical training ordered by the Board of Regents will include instruction in hygiene, gymnastics, and athletics. The Welsh law, calling for the introduction of this into the State schools, was prompted by military considerations, the statement said, but nevertheless it is removed entirely from military control.

Elsie Ferguson to be Movie Star.

Elsie Ferguson has signed a contract with the Cardinal Film Corporation to make her motion picture début under its direction. This is the company that produced "Joan the Woman," the film based on the life of Joan of Arc, for which Geraldine Farrar acted the rôle of the peasant maid, now being shown at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. Miss Ferguson will begin her new work at the conclusion of her engagement at the Hudson in "Shirley Kaye."

CUTS MRS. LESLIE'S BILLS.

Referee Trims Demands of Estate Manager, Doctor, and Others.

Ex-Supreme Court Justice Charles F. Brown, appointed referee to hear the accounting of the Trustees under the will of Mrs. Frank Leslie, filed his report in the Surrogate's Court yesterday, reducing from $193,500 to $45,000 the claim of Louis H. Cramer of Saratoga Springs, who is one of the Trustees and who was Mrs. Leslie's adviser from 1895 until her death in 1914. The referee said it was because of Mr. Cramer's ability that the estate had increased while in his hands from $450,000 to $1,737,477, but he decided that there had been no agreement on the part of Mrs. Leslie to pay a specific amount. The referee believed that $7,500 a year was sufficient remuneration, but Mr. Cramer can collect for only the six years not barred by the statute of limitations.

The referee rejected the $9,700 claim of the Baroness de Avernos Salvador of Paris, Mrs. Leslie's companion while she was in the French capital. She had alleged that this was due her for services in introducing Mrs. Leslie into Paris society. The Baroness has a suit pending in the Supreme Court. Dr. John E. Welch, who devoted almost all his time to treating Mrs. Leslie for the thirty-nine days before her death, was allowed $200 a day, or a total of $7,800, instead of $12,350, for which he put in a bill to the estate.

Ex-Justice Brown overruled the objections by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the chief legatee, against the payments of $25,000 each to the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell and to Edgar T. Brackett for the Trustees. Mrs. Catt also insisted that the Trustees were derelict in not paying the transfer tax on the estate within six months in order to get a 5 per cent. reduction, but the referee said they were justified in delaying payment because three contests were pending and the Trustees had no way of telling how the estate would be distributed until the contests were determined.

The referee found that payment should be made of $100,000 to Maynard B. Follin of Detroit and $160,000 outright and a $50,000 trust fund to Mrs. Carrie H. Wrenn, both heirs at law of Mrs. Leslie, which were promised by Mrs. Catt. The estate now amounts to $1,748,550, according to the referee.

GIFT TO BIBLE INSTITUTE.

Widow of Dr. Le Lacheur Establishes Memorial for Husband.

The National Bible Institute, headquarters 214 West Thirty-fifth Street, announced yesterday that Mrs. Gustavus Le Lacheur had donated the property at 137 Montague Street, Brooklyn, for the uses of the Brooklyn Branch of the institute. This property, which includes a house and furnishings, is to be a memorial to Dr. Le Lacheur, who for twenty-four years was Vice President and Secretary of the Brooklyn City Mission and Tract Society, and the National Bible Institute will make the building a centre for noonday prayer services for business people, for Bible classes for the training of Christian workers, and as the headquarters for the outdoor evangelistic meetings to be conducted in Brooklyn throughout the Spring and Summer.

The National Bible Institute now maintains in New York four Gospel missions in which there is preaching every night, and last year conducted in its missions and out of doors about 3,600 evangelistic services. More than 1,200 persons meet regularly in the institute's schools for Christian workers in New York and Philadelphia, and workers for the foreign mission field are being trained in the Union Missionary Training Institute, which is now under the auspices of the National Bible Institute.

A rally service will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the institute's headquarters, at which Don O. Shelton, the President of the institute, will give the third of his series of addresses on "The Way of Life."

YALE BARS RED ON STAGE.

Yale alumni gave a theatre party at the Century last night as a part of the entertainment in honor of the victorious football men. Yale undergraduates and alumni filled the theatre with the exception of one group from out of town who had bought their seats far in advance, and they soon left.

The proceedings were the nearest approach to a performance in a theatre in a college town seen in New York in many years. Many in the audience had seen the revue, and they insisted on springing the performers' jokes before they could deliver them. One young man stood up in the middle of the auditorium and directed the musical numbers with the swaying of his body. Sam Bernard appeared wearing among other things a red waistcoat and was not allowed on the stage until he had removed it. Hazel Dawn had to kick off her slippers, which were red, and every suggestion of the forbidden color had to be eliminated.

Frank Tinney thought that red was the Yale color, and as a result he was forced to wear a long overcoat to hide the special costume he had had prepared. The performers entered into the spirit of the party and addressed the audience over the footlights.

TO POLICE THEIR OWN PLAYS

National Association to Aid in Suppression of Improper Movies.

At a meeting of some of the most important producers of motion pictures held yesterday in the offices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry the association decided to assist in carrying on prosecutions authorized under the criminal laws of every State in the Union against film producers and exhibitors. By thus policing their own industry the picture men hope to put a damper on the agitation for censorship. Legislation for censorship of pictures is pending in twenty State Legislatures and in the National Congress.

The following resolution was adopted: "That the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry actively lend its aid in the prosecution of any person or corporation which produces and causes to be exhibited any indecent or obscene motion picture or any motion pictures which tend to debase and corrupt morals."

Fort Lee Ferry Fare Reduced.

The fare on the Fort Lee Ferry, which plies between 130th Street, Manhattan, and Fort Lee, N. J., and has always been 5 cents, will be reduced on Feb. 1. On that date monthly tickets, good for fifty-two rides, will be sold for $1.75. These tickets will not be good on Sundays and holidays, when the present rate will prevail. The new rate will mean a saving to the daily patrons of the line of about $10 a year.

An Acknowledgment.

THE NEW YORK TIMES acknowledges the receipt of $40 from Ada J. H. Oades to be applied to the Belgian Commission for Relief in Belgium.

LECTURES ON CATHOLICISM.

Paulist Priests Will Discuss Church Doctrine at Cathedral.

Announcement was made yesterday by Mgr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, that a series of lectures on doctrinal subjects, designed mainly for non-Catholics, would be held in the Cathedral for two weeks beginning Jan. 28. The purpose of the lectures is to explain the doctrines and practices of the Catholic Church and the Church's relation and attitude on the social problems of the day.

Similar lectures have been held in the past several years in the Paulist Church, but owing to the increase in attendance yearly, it necessitated its being transferred to the Cathedral. The Rev. Bertrand L. Conway and the Rev. James M. Gillis, two of the foremost orators in the Paulist order, will preach the series of sermon-lectures. They will also answer questions that may arise in relation to Catholicism.

The lectures are held under the patronage of Cardinal Farley, and arrangements are to be made by this committee of the New York Chapter of the Knights of Columbus: James A. Beha, Chairman; Harry G. Lebois, Charles Rush, J. J. O'Donnell, Fred P. Beandry, A. D. McGuire, George F. Pearson, P. S. Verdon, M. D. Farrell, Edward A. Arnold, Thomas A. Cary, W. F. P. Connor, Joseph T. Toomey, Joseph Forrester, and Albert N. Lilly.

Plea for Widowed Mother.

The Widowed Mothers Fund Association, 192 Bowery, appeals for aid for a widow with five children, the eldest 8 years old, the baby born in August last. Her husband died in October of spinal meningitis, and although he belonged to a benefit society, so many debts were incurred during his illness that little was left for his family. As there is no other source of income the association will give the aid that is necessary to house, feed and clothe the mother and her little ones, and any one wishing to contribute toward a fund for this purpose will kindly send donations to Mrs. Henry Zuckerman, 52 Broadway, or to the rooms of the association. Thanks are offered to the following for their kind gifts in response to a previous appeal: From a widow, $1; S. G., $1; A. L. M., $3; L. & Z., $1; E. M. L., $10; I. K., $2; A. B. C., $10; W. W., for two petticoats.

New Activity for Lemuel E. Quigg.

Lemuel E. Quigg is Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the anti-capital punishment branch of the Humanitarian Cult, according to an announcement issued yesterday by that organization.

COOK'S Imperial

It takes a certain peculiar soil to grow grapes which are best fitted for making a champagne whose flavor has body and whose bouquet is full. The excellence of Cook's Imperial is largely due to the fact that the fine grapes of which it is made are grown on just this kind of soil. For its purity, flavor, bouquet and life—order Cook's Imperial Extra Dry.

THE LABOR EXCLUSION BILL.

The purpose of the Immigration bill, passed by both houses of Congress, even more docile than in recent years to the orders of the American Federation of Labor, that unofficial but potent fourth branch of the Federal Government, is to exclude from the United States as much labor as possible, to put up the price of labor by diminishing the supply. The so-called educational test, inserted in one form or another in this measure and its predecessors, is only a blind. The inefficacy, injustice, and absurdity of a literacy test have been dwelt on for years and need not be discussed.

The country knows that its development has been due in large part to the strong hands of willing workers who have come here in millions. It knows that the mobility of this immigrant labor, its response to and close dependence upon economic conditions, the exits and entrances of much of it in accordance with those conditions, have been of indispensable value. The country knows that the ability to read is not a prerequisite of the ability to dig, or a certificate of morality; that many illiterates settling here have thrived and become prosperous and useful citizens; that the ancestors of some illustrious public men were illiterate. Even those persons who, without any sympathy for the "labor" clique, have believed that some sort of new restriction should be put upon immigration must see that the proposed restriction is unsound, and that the war has checked, all but cut off, immigration; that the reconstruction of Europe after the war is likely to continue that check in some degree for a long time; that in the inevitable democratization and liberalization of government in Europe and the new social spirit bred of common service and sacrifice, the prospects and opportunities of laborers in Europe will be better than they have been. There will be immense activity, there will be work enough when men go back from the field to their old tasks.

After a period of diminished immigration, when labor is scarce and costly, as every employer and everybody who wants a servant, a hired man, a man to do an odd job, have found out; when the harvest is great and the laborers are few; when the Southern States are seriously alarmed by the exodus of colored laborers, the labor on which they depend; when, in short, there was the least possible excuse, if there was ever any excuse, for this attempt to hamper the growth of the United States and swell the swollen cost of living, the labor lords have imposed their will upon Congress, and the gates of entry are to be closed, in so far as they can be, by means of the test.

To Southeastern Europe in particular there will be a considerable emigration as soon as the war is over and steamship accommodation can be had. Large numbers of foreigners are in the United States because they cannot get home. There will be a current of departures. The disciples of the Gompersian school are bound that the current of arrivals shall be negligible. Our subways, aqueducts, railroads, a thousand great and necessary constructions and enterprises, could not have been without the hardy and diligent immigrant labor. Those public works cannot have successors, neither public nor private employers can find necessary labor, if unreasonable restrictions are put upon immigration; they may have hard enough work in finding it even in the absence of such restrictions.

A code of extensive and minute regulations restrains the entry of undesirables now. The new bill is against the entry of desirables. It is not in the interest of public morality or public health. It seeks to exclude not paupers but workers, makers of wealth. It is a bill to limit the labor supply and retard the progress of the United States.

President WILSON will veto it, as he vetoed its predecessor two years ago. It is to be hoped that members of Congress who talk of overriding the veto will look into the labor supply in their districts.

THE LOST SHIPS.

How much of the world's merchant shipping has been destroyed since the beginning of the war? Losses caused by mines and submarines have been reported almost every day, and now we have the news that many ships have recently been sunk by a German raiding cruiser. The exact number of those lost thus far cannot be given, but it is a little more than 2,200, or 8 per cent. of the ships owned by all the maritime nations. Measured by capacity, the loss is 9¼ per cent., or about 4,100,000 tons out of a total of 44,350,000. Nearly half of the ships that are gone were British, and Great Britain had almost half of the world's tonnage. Her loss, in capacity, has been 12¾ per cent., and other losses are as follows: France, 11¼; Italy, 12; Norway, 14¼. European neutrals have suffered; more than 300 vessels have been taken from Norway's merchant marine. British shipyards are striving to replace the missing tonnage. It is difficult to ascertain how much they have done. The number of ships built on the Clyde was less last year than in 1915, when 126 were finished. There has been great activity in the shipyards of our own country, where 1,213 were built last year, 50 of them on foreign orders, and at the beginning of December 400 were in progress of construction or under contract. The shipbuilding industry here has been greatly stimulated by the very high freight rates and the extraordinary prices paid for vessels. Many ships on the other side of the Atlantic have been sold for five or six times their original cost, and frequently the purchase money has been regained by the profits of a single voyage. Before the destructive work of the German raider was reported, freight rates were rising, and now they have been considerably increased for the South Atlantic.

This destruction of shipping has very favorably affected our steel industry. For a long time at the mills there has been a persistent demand for the plates used in making ships. On account of it the price rose last year from 2¼ to 4¼ cents a pound. Our manufacturers have orders calling for delivery more than a year hence. The demand is one that will continue after the coming of peace, for American mills will assist then in replacing the lost ships.

WAY STATIONS.

> In chorus all the big Entente Powers scream in agony at the idea of peace without balm for the wounds of little Serbia, Belgium, Montenegro, and way stations.—Los Angeles Times.

This is not an extract from a pro-German argument; it proceeds from the strict neutrality of mind which is the attitude of so much of the West. The article from which the sentence is taken is not in the least pro-German. We reprint it because of the singularly felicitous way in which the whole mental viewpoint of that part of the West to which we refer is compressed in twenty-eight words. Hard as it is to understand in the East, there really are large parts of the Union not pro-German in which the idea for which so many Frenchmen and Englishmen are offering their lives seems amusing as a bit of cant, and in which the ruin of "way stations" excites neither indignation nor sorrow. Facts are facts, and disagreeable ones must be faced as well as pleasant ones.

SENIORITY VS. SELECTION.

The promotions in the naval service just made by the President are the first under the law authorizing discretionary rewards for efficiency by distinguishing those showing it, and thus encouraging zeal and diligence. The primary purpose is the good of the service, and it is undesirable that the new method should be handicapped by suggestion of favoritism. There should be nothing personal in the discussion of the case. There is no reason to assume that the officers promoted are unworthy, and it is certain that some, if not all, of them are high in the esteem of their associates. This is true of the case most remarked. Disregarding the personal aspects, therefore, it may be asked what are the merits of the two systems of promotion, and how can the best points of both systems be combined?

There are classes of officers as well as methods of promotion. Some officers in their earliest years seek to distinguish themselves, perhaps from ambition, perhaps from some necessity not known to others. Some come to their maturity later, because perhaps of the lack of the stimulus of necessity, or from some mental peculiarity. There will be classes among the men in the services so long as human nature exists. The question is how the Government can get the best in all of them. It is discouraging to the high-mettled officers if their spirit of doing more than duty requires lacks recognition. It is discouraging to their associates, who may be lower powered and yet deserving, if others are preferred without apparent cause. It is not for the good of the service that anything like dry rot or bureaucracy should develop through too strict adherence to any one method of promotion. If there is to be vitality in the service it needs aeration.

It is easier to understand than to agree with those who assume that selections for promotion are unjust. At the same time, there would be less ground for such a natural feeling if selections for promotion were accompanied by a statement of the reasons, as is the custom in bestowing medals of honor. If there are no reasons, or if the reasons are not such as would stand examination, it would seem better that the discretion of selection should not be used. Promotion by seniority develops a standard of duty below which there is a demotion by the force of the conscience and public opinion of the service. The spirit of the service is an asset worth preserving, and that is better done by praise and recognition than by neglect in the superiors. It is their part to let it be known what qualities they value, and why their rewards are bestowed.

THE BATTLE OF THE SOMME.

When one soothsayer interpreted the monarch's dream by telling him, "Thou shalt see all thy kindred die," and another by saying, "Sultan, thou shalt outlive all thy kin," the crafty old Vizier commented, "Much may depend on the way a thing's said." The German epitaph on the Allies' advance on the Somme, "It was stifled in blood and mud," strikes the imagination forcibly and, if it be a pro-ally imagination, depressingly. Field Marshal HAIG's summary of the same event, "Bad weather has given the enemy a respite," is more prosaic and less dramatic, but it covers exactly the same state of facts. A battle that comes to an end because mud prevents it from going on is, if one wishes to put it that way, "stifled in blood and mud"; if one prefers to put it in another, the mud "has given the enemy a respite." There is no need of quarreling with words. The essential point is what was accomplished or not accomplished before the advance was stifled in mud, or before the mud gave the defenders a respite, as the case may be.

According to Field Marshal HAIG's report, the objects of the advance were three: First, to relieve Verdun; second, to prevent the Germans from transferring masses of troops to the east against Russia; third, to wear down the German strength. If these three things were accomplished, the phrase "stifled in blood and mud" is the only comfort the Germans can get out of the results.

Sir DOUGLAS HAIG declares that the accomplishment of any one of these three aims would have justified the Somme battle, but that all three were accomplished. When the battle began the Germans still calculated on taking Verdun, and had already begun dispatching troops to the east. They did not take Verdun and they stopped the eastward movement. The offensive against Russia was abandoned. Thereafter the only troops sent eastward were those who had been exhausted in the Somme battle, and these troops were always replaced on the western front by fresh divisions. By November the Germans had more men on the western front than in July.

As for the third object, Sir DOUGLAS declares it beyond doubt that the German losses in men and material were "very considerably higher" than those of the Allies, while morally the balance of advantage on the Allies' side is still greater. As the battle went on through the months the German resistance became "decidedly feebler"; and "toward the end of the "operations, when the weather un-"fortunately broke, there can be no "doubt that his power of resistance "had been very seriously diminished."

For this reason the Field Marshal looks forward to the next advance with confidence, believing that its work will be easier than that of the first advance. Whether this confidence is justified or not will be ascertained in the Spring. What is certain now, if the British commander speaks truly concerning the objects of the first advance, is that since victory consists in the attainment of an object, the battle of the Somme was a victory for the Allies. A decisive victory it was not, and, according to him, no decisive victory was expected. Admitting that the war may last long before the main objects of the Allies are attained, he deliberately says, "But the "Somme battle has placed beyond "doubt the ability of the Allies to gain "those objects." If this is true, the battle of the Somme was a success for the Allies.

A SUPREME COURT OF FARMERS.

A long-looked-for reform, a tardy justice to a persecuted class, shows a morning face in North Dakota. The farmers of that State, by means of the Nonpartisan League, elected only 18 of 25 members of the State Senate, only 81 of 113 members of the House, only all the State officers, and a majority of the Supreme Court. Nonpartisan equity to the speeders of the plow is assured in a sense, perhaps, by that Supreme Court majority, but a noble and vital principle remains unvindicated still. The tillers of the soil were forced to choose lawyers as Judges, and we know what lawyers are. So long as these slaves of form and precedent make and interpret the laws, what chance has the oppressed farmer of getting the consideration, the equity with a bonus, the favored treatment, that he desires?

Senator MARTIN, a name to rank above all the law reformers that have patched and puttied the decaying fabric of the law, has seen the opportunity and clings desperately to the forelock thereof. He has introduced a resolution for a constitutional amendment providing that not less than three of the five Judges of the State Supreme Court shall be "bona fide farmers." The phrase "bona fide" is objectionable. It smacks of law dictionaries, the lists of Latin phrases in dictionaries, the ancient pedantries of the law. At least three "real" farmers Mr. MARTIN should have said, three real farmers farming personally, in good and regular standing, equally skilled to drive the reaper and the automobile. And why be content with three farmer Judges? There can be no nonpartisan equity, no reparation of the wrongs done to agriculture, no basis of substantial justice until farmer-made law is interpreted by farmer Judges, until the courts are an appanage of the farmery.

Lawyers are the root of all evil. So long as even the best Judges are lawyers, so long must their decisions be evil. North Dakota is on the path to perfection.

IS LABOR PROPERTY?

Senator WAGNER has introduced in the Legislature of this State a bill declaring that the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce. It is not worth while to oppose it, for the same reason that it is not worth while to pass it. Labor is what it is, and it will remain just that regardless of any number of statutes on the subject. It is better worth while to understand the bill. It is the device by which the master of a million minds wishes to annul the decisions of the courts that labor is property. Not real property, of course, but personal property of the most proper sort.

Any and every man who has labor to sell, and who is dependent upon its sale for the necessaries of life, knows that labor—not the laborer—is an article of commerce, and that a fundamental right of citizenship is denied if his access to the market for what he has to sell is obstructed. There is no secret regarding the force behind this bill. Whoever wishes can find its motive and explanation set forth with pride in the publications of the American Federation of Labor. It is the boast of the federation that its members are paid higher wages than others. Now the federation is seeking in many States to have its "model" bill enacted in language like that of Senator WAGNER's bill. It seems futile to press the enactment of a law which has been declared unconstitutional.

But the federation knows what it is about. It is the greatest monopoly in existence. It wants all the jobs to be given to federationists alone, in order that all workers may be forced into the federation. And it hopes by these bills to exempt labor from prosecutions under laws forbidding monopolies and restraints of trade. What the condition of the community then would be is best shown by the methods which the federation has been convicted of practicing. Every member of the New York Legislature who approves of legislation under the stop-watch ought to support Senator WAGNER's bill. Every citizen who approves of settling labor disputes by the general strike, the boycott, of allowing only federationists to work, and to work only on federation terms, of making and breaking contracts for work and wages at will and according to the interest of the moment, ought to write to his representatives at Albany urging the passage of the bill. It is just the sort of bill to suit those who feel that way.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Its Logic Fails to Convince.

With the confident air of him who sees the close approach of an opportunity to say, "Now, I guess you'll be sorry you spoke!" The Rocky Mountain News of Denver calls the attention of a too critical East and its press to the throngs of citizens from half a dozen States that gathered in and around Colorado's Capitol the other day to honor Buffalo Bill and to lament his death.

Were the West degenerate, if it no longer gave the tribute of sincere admiration to men of the fighting strain, had it ceased to value the qualities of courage and strength, there would have been, declares The News, no such demonstration as the one that marked the funeral of Colonel CODY. And the purpose of the assembled multitude, it says, was to pay respect not only to this exponent of the strenuous life, but through him to "the Western pioneers, the rugged frontiersmen, the men and women who won the West and recreated it, the early day trappers and scouts and cowboys of the range, the crack shots, and all that gallery of lovable, adventuresome men associated with the history of the new empire."

What The News forgets is that there is no possibility, present or to come, of a call for anybody to emulate the particular achievements of the class so well represented by Buffalo Bill. His passing, therefore, provided a peculiarly safe opportunity for professing esteem for such men. That they who did it are of a temper to repeat his exploits, that they, too, would brave death in good causes as promptly and gayly as he did, by no means follows. The gladiators of Rome's later days lacked no appreciation from a populace that had learned to intrust mercenaries with its own defense, and the loudest yells that spur football players today to further efforts and agonies do not come from persons in the stands who are qualified in mind and muscle to take their places in the field, but from those who neither would do it nor could.

The News insists that if the West has not satisfied the East of late, the reason is not that it "is mollycoddle in its instincts and aspirations," but because "the line of demarkation was not drawn clear enough for our wide, Western vision." The vagueness to the West of that line, however, is just what constitutes the grievance of the East. For though blindness is a misfortune, not a crime, the same excuse cannot be made for a refusal to see what honest looking would reveal.

Cost Is Only Incidental.

Some misunderstanding as to the objects of the diet experiment now in progress here still exists, Commissioner WOODS thinks, and he desires that this be removed. As there is no city official whose requests THE TIMES would more gladly grant than his, there shall be no delay in making known both what he and the Life Extension Institute do, and what they do not, seek to show by feeding his dozen "rookies" for several weeks at a cost of 25 cents a day each.

First of all, it is not the purpose to prove that men can be kept alive at that expense. That fact is already only too well known to many people, and Dr. TANNER long ago demonstrated the possibility of living for forty days on no food at all. The real purpose of the test is to make widely known just what constitutes an adequately sustaining diet, and the revelation that it need cost no more than a quarter daily is quite incidental.

In many instances much more is spent, and the result, if not underfeeding, is undernourishment, since through ignorance of food values elements essential to health are lacking, and undernourishment, in the Commissioner's opinion, is responsible for not a little of drunkenness, drug-addiction, and crime.

At the end of the experiment it is the intention to publish a simply worded pamphlet, definitely showing the constituents of a well-balanced diet and the several foods from which can be obtained the needed amounts of proteids, carbohydrates, and the like. Possession of this knowledge—and utilization of it—will enable the housekeeper to market with discretion, and, when her resources are small, to get the necessary calories from the cheaper instead of the dearer foods. Equipped with this wisdom, too, she will be better prepared to refrain altogether from the purchase of foods the price of which she considers excessive or artificial, and thus pressure can be exerted on dishonest or ruthless dealers without the suffering of any real hardship in the conduct of such a boycott as was recently declared against eggs.

That, surely, will be an attraction for the more militant guardians of the home.

Universal Service Advocated.

Perhaps the most important feature of the statements made by Major Gen. O'RYAN and Adjt. Gen. STOTESBURY before the Chamberlain subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs was the pronouncement of both these National Guard officers in favor of universal training and universal service. Each, indeed, protested against the criticisms to which the guard has been subjected, and denied the inefficiency that has been ascribed to it, but each admitted frankly enough that the Hay law inadequately provides for the country's needs, and proposed changes which in effect would produce results much like those demanded by the advocates of the much broader system.

Attention is deserved by the assertion of General O'RYAN that the much-discussed resignations of guard officers on the border were an advantage rather than a detriment to the force on duty—that to a considerable extent the resignations were "by request" and constituted an elimination of men for one reason or another unfitted for active service. No previous hint of that can be recalled, but probably it will not add to the happiness of the officers who came home while their men remained in the country where "everything has spikes, even the toads."

And, for the many lacks of needed equipment, General STOTESBURY said that the regular army, or even Congress, was not so much to blame as were the people at large, as they had not insisted on the taking of necessary and timely measures in preparation for emergencies like those created by the Mexican troubles. That, too, should be provocative of thought.

ART NOTES.

Plans of the Society of Independent Artists—New Exhibitions.

The Society of Independent Artists, Inc., at last makes its official announcement of existence after more than two years of preparation. Its motto is "No Jury—No Prizes." Its President is William J. Glackens; its Vice President, Charles E. Prendergast; Treasurer, Walter Pach, and Secretary, John R. Covert. The Directors are George W. Bellows, Homer Boss, Katherine S. Drier, Marcel Duchamp, Regina A. Farrelly, Arnold Friedman, Ray Greenleaf, C. W. Hawthorne, Rockwell Kent, John Marin, M. B. Prendergast, Man Ray, Mary C. Rogers, Morton L. Schamberg, Joseph Stella, Maurice Sterne, and the officers of the society. The 1917 exhibition is to be held at the Grand Central Palace in April. Each exhibitor is promised space for at least two pictures hung in daylight, with one on the line. The works will be hung in alphabetical order. The only requirements for admission to the society are acceptance of its principles and payment of initiation fee and annual dues. Thus all exhibitors are members.

The MacDowell Exhibition.

The MacDowell Club is showing the work of another group of painters who escape judgment by jury in their selection of this patient place as an exhibition gallery.

A little of the work is, nevertheless, quite worthy of the efforts of a jury. There are some brisk and competent little landscapes by Harry Leith-Ross, whose color carries well across the gallery, and Isabel Vernon Cook has had an opportunity of which she has not made the most in the picturesque South American crowds. There is so much red in "The Carnival" that you almost lose the effect of the red. No color depends more helplessly upon its support.

Other exhibitors are C. Barrett-Strait, C. M. Bell, H. E. O. Campbell, M. E. Evans, Lydia Floret, C. M. Norton, Delos Palmer, Jr., L. J. Stone, Julia M. Wickham, and Katherine Underhill, whose study of "A Happy Family" shows observation of barnyard types.

More Paintings by George Inness.

At the Ainslie Galleries are twenty-five paintings by George Inness, ranging from one of the greenest of his "green pictures" to his warmest autumnal color schemes, and from the formality of the Italian studies to the freedom of the Montclair landscapes. One of the pictures on exhibition is the "Early Recollections of 1849," full of reminiscences of European landscape painters, but admirably composed.

One of the most enlivening pictures in the gallery is the "Springtime, Montclair," freely painted, with sharp, strong accents and a clean, brisk atmosphere. Inness seldom permitted himself the expression of this invigorating mood.

PRO-GERMAN ALSATIANS.

Something About the Two Representatives Quoted by Berlin.

New York, Jan. 18, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under the heading "For a German Alsace," THE TIMES publishes an Overseas News Agency statement to the effect that two leading members of the District Parliament of Lower Alsace (Strassburg) made the announcement at the opening of the session of that body that Alsace is perfectly satisfied to remain a German province.

The fact that the two members referred to are Alsatians of Alsatian parentage lends a semblance of reality to the contention that the Alsatians do not wish to re-enter the circle of the great French family.

Both gentlemen referred to are ex officio members of that political body, both of them being appointed by Berlin. Dr. Petri, former Under Secretary of State, was, in the early seventies, after the annexation of Alsace, an unknown lawyer at Strassburg, coming from the little town of Buchsweiler. He obtained the Kaiser's favor for fighting against the candidates to the Reichstag who protested for so many years against the treaty of Frankfort. He was first an "autonomist," then a "rallié," and was at all times courting imperial favors.

The other member mentioned is Burgomaster North of Dettweiler, a village of about 1,500 inhabitants. He was appointed Mayor by the Imperial Government, as the Mayors of all other towns in Alsace are appointed. If he were not German in sympathies, he would not be Mayor. His allocution could not be anything but German.

Neither one of the above officials represents, therefore, the Alsatian people. They were not elected by them, but appointed by the Statthalter representing the Kaiser.

Suffrage Strategy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A member of the Executive Committee of the Congressional Union, in a letter in today's TIMES, explains the hanging of a banner in Congress and the picketing of the President as "for political effect upon the women voters of the West."

I submit that this is the most far-fetched idea of "political strategy" ever introduced into American politics, for the following reasons:

1. President Wilson, the man annoyed, will not be a candidate at the next Presidential election, and has nothing to do with a Federal amendment, not having even the power of veto upon it.

2. It is four years before the women voters of the West will have another chance to vote for a Presidential candidate, unknown at the present time, and the memory of the "suffrage sentinels of 1917" cannot become an issue in the 1920 campaign.

3. The suffrage pickets are not at the gates of the residences of Congressmen, who vote on the Federal amendment, and who may run for office again, some of them in suffrage States, but are persecuting the President, to whom the women voters have already done their worst, presumably, and for whom as a Presidential candidate they will never have another chance to vote!

If this a sample of the "political strategy" of the Congressional Union, its members ought to be given rattles instead of votes. And it is an insult to the intelligence of every woman voter in the West to say that picketing the President in 1917 will have a good "political effect" for the Congressional Union in 1920. The most bitter "anti" in the land would not accuse the women voters of being in sympathy with the publicity seeking suffrage pickets rather than with the President they are persecuting.

Our Interest in Turkey.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Evidently the main difficulty in settling terms of peace lies in the East. It is the old Eastern question. What is to be done with the Sick Man, with Constantinople, and the Armenians?

The practical need of Russia is not dominion over Constantinople, but free access to the Mediterranean. Make the Dardanelles a free highway. Destroy the fortifications, and do not allow them to be built again. Enforce these conditions by means of an international fleet, to be maintained as long as necessary.

The practical need in Asiatic Turkey is not dominion for anybody, but protection for the Armenians and others who have suffered from the cruelty of the Turk. Insist upon their protection and safeguard them by an international force.

Could not the United States, already deeply interested in Turkey through missions and schools, take part in both these protective measures?

Is Seamanship Lacking?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The remedy for our present continued losses of war vessels is a United States Naval Academy for the education of young sea officers, and for nothing else. Up to about fifteen years ago we had one—and the best in the world. At present we have a School of Marine Engineering and Football, which is producing engine drivers, seagoing soldiers, and half backs, but it is not turning out sailormen.

Only a sailor can handle a ship. One is the natural complement of the other. And he must be caught young. His art cannot be taught him from books, nor in engine rooms, nor by exhibiting him to gaping crowds. The wind and the water are his sole teachers. If neglected or superseded, so will our strength on the sea decay; for ships and guns are of no avail if we lack the seamen to keep them afloat.

Militarism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You might say to prove that Germany started the war that she wrongfully invaded Belgium and that she was preparing for more than thirty years. Everybody has a right to state his or her honest opinions, but do you really believe that this war was the result of these causes or any other except rivalry? Wouldn't it be better, or rather sound better, if the allied powers (including military France and Russia) were to first crush their own militarism? The only real difference between the militarism of the Allies and that of Germany is that the latter is more efficient than the former, and surely that isn't any discredit to Germany. I am not a German, but an American who, like many others, can see the light. J. ROSENBLATT.

ECHO.

The Spring came like a rising tide,
Engulfing all the countryside;
Its spray was dashed in cherry trees,
Its wake was blue anemones,
And in old gardens, as it passed,
Gay crocuses like shells were cast.

Like a rising tide came Spring,
And all the world was blossoming.
My heart stirred under its pain and said,
"See how the trees are comforted!"
For each sad little twig was seen,
Sweetly embraced in living green.

I said, "O blossom, Heart of mine!
Be drunken with the lilac wine!
Give the young wind your hand and run,
Dancing with him in this warm sun!
Come, let the laughing April rain
Catch you and kiss your lips again!"

Upon the rising tide of Spring
I sent my heart adventuring,
And, in midwinter of the year,
Under the snowdrifts, I can hear,
As in a shell, the singing sea—
The Springtide murmuring in me!

IMMIGRATION AFTER THE WAR.

A Protest Against the Attempt to Exclude Available Labor by an Educational Test.

New York, Jan. 19, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A bill to amend the immigration law, and containing the so-called educational test, has again been passed by both houses of Congress. President Wilson vetoed a similar measure as recently as Jan. 15, 1915. In so doing, he followed the exmaple set by Presidents Cleveland and Taft.

One may ask what is the educational test and why is it discussed now? It provides that "all aliens over 16 years of age, physically capable of reading, who cannot read the English language or some other language or dialect, including Hebrew or Yiddish" shall be refused admission into the United States. There are several provisos; but they do not alter the purpose or real effect.

A process is stipulated. Each immigrant may designate the language or dialect he elects for the purpose of the "test," and he shall be required to read a slip containing not less than thirty or more than forty words "in ordinary use," printed in legible type in that language or dialect.

What does the expression "in ordinary use" mean, and how glibly and understandingly must the alien read forth the words?

This arbitrary test is no test of fitness at all. It can only be explained as an artificial means of curtailing immigration.

Immigration from all Europe was cut short when the war began, and the net in the ensuing thirty months has been practically nil. Actually, 4,429 more aliens of all classes came than departed during the two completed fiscal years ended June 30, 1915 and 1916. The average increase in population by immigration from all Europe has, however, averaged about 350,000 annually during the generation prior to the war, based upon the records of incoming and outgoing third class or steerage travel. The peoples who cross and re-cross the Atlantic in that accommodation are looked upon as comprising the "immigrants."

Questions of labor supply have not been given general attention, but they are of importance. Students of this interesting and vital subject long since recognized that the movement of European laborers in the last three decades, sometimes described as the "new" or "modern" immigration, has been in quick and true barometric response to economic conditions in the labor markets of the world. As recently as the Autumn of 1907 the exodus of European labor from the United States kept pace with the start and spread of the depression which then fell upon us, and in 1908 more people left for Europe in third class than arrived by over 275,000. It is also remembered that when the war commenced it became necessary to provide for the return home of several hundred thousand Italian laborers at the time employed in Germany. We Americans can conclude that a wise Providence has indeed blessed our country in this important element of a mobile labor supply. When labor has been needed it has come to us. When it has performed its task it has in large numbers departed for home again or it has proceeded to other countries offering immediate opportunity.

We all know that labor is scarce in the United States today. It is a problem where to find men ready and willing to do unskilled and manual work. It is not extraordinary to learn that the Southern negro in considerable numbers has risen in part response to that problem. The South seems alarmed at the exodus of these simple, uneducated people to the North. Does the employer in the South or in the North inquire whether the negro is "educated" even to the point of being able to read?

The advocates of immigration restriction profess to believe that when peace shall come to decimated and devastated Europe hordes of people will rush for our land of the free.

The educational test plainly would apply to unskilled labor. This element, since the "new immigration," has largely originated in Austria-Hungary, in Italy, in Russia, in the Balkans and in Greece. Those who survive the conflict, which has placed under arms the skilled and unskilled able-bodied of the populations of all the nations involved, will be needed at home when peace comes, and the refugees as well. Suitable work will be assigned to all, depending upon their qualifications. In Russia may be found an exception; but prior to the war, even ten years ago, several of these nations were alarmed at the exodus of their people. An endeavor, with a degree of success, was made to keep them at home. It is logical that any stiffening necessary to make such measures even more complete will promptly be applied by the nations concerned.

It has been stated that the coming or going of the European immigrant has been predicted largely upon economic conditions here. Peculiarly strong family ties and affection are recognized among the peasants of Europe. Many of them now with us, belonging to races involved in war, have, since its beginning, been without means even of communication with their families in the old countries. It is known that thousands of Austrians, Hungarians, Poles and others now here are standing to their tasks and labor, waiting with as much patience as they can for the first opportunity to hasten back to try to find their relatives. This means an exodus, when the war is over, which shall be for the first time regardless of industrial conditions in this country.

From all these facts the conclusion is that, while some immigrants will of course offer themselves for admission from Europe after the war, the existing laws will take care of their individual physical and other qualifications. The movement, however, will be slow, and it will be more than offset by a definite exodus.

The United States should take heed of these unprecedented conditions. Instead of enacting an un-American measure like the "educational test," there must be started constructive means to help the European workers in all the world in their sore distress and at the same time, and without selfishness, to conserve them for future usefulness.

IMPARTIAL.

MAYOR GETS MEDAL AS ORPHANS' FRIEND

Award Made by the Institute of Social Sciences for His Stand in Charities Inquiry.

HONORS FOR FIVE OTHERS

Gen. Gorgas, Prof. Pupin, Dr. Crile, Madison Grant, and Miss Delano on List — Stage Defended.

Gold medals for distinguished social services were presented yesterday at the annual meeting of the National Institute of Social Sciences in the Hotel Astor to Surgeon General William C. Gorgas of the United States Army, Mayor John Purroy Mitchel, Professor Michael I. Pupin of Columbia, and Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland. Presentation medals were awarded to Madison Grant for his work in conservation and Miss Jane A. Delano, Chief of the American Red Cross Nursing Service, for developing her department of the Red Cross.

Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale made the address of the meeting, on the subject of "Present Conditions and Tendencies of the Drama."

The medal to Mayor Mitchel, which was presented by Dr. John H. Finley, one of the Vice Presidents of the Institute, who presided, was awarded, Dr. Finley said, chiefly in recognition of the Mayor's services in behalf of the dependent children of the city. The institute's announcement explaining the reasons for the presentation of the medal made special reference to the Mayor's investigation of private charitable institutions receiving public money for the care of children, to his support of Commissioner of Charities Kingsbury in the latter's efforts to improve the condition of dependent children, to his advocacy of the policy of placing as many children as possible in private homes, and to his work for the city's institutions in general, especially that for the feeble-minded on Randall's Island.

"As Mayor of New York," said the announcement, "Mr. Mitchel has done more to improve the lot of the 23,000 dependent children in the city's care than had been done in the previous generation."

In accepting the medal, Mayor Mitchel said he assumed that the institute awarded it especially for a particular crisis in the Administration when he and his associates were credited with manifesting fortitude.

"We were attempting," continued the Mayor, "to obtain for the foster children of the city conditions which they deserved. It is curious that such a policy in a democracy should require fortitude, but special interests sometimes attempt to make it appear that the public officer opposing their ends is opposing the public interest, and it does sometimes require fortitude to adhere to the program adopted. But you may be sure that the present administration will adhere to its program and whatever of fortitude has been shown in the past will be shown in the future. It is hard to stand false accusation and misrepresentation, but it is easier to stand that than to bear the consciousness that the foster children of New York City have been neglected and deprived of what they deserve."

The Work of Others Honored.

The medal to General Gorgas was in recognition of his services in the Spanish-American war, in the Philippines, in Panama, and in Africa. Professor Pupin was honored for his electrical tuning device for wireless telegraphy, and for his contribution to long-distance telephony. Dr. Crile's medal was in recognition of his discovery of shockless surgery and method of blood transfusion.

Dr. Finley, in opening the meeting, paid a tribute to the late Hamilton W. Mabie, the Institute's first President, and then introduced Professor Phelps.

The speaker began by saying there was no reason to worry about the condition of the drama at any time, that there had never been a period when many critics did not "condemn unsparingly" the drama of their time. In 1607, he said, when the drama reached a high water mark with such dramatists as Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, Beaumont, Fletcher and others, Ben Jonson said that it had "sunk to the lowest depths of degradation."

"In the last twenty-five years," said Professor Phelps, "more good dramas have been written in English than in any preceding twenty-five years since Shakespeare's death. That doesn't mean, however, that the drama ought not to be better than it is."

Professor Phelps then classified the plays running in New York last night and said that out of the forty-four, twenty-two were comedies, only three were melodramas, four farces, and seven variety shows. He considered the high number of comedies and the low number of melodramas, farces, and variety shows as evidence of a healthy state of the drama.

Concerning musical comedies, Professor Phelps said he hoped the day of such productions as those of Gilbert and Sullivan would come again, "but," he added, "going to the ordinary girl and music show is about as poor a way to spend an evening as I can imagine."

The motion picture theatres, the speaker said, had driven melodramas and farces from the field.

The "Star System" Assailed.

"This is the contribution of the movies," he continued. "It is one of the best things they have done. Who will pay $2 to see one man slap another in the face with a custard pie when he can see Charlie Chaplin do the same thing for 10 cents? The movies have also jacked up the real drama, because producers have found that a play can't compete with the movies unless it has something more than the attraction of excitement and amusement."

Professor Phelps then discussed the theatre in Germany, England, and France before the war and remarked that the theatre was "much more important than the war." He said that, during the war, Germany had maintained her artistic standard in the theatre and that England had not. The drama in America, he said, would have a great future, but was still far behind the drama of foreign countries.

"I wish I could make other Americans as ashamed of our country in the matter of art as I am," he exclaimed.

Professor Phelps then compared the theatre in Germany to that in America, saying that here it was not close to the people, while in Germany it was. He blamed the monopoly of the theatre in New York and other cities, and the "star system" for the condition here.

In his address Professor Phelps touched upon dramatic criticism, and praised THE NEW YORK TIMES for its recent stand for the right of a critic to express his honest opinion about a play, regardless of the pleasure of the producer, actor, or author.

These officers of the institute were elected for the coming year:

President, Professor Irving Fisher of Yale; Honorary President, William H. Taft; Treasurer, Henry P. Davison; Secretary and Editor of the Journal, Miss Lillie Hamilton French.

Madison Grant, Dr. Charles B. Davenport, and Dr. Marston T. Bogert were elected to the Board of Vice Presidents to succeed Dr. Joseph Anderson, Seth Low, and Hamilton W. Mabie.

BUYS REMBRANDT 'RABBI'

John McCormack Gets Sir Audley Neeld's Art Treasure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—According to The Times today, Sir Audley Neeld's Rembrandt, which hung so long at Red Lodge, Grittleton, Wiltshire, has passed into the hands of John McCormack, the Irish tenor, who bought it for a large sum.

This picture, lately styled "The Rabbi," was one time known as "Portrait of a Jew," but its original title was "The Burgomaster." It is a signed portrait and belongs to the period of 1645.

ASTORS SEEK AID TO AMERICANIZE ALIENS

Gather Two Hundred Leading Engineers at Dinner to Discuss Industrial Problems.

A MOVE FOR EFFICIENCY

Gano Dunn Would Systematize and Standardize Welfare Work Now Done at Haphazard.

The Americanization of immigrants, to make them efficient individually and to make them better citizens, was discussed last night by industrial leaders at a dinner at the home of Vincent Astor, 840 Fifth Avenue, at which 200 engineers were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Astor and the Immigration Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Gano Dunn, President of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation, who presided because of the illness of Frank Trumbull, Chairman of the Committee of Railway Executives, spoke on "Industrial Americanization." He said:

"Industrial Americanization is a part of the prevalent present-day movement toward the humanizing of industry. It aims to make what is commonly called 'welfare work' not an exercise of the individual employer's 'paternalism,' but a legitimate kind of business organization everywhere. There are now innumerable kinds of 'welfare work.' One employer does it from the point of view of 'good business'; another on the 'big brothers' theory. One man confines himself to playgrounds, another to safety appliances. In one firm it is under the employment manager; in another under a Y. M. C. A. director, and in a number of other firms it is classified in as many different ways.

"There is no agreement among American employers as to where the organization of the human side of industry really belongs. And there are absolutely no standards for it. What we need to do is to extend scientific methods to the human phases of industrial organization, and thus give 'welfare work' a definite place and definite standards. The engineer as the 'consulting mind' of industry must be the leader in this work. It is he who determines the site of the plant and its construction. Inside the plant again, the engineer has much to do with efficiency methods. No efficiency methods that are unrelated to the men in the plant can prosper permanently."

Raymond B. Price of the United States Rubber Company said the state of preparedness which the country reaches industrially for the period after the war will depend more than anything else upon the degree in which the country learns "to conserve workmen—the real root of industrial efficiency."

Other speakers were Dr. Ira H. Hollis, President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; Henry S. Pritchett and Professor Charles Riborg Mann of the Carnegie Foundation, Morris Knowles of Pittsburgh, C. R. Dooley of the Westinghouse Company, Howard Coffin of the Naval Consulting Board, George A. Culloh, Arthur Davis of the United States Reclamation Service, Richard Feiss of Cleveland, President Alexander C. Humphreys of Stevens Institute, John McArthur, Charles B. Going, Charles A. Munn of The Scientific American, and Adolph Lewisohn.

Those present were:

L. P. Alford, editor American Machinist, New York; Gardner C. Anthony, Dean of Tufts College; E. B. Ashby, chief engineer of Lehigh Valley Railroad; Frank Aydelotte, Professor, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Leo S. Baekeland, Yonkers; C. W. Baker, editor Engineering News; William E. Baker, New York; Henry G. Barbey, New York; R. N. Begien, chief engineer Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; Union N. Bethell, President New York Telephone Company; F. L. Bishop, Dean of University of Pittsburgh; H. W. Blake, editor Electric Railway Journal; Francis Blossom, partner Sanderson & Porter, New York; W. H. Boehm, Fidelity and Casualty Company; Owen Brainard, consultant to Building Committee, United States Steel Company, New York; Harold S. Buttenheim, editor The American City.

John J. Carty, chief engineer American Telephone and Telegraph Company; C. M. Chapman, Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co.; Colonel Samuel Harden Church, President the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh; F. H. Clark, general superintendent of motive power Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore; Myron H. Clark; Howard E. Coffin, Vice President Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit; S. D. Collett, Vice President Elevator Supply and Repair Company, New York; F. H. Constant, Professor, Princeton University; M. E. Cooley, Dean of College of Engineering, University of Michigan; C. A. Crane, Secretary General Contractors' Association, New York; Thomas Crimmins, New York; John F. Crowell, New York; George A. Cullen, Passenger Traffic Manager Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; Mrs. William Bayard Cutting.

A. P. Davis, chief engineer, United States Reclamation Service, Washington; W. T. Donnelly, construction engineer, New York; James Douglas, President, Phelps, Dodge & Co.; C. R. Dooley, manager educational department Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh; Gano Dunn, President J. G. White Engineering Corporation.

Richard Feiss, General Manager the Joseph Feiss Co., Cleveland; Charles Ferguson, National Arts Club; R. H. Fernald, professor, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education; Wilbur C. Fisk, New York; Arthur H. Fleming, Detroit; George J. Foran, International Steam Pump Co.; George W. Fuller, construction engineer, New York; Clyde Furst, New York.

George Gibbs, consulting engineer Pennsylvania Railroad; Lawrence Gillespie, New York; T. A. Gillespie, New York; Frederick A. Goetz, dean Columbia University; Charles B. Going, editor, Works Management Library; A. M. Greene, professor, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy; Charles T. Gwynne, Secretary, Chamber of Commerce.

Arthur A. Hamerschlag, Director, Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh; P. W. Henry, New York; H. T. Herr, Vice President Westinghouse Machine Co., Pittsburgh; Clemens Herschel, Past President American Society of Civil Engineers, New York; C. H. Higgins, New York; Ira N. Hollis, President Worcester (Mass.) Polytechnic Institute; Alexander C. Humphreys, President Stevens Institute; Charles Warren Hunt, New York.

W. R. Ingalls, editor Engineering and Mining Journal, New York.

Professor Dugald C. Jackson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; John Price Jackson, State Commissioner of Labor of Pennsylvania; David S. Jacobus, Babcock-Wilcox Co., New York; Frank Jewett, New York.

E. B. Katte, chief engineer Electric Traction, New York Central & Hudson River Railroad; Leonard Kebler, Ward Leonard Electric Co., Mount Vernon; R. B. Kendig, chief mechanical engineer, New York Central Railroad, Professor W. H. Kenerson, Brown University; Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Cornell University; James A. Kinkead, resident sales manager Parkersburg Iron Co.; W. S. Kinnear, United States Realty and Improvement Co.; C. E. Knoeppel, New York; Morris Knowles, consulting engineer, Pittsburgh; Schuyler B. Knox, New York; Dr. George F. Kunz, New York.

Frank E. Law, Vice President Fidelity and Casualty Company; A. R. Ledoux, Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer, Board of Estimate; Adolph Lewisohn, Sam A. Lewisohn, John W. Lieb, Vice President New York Edison Company; L. F. Loree, President Delaware & Hudson Railroad; F. R. Low, editor Power; C. F. Loweth, Chief Engineer, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, Chicago.

William McAndrew, Board of Education, New York; John R. MacArthur, President MacArthur Brothers Company; William Dean McClellan, Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania; C. M. Manly, Curtiss Aeroplane Co., Buffalo; Charles R. Mann, Professor, Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching; H. B. Mann, T. C. Martin, Secretary National Electric Light Association; Joseph Mayper, Executive Secretary Immigration Committee Chamber of Commerce, United States of America, New York; E. J. Mehren, editor Engineering Record; Professor Henry C. Metcalf, Tufts College; H. C. Meyer, Jr., consulting engineer, New York; Fred J. Miller, factory manager, Remington Typewriter Company; Spencer Miller, Lidgerwood Manufacturing Company; Ralph Modjeska, New York; L. V. Morris, Valuation Engineer, Long Island Railroad.

Edward J. Nally, Marconi Company; James W. Nelson, Professor Leonard Norsworthy, Columbia University.

John F. O'Rourke, Pres. O'Rourke Engineering Construction Co.; John E. Otterson, Superintendent Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven.

R. S. Parsons, chief engineer, Erie R. R.; William Barclay Parsons; George H. Pegram, Pres. American Society of Civil Engineers; Raymond B. Price, U. S. Rubber Co.; Henry S. Pritchett, Pres. Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching.

Professor Walter Rautenstrauch, Columbia; Franklin Remington, Pres. the Foundation Co.; Calvin W. Rice, Secretary American Society of Mechanical Engineers; C. R. Richards, Director Cooper Union; F. H. Ringe, Jr., New York; Professor Joseph W. Roe, Yale; E. F. Roeber, Ph. D., editor Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering; F. E. Rogers, editor Machinery; James E. Russell, Dean Teachers College.

R. L. Sackett, Dean Pennsylvania State College; H. R. Safford, chief engineer, Grand Trunk R. R., Montreal; James E. Sague, International Steam Pump Co., Poughkeepsie; J. R. Savage, Garden City; Homer E. Sawyer, Vice Pres. U. S. Rubber Co.; H. V. R. Scheel, Passaic, N. J.; Jacob Gould Schurman, Pres. Cornell; Professor Samuel Sheldon, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute; J. Waldo Smith, chief Engineer, Board of Water Supply; William Starrett, New York; E. A. Stillman, Pres. Watson-Stillman Co.; L. B. Stillwell, New York; Bradley Stoughton, Secretary American Institute of Mining Engineers; Roger W. Straus, New York; Lionel Sutro, New York; J. J. Swan, Plainfield, N. J.

C. C. Thomas, professor Johns Hopkins University; A. W. Thompson, Vice President Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; Edward L. Thorndike, professor Teachers College; W. S. Timmis, New York; Calvert Townley; New York; W. G. Triest, Snare & Triest Co.; A. G. Trumbull, Assistant Mechanical Engineer Erie Railroad; Frank Trumbull, Chairman Immigration Committee, Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, New York.

B. R. Value, H. S. Kerbaugh, Inc., New York; Warner Van Norden, New York; Edward Van Winkle, New York.

S. T. Wagner, Chief Engineer Philadelphia & Reading Railway; P. D. Wagoner, President General Vehicle Co., Long Island City; F. A. Waldron, New York; John F. Wallace, Chairman Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co.; Arthur M. Waitt, New York; L. C. Wason, President Aberthaw Construction Co., Boston; George V. Wendell, professor Columbia; H. H. Westinghouse, Vice President Westinghouse Air Brake Co.; Miss Maude Wetmore, New York; J. G. White, New York; J. B. Whitehead, professor Johns Hopkins; C. B. Whittlesey, President Hartford Rubber Works Co., Hartford; Dr. Theodore Whittlesey, New York; Walter F. Willcox, Professor of Economics, Cornell; Sydney B. Williamson, New York; Ira H. Woolson, consulting engineer National Board of Fire Underwriters.

This is the second large dinner given by the Astors to further the work of the Immigration Committee in Americanizing immigrants.

"Three Sherry Dances" End.

The last of the season's "Three Sherry Dances" was held last night and both ballroom floors at Sherry's were taken for it. The Reception Committee made up of Mrs. Edward S. Knapp, Mrs. J. Herbert Johnston, and Mrs. B. Ogden Chisolm received. There were some 300 in attendance of the older girls, last year's débutantes and young married couples, and the dancing was in the large ballroom, and the seated supper at small tables was served in the small ballroom.

Mrs. James H. Darlington, wife of Bishop Darlington of Western Pennsylvania, gave a dinner and theatre party for Miss Eleanor Darlington and other young people last night. The dinner was at Sherry's and there were about twenty-five guests.

Litchfield-Pearson Wedding Jan. 25

The wedding of Mrs. Jeannette C. Pearson and Percy Litchfield of Brooklyn, whose engagement was announced late in December, will take place on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 25, at 3:30 o'clock in the Chapel of St. George's Church in Stuyvesant Square. It will be a quiet wedding, as Mrs. Pearson has been in mourning for her aunt, Miss Jeannette L. Gilder. After a trip in the South the couple will reside at 100 East Seventeenth Street.

Skating Fete for Jewell Nursery.

A skating fête was held yesterday at Iceland for the benefit of the Jewell Day Nursery. There were many entries in the amateur waltzing competition for silver cups. Among those in charge of the affair were Mrs. Louis L. Stanton, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. G. Maurice Heckscher, Mrs. Fuller Porter, Mrs. C. C. Pell, Mrs. Irving Brokaw, Mrs. E. S. Knapp, Mrs. J. B. Thomas, and the Misses Dorothy Kane, Elanor Mortimer, and Alexandra Emery.

Mrs. A. G. Vanderbilt in Quebec.

Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt is to spend a part of the Winter in Quebec. She recently arrived in that city accompanied by a party of friends, and has taken a suite of rooms at the Chateau Frontenac, where the party will remain for some time, and take part in the Winter sports. Mrs. Vanderbilt is an accomplished skater.

Travel to Cuba and South America.

Some of the passengers booked to sail today for Havana and west coast ports via Colon on the Metapan are:

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Alexander, J. W. Corell, Miss M. Davis, Dr. J. E. Hicks, J. F. Kirby, G. H. Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Helmer, M. C. Helbert, W. Hughes, G. Hunneman, G. D. Jones, Louis Myers, W. F. Porter, Miss N. A. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Thomas, and G. B. Williams.

HAVANA, (Havana.)—Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Jones, Dr. Maurice V. Tyrode, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dougherty, Miss Anna August, R. S. Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Douglas, W. B. Comstock, A. B. Horn, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hardon.

MUNAMAR, (Antilla.)—J. Freeman, Peter Clark, Patrick Mulvey, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tuckerman, E. B. Smith, Miss M. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Allen, J. H. Roberts, A. W. Yerkes, Roy S. Barker, P. S. Harrington, C. R. Sharp, and M. C. Boardman.

Some of those who sailed yesterday for Kingston on the Sixaola were:

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hughes, Ralph Johnson, T. F. Kearney, A. R. Kimball, Mrs. H. Leavitt, Mr. and Mrs. F. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Royes, and Mr. and Mrs. George W. West.

To and from Europe.

Some of the passengers booked to sail today for Liverpool on the New York are:

Thomas Aird, R. L. Bald, Miss Sybil Bald, L. A. Barling, N. E. Bartlett, Dr. William P. Bowen, F. S. Bowen, Mrs. E. Davies, Mrs. L. J. Dunham, Arthur Dutson, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Foster, Miss Hilda C. Foster, Mrs. E. A. Gordon, William Griffith, J. C. Hamilton, R. B. Hooper, Owen Hitchins, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. King, M. W. King, J. G. Levie, B. H. McLeon, John W. Macdonald, Mrs. E. M. Mennell, R. W. Milbank, Miss M. Elizabeth-Neill, J. F. Paton, G. B. Penniman, W. J. Richardson, R. H. Rees, Mrs. A. D. Saunderson, Dr. E. Sturridge, M. P. Troy, Russell W. Underwood, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Van Loan, Richard T. Wainwright, Miss Mary Wall, Mrs. Kate B. Wilson, Mrs. I. Wormser, J. S. Worthington.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday on the Orduna from Liverpool were:

Patrick Y. Alexander, Alfred Bell, A. Campbell, A. E. Hawkswood, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. McCarthy, Miss A. M. McCarthy, Major C. P. R. Dugmore, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Semplil, Mrs. S. F. Edwards, Miss Edna Mattson, Mrs. Bertha Munns, Miss Lavinia Smith, Miss E. E. Payne, Mrs. A. J. Payne.

LITTLE PLAYS GIVEN AT MRS. DE KOVEN'S

Society Throng Attends Benefit for Lady Johnstone's War Hospital in Paris.

THEATRE IN THE BALLROOM

Hostess's Daughter, Mrs. Hudson, Acts Leading Role in Miss Duer's Comedy—Mlle. Dorziat Recites.

Society was attracted last night by the entertainment held at the residence of Mrs. Reginald de Koven, 1,025 Park Avenue, for the benefit of Lady Johnstone's war hospital in Paris. Although the house is large, its capacity was taxed, and the sale of tickets had to be discontinued.

The ballroom, of the Elizabethan period, was transformed into a theatre, with the stage under the musician's gallery. Seats for the overflow of guests were placed in the library which opens off the ballroom.

The program was varied, and included two playlets, one of which was a comedy, written by Miss Caroline K. Duer, who is prominent in society. Miss Gertrude Kingston and two of her company appeared in Barrie's "Rosalind."

The program started off with Mlle. Dorziat in recitations, after which came Miss Duer's playlet, "The Independence of Mr. Hastings." In this, Mrs. H. Kierstede Hudson, Mrs. de Koven's daughter, took the leading rôle, with William Raymond as Mr. Hastings, and Mrs. G. H. Sears, who took the part of a cook. Miss Margaret Severne followed in dances. Then came Miss Mary Lawson, who recited Bigbee's "Verdun" and Pottle's "The Ambulance Drive." Mme. Edvina sang songs by Debussy and Tosti.

In "Rosalind" Miss Kingston was supported by Miss Lillian Drennard and Richard Dennie.

Among the patronesses were Mrs. Alfred Anson, Mrs. Forsythe Wicks, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Mrs. Whitney Warren, Mrs. Henry N. Alexander, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. John R. Drexel, Mrs. Gordon Knox Bell, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Newbold Edgar, Mrs. G. Gray Griswold, Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, Mrs. Goodhue Livingston, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. Francis K. Pendleton, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, Mrs. Julian Robbins, Mrs. Arthur Train, Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Clarence S. Wadsworth, Mrs. George Landers, Miss Elsie de Wolfe, Mrs. Charles Dickey, and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer.

A Wedding in Black Today.

A wedding will be celebrated this morning in the Church of St. Vincent de Paul, in West Twenty-third Street, at which the bride and bridegroom will be costumed in deep black.

The contracting parties are Miss Eleanor Klinges of 229 West Seventy-eighth Street and Ora Cne of Scranton, Penn. The ceremony will be performed at 9 o'clock, and a reception will follow at the home of the bride.

The bride is to wear a black gown, black bridal veil, and black gloves, and the bridegroom is to be almost entirely in black, even to his shirt, collar, and tie.

Dr. Leopold F. W. Haas.

Dr. Leopold F. W. Haas, chief diagnostician of the Bronx Borough Board of Health, and a practicing physician there for twenty years, died on Thursday in the Presbyterian Hospital, in his forty-third year. He was born here and was a graduate of the College of the City of New York and the Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Jose M. Jimenez-Berroa, Violinist.

BERLIN, Jan. 19, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—A dispatch from Hamburg today announces the death there of the pianist, Jose Manuel Jimenez-Berroa, after a long illness. He was born in Trinidad, Cuba, in 1855, but received his musical education and had long resided in Europe, where he in past years numbered Franz Liszt, among other famous musicians, as a friend.

The Rev. Hugh P. Fleming Dies.

Father Hugh Paul Fleming, rector emeritus of St. John's Church, in Orange, N. J., and formerly for thirty-four years head of that parish, died yesterday in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Suffern, N. Y., in his seventy-third year. He was known for his long fight against the saloon element in Orange and was chiefly responsible for the ordinance prohibiting any saloon keeper from holding office.

Obituary Notes.

JOHN FRANCIS MARCH, a tea merchant and one of the best known tea tasters here, died on Thursday at his home, 555 West 183d Street, in his seventy-first year.

HENRY BENDHEIM, Vice President of the Metropolitan Tobacco Company, died on Thursday at his home, 42 West Eighty-ninth Street, in his sixty-fourth year. He was born in Germany.

FRANK J. HAYES, a real estate dealer here for many years, died on Thursday at his home, 33 East Seventy-fifth Street, in his sixty-first year.

LOUIS A. MANCINI, a commission merchant here, died on Thursday at his home in Montclair, N. J., in his seventy-second year.

MARC M. REYNOLDS, financial editor of The New York Tribune during 1912-14, died suddenly on Tuesday in his fifty-seventh year. He lived at 314 West 100th Street, and was a member of the New York Athletic, the Republican, the New Rochelle Yacht, and the Pelham Gun Clubs.

R. F. FOSTER'S IMPROVEMENT ON AUCTION
PIRATE BRIDGE
By R. F. Foster
No card player who reads Mr. Foster's lucid explanation of the theory and practice of PIRATE BRIDGE can fail to recognize its immense superiority over Auction. The first few chapters fill one with a fierce desire to try the game, it is so much quicker, so much more interesting, and gives so much greater scope for the display of individual skill. The experienced Auction player has nothing new to learn, except to apply his skill in a different way, and always with the best partner. The chapters on bidding, accepting, and refusing unsuitable partners are models of the teacher's art.

Is Your Son Successful at School?

Failure in his studies will shake his confidence in himself and make him less fitted mentally and morally to enter the larger struggle. Let us teach him to CONCENTRATE, as we have many boys and girls who had been unsuccessful at "large class" schools. The Clark Method of constant individual encouragement and examination by teachers who KNOW their subjects and who teach almost wholly without text books, engenders quiet, concentrated effort on the part of the student. A long record of remarkable results has established the great value of Clark methods for either the "slow," normal or brilliant student. Glance over the following

TYPICAL CLARK-CONCENTRATION SUCCESS

English and Composition	45	Virgil and Sight Reading	30
Literature	80	Elementary German	53
Latin Grammar	45	Algebra	25
Elementary Latin Composition	15	Plane Geometry	33
Chemistry	39

The foregoing was the report given by the College Entrance Board to a student who had spent four years in another preparatory school in this city. The same student, after taking our concentration courses for 9 months, passed the College Entrance Examination Board recently in the following subjects:—

English Grammar and Composition	60	American History	60
English Literature	74	Elementary Algebra, Complete	60
Elementary German	63	Chemistry	60
Advanced German	60	*Cicero and Sight Reading	75
Elementary French	65	*Virgil and Sight Reading	75
Plane Geometry	67	*Advanced Latin Composition	75

*For Harvard.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Irregularly in a Dull Session—Interest in Bethlehem.

Between the bullish effect of further evidence that the war may go on for a longer time than many thought probable when the peace overtures were launched, and the depressing influence of the activities of the raider or raiders in the South Atlantic, the stock market hung undecided throughout most of the session yesterday. There was a further loss of interest on the part of the public and the professional operations were limited to a very few issues. Most stocks profited slightly by the day's movements, especially the shipping shares, which moved contrary to the expectations of those who considered the ease with which the German commerce destroyer has disposed of more than a score of vessels a bad omen for the lines operating under the British flag.

Traders were active yesterday for the first time in many months in the shares of the Bethlehem Steel Company. The news has been decidedly unfavorable to the most richly dowered war bride, and the selling that took place, even though conducted for the most part in odd lots, carried the price down to 396, or more than 300 points under the record price on the upward swing. A recovery carried the quotation back to 420 at the close, and so reduced the net loss for the day to 15 points, or 56 for the week.

The decline in Bethlehem, the most firmly intrenched of all of the concerns that sought business from the belligerents, has furnished the final proof of the uncertainties of profits dependent upon munitions contracts. No one questions for an instant the very substantial nature of the Bethelehem's earnings, but the reported necessity for the issuance of upward of $60,000,000 of bonds, the rumored difficulties in connection with payments for shells delivered, and the company's own explanation of its inability to make a lower price on the shells ordered by the Navy Department from British manufacturers all serve to emphasize the less attractive side of the munitions business. If Bethlehem, with its unequaled facilities and able management, has met with such difficulties, it is not difficult to understand the failure of other industrial companies which undertook munitions work for the first time to make the profits expected when the orders were received.

Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, International Mercantile Marine, and United Fruit all showed a decided degree of strength yesterday. Most of the other issues fluctuated within a narrow range on a small volume of business.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Bethlehem Steel Sold Down.

Bethlehem Steel went through the rather unusual experience of being pressed for sale yesterday, supposedly by way of liquidation of long stock. The turnover, in excess of 8,000 shares, was the largest of a long period of market days, and at the minimum price of 396 the stock was 119 points below the best quotation this year. It was also 19 points below the lowest price of 1916. The "cheapness" of Bethlehem was a subject of much comment in brokerage offices when the stock fell under 400, and insistent buying quickly carried the price upward to 420 after the minimum was recorded, making the day's net decline 15 points.

⁂

Bearish Influences.

The recession of Bethlehem was connected with a number of influences in commission house gossip. Probably the talk of a bond issue in the near future attracted more attention than anything else, and the question was frequently heard, Why should Bethlehem sell bonds when it could find an excellent market for more stock? In the absence of any official information in regard to contemplated financing, some holders of the shares grew nervous and let go of their stock. The news tickers added to the day's grist of stories about Bethlehem by recounting rumors of delayed payments amounting to several millions of dollars on shells made for the Russian Government. All around, it was a bearish day for Bethlehem Steel.

⁂

The Bethlehem Dividend.

The Bethlehem Steel Directors meet next Tuesday to consider the year's dividend. The meeting was scheduled to be held last week, but had to be postponed then because the accounts for 1916 were not all in hand, showing the year's earnings in entirety. The Street was at sea yesterday in its estimates and predictions about the disbursement, as opinions established previously had to be revamped because of the talk of new financing and delayed payments. Officials of the company declined resolutely to discuss either dividend prospects or the stories current in the Street about a hitch in securing payments for shells delivered. In quarters familiar with munitions orders it was said that adjustments frequently had been negotiated over bills for completed shells before full payment was made, and that a delay of this sort, if it had occurred over a Bethlehem contract, could not be considered as an adverse factor on earnings.

⁂

Bank Clerks Own Stock.

More than one-half of the employes of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank are shareholders of the institution. An arrangement has been perfected by which all employes have an opportunity to purchase stock on an installment plan. Since October nearly 200 clerks have become "partners" in the bank.

⁂

Will London Lower Interest Rate?

Announcement of the reduction by the Bank of England of the discount rate from 6 to 5½ per cent. has suggested the possibility of London banks lowering the rate of interest paid on deposits of American institutions. In normal times it is customary for the banks to pay interest at a rate 2 per cent. under the Bank of England rate, but since the war this practice has not been consistently adhered to. At the present time the London banks are paying 4½ per cent., which, considering the risk in exchange, nets the New York banks about 4 per cent. Some of the London institutions have paid as high as 5 per cent. It was pointed out yesterday that in the event that the London banks lower the interest rate now they will probably lose a large portion of their American deposits. It is reported that within the last ten days or two weeks the New York banks redeposited in London about $100,000,000 which they so suddenly withdrew about seven weeks ago. Up to late yesterday afternoon no word had been received by the local banks from their London correspondents regarding interest rates.

⁂

Brazil Losing Rubber Trade.

One of the most striking economic changes in recent years has been the loss by Brazil of its dominant position in the rubber trade. Whereas, a few years back, the world looked to South America for most of its crude rubber, it is now getting the larger share from the Far East. The Brazilian product is obtained from trees that grow wild, and little has been done toward cultivation of the trees. In Sumatra, Ceylon, Burma, and other countries millions of trees have been set out and are now coming into bearing. The domestic product is said to be slightly superior to that obtained from Brazil, and the trees improve with age. The financial loss to Brazil through its decreasing exports has become a serious matter.

LONDON MARKET INACTIVE.

American Securities Vary Little and Close Quiet.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The artificial character of the bank rate, as far as the money market is concerned, is indicated by the fact that the banks have not reduced deposit rates with the lower minimum.

Money was plentiful and discount rates were easy today.

The stock market was inactive but cheerful. There was a moderate rise in the old 3½ per cent. war loan, but further realizing in order to invest in the new loan occurred in standard securities. Home rails improved in anticipation of better dividends. Rumanian oil and Russian issues were firmer on the war news, and Kaffirs had a good tone. American securities, after adjustment to the higher parity, varied but little and closed quiet.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62 francs 40 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 81½ centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 88 francs 50 centimes.

German Bank Statement.

BERLIN, Jan. 19, (via London.)—The statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany issued Jan. 15, shows the following changes:

	Marks.
Total coin and bullion increased	2,134,000
Gold increased	1,359,000
Treasury notes decreased	1,430,000
Notes of other banks increased	120,000
Bills discounted decreased	133,163,000
Advances increased	401,000
Investments increased	2,078,000
Other securities increased	108,684,000
Notes in circulation decreased	259,037,000
Deposits increased	148,427,000
Other liabilities increased	86,384,000

Total gold holdings, 2,522,260,000 marks.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Early strength in the general list on the Consolidated Exchange was succeeded by reactionary tendencies. The sharp decline in Bethlehem Steel attracted attention and exerted a sympathetic adverse influence upon the market. United States Steel common was dealt in to the extent of nearly 50,000 shares.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

> Irregular tendencies again appear in trade and industry, with business rising in some channels and falling in others, and with wholesome conservatism still the outstanding and most reassuring feature. With the requirements of many large concerns covered far ahead, the necessity of urgent purchasing is obviously less apparent and signs multiply of the restricting influence of high prices, some interests holding off because of the knowledge that reaction is inevitable, though as yet there is little evidence of yielding.
>
> The maintenance of active business conditions in practically all sections of the country is clearly indicated by the continued heavy payments through the banks, as reflected in clearing house transactions, the total this week at the principal cities amounting to $5,381,055,857, an increase of 35.6 per cent. as compared with the $3,967,966,334 of the same week last year and of 94.6 per cent. as contrasted with the $2,765,914,563 reported for the corresponding week in 1915.

Bradstreet's says:

> High prices for grain and live stock spread cheerfulness throughout the more important centres of the West, and activity in mining does likewise for metal-bearing regions, and snow covering for Fall-sown wheat is more than normal. Money is easy, collections are good, demand for bonds overtaxes the supply, bank clearings continue to run into large figures, deposits in banks are heavy, and American plants are expanding for the purpose of manufacturing products largely imported prior to the war.

United States Rubber Company

First and Refunding Mortgage Five Per Cent. Gold Bonds, Series "A"

Due January 1, 1947

INTEREST PAYABLE JANUARY 1st AND JULY 1st

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100 each with privilege of registration as to principal and exchangeable for bonds (in denominations of $500 and larger) registered as to both principal and interest. Fully registered bonds re-exchangeable for coupon bonds.

All but not part of the Series A Bonds outstanding may be redeemed on any interest date, on and after January 1, 1920, upon 90 days' notice, at 105 and interest.

For information as to this issue of bonds, reference is made to a letter, dated January 15, 1917, from Samuel P. Colt, Esq., President of the United States Rubber Company, copies of which may be obtained at the offices of the undersigned, which states in part as follows:

REPAYMENT OF MATURING BONDS—"All existing bonds, and liens upon the properties, of United States Rubber Company or subsidiaries, will be provided for at once and will be paid on or before December 1, 1918, except $2,600,000 6% Gold Bonds of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company, Limited, (hereinafter called the Canadian Company), which are not due until October 1, 1946, and except $9,000,000 debentures of General Rubber Company, due December 1, 1918. . . . The debentures of the General Rubber Company are to be left undisturbed for the present as the Company has under consideration other plans for dealing with its important crude rubber interests. . ."

LIMIT OF ISSUE—"The Bonds are to be of an issue limited to the par amount of the Company's full paid preferred stocks and common stock now outstanding, plus any additional stock issued at not less than par for cash actually paid in, and further limited so that no bonds in addition to $60,000,000 presently to be issued (1) shall be sold or pledged prior to January 1, 1918, except with your consent; (2) shall be issued except for refunding . . . unless the unencumbered quick assets (as defined in the Mortgage) of the Company and subsidiaries exceed their aggregate debt (as defined in the Mortgage), including the outstanding Bonds and any increased indebtedness resulting from such issue; (3) shall be issued, except for said refunding, unless the annual net income (as defined in the Mortgage) of the Company and subsidiaries for three fiscal years next prior to such issue has been at least twice the annual interest upon the entire debt of the Company and subsidiaries, including interest on any increased indebtedness resulting from such issue, and (4) limited also to the amount of the present capital stock (about $97,250,000) except to the extent of any increase consented to by the preferred and common stocks."

"Of the balance of the authorized issue $10,000,000 Bonds may be issued for additional working capital, and for development and for other corporate purposes, subject to the restrictions above stated, and out of the remaining bonds now authorized reservation is to be made to provide for the $9,000,000 General Rubber Company 5% Debentures, due December 1, 1918, guaranteed by United States Rubber Company and Rubber Goods Company, until otherwise provided for, and the $2,600,000 Canadian Company Bonds, due October 1, 1946. Any additional Bonds and any Bonds not used for such refunding shall be reserved for capital expenditures made after January 1, 1917, for additions, betterments and improvements or for new properties (including subsidiary companies against the pledge of their mortgage bonds), at 75 per cent. of cost; or not more than one-third of such additional Bonds may be issued for other securities and stocks at 60 per cent. of cost; all as shall be defined and provided in the Mortgage."

SINKING FUND—"On January 1, 1919, and annually on January 1 thereafter, the Company is to pay to the Trustee as a sinking fund 1% in cash upon the face value of the Bonds then outstanding, plus the amount retired by the sinking fund. Bondholders shall be invited to tender Series A Bonds for the sinking fund, and the Trustee shall accept the Bonds tendered at the lowest prices, not exceeding 105% and interest, to the extent of the moneys in the sinking fund available for Bonds of Series A, but to the extent not procurable at or below 105% and interest upon such tenders (or thereafter during the year in the market), the Company shall be relieved of its obligation for that year in respect to the sinking fund applicable to Series A Bonds and any balance remaining in the sinking fund for such bonds at the end of the year shall be credited upon the sinking fund for such bonds for the following year or years."

NET EARNINGS—"The net earnings of the Company and its subsidiary companies available for interest . . . as found by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, have been:

For the fiscal year ending December 31, 1914	$10,690,988.48
" " " " " December 31, 1915	11,539,313.10
" " " " " December 31, 1916, (partly estimated)	12,500,000.00."

INTEREST CHARGES—"Interest charges of the Company and subsidiaries, including the present issue of $60,000,000 Bonds and interest on the undisturbed bonds of Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company, Ltd., and General Rubber Company, but excluding interest on obligations maturing on or before December 1, 1918, and now provided for, and on unfunded indebtedness to be paid by this issue would be less than $3,610,000. Considerable additional earnings should result from the use of additional capital provided by this issue."

QUICK ASSETS—"Applying the proceeds of sale of the $60,000,000 Bonds, the Company and its subsidiary companies would have as of October 31, 1916, over and above all liabilities other than the new bonds and the undisturbed bonds, net quick assets, consisting of accounts and bills receivable, cash and merchandise and readily marketable securities (excluding securities issued by subsidiary companies), valued at $81,363,402.28."

FINANCIAL POSITION—"The consolidated financial position of the Company and its subsidiary companies, as of October 31, 1916, but after applying the proceeds of the sale of the $60,000,000 new Bonds, as found by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, would be as stated below. This statement does not include any valuation of good-will, resulting from the old established business of the companies and from their valuable trade-marks; and the property, plant and equipment is given at the amount as carried on the books, although in the opinion of the officers of the companies, an appraisal at this time would result in a very much larger valuation:

Property, Plant and Equipment		$54,850,204.33
Manufactured Goods and Material		48,791,238.61
Securities Owned		1,731,870.29
Net Current Assets, consisting of cash and receivables, less payables		30,840,293.38
		$136,213,606.61
Undisturbed Bonds:
Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company, Ltd.	$2,600,000
General Rubber Company	9,000,000
		11,600,000.00
Leaving assets of		$124,613,606.61

or more than twice the $60,000,000 Bonds now to be issued."

"The foregoing statement of the financial position of the Company and subsidiaries does not include as a liability $1,385,200 (less than 6% of amount outstanding) of stock of the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company and $385,100 (less than 7% of amount outstanding) of stock of the Canadian Company not owned by United States Rubber Company."

"The foregoing statements leave out of account the Canadian Consolidated Felt Company, Limited, a majority of whose common stock is owned by the Canadian Company, and the contingent liability of the Canadian Company as guarantor of $426,500 bonds of said company. On November 30, 1916, the Felt Company had net assets over all liabilities, other than said $426,500 of bonds, valued at $611,983.87. Similarly two other relatively unimportant companies, in which the stock interest of the United States Rubber Company or its subsidiary companies is less than 80%, are excluded. Said three companies are not regarded as "subsidiary companies.""

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE BONDS AT 96¾ PER CENT. AND ACCRUED INTEREST TO DATE OF DELIVERY, AT WHICH PRICE THE BONDS YIELD OVER 5.20 PER CENT. ON THE INVESTMENT.

ANY OF THE BONDS NOW TO BE REFUNDED BY THIS ISSUE WILL BE ACCEPTED IN PAYMENT FOR NEW BONDS UPON A 4 PER CENT. INTEREST BASIS TO MATURITY.

The subscription will be closed at three o'clock P. M., on Tuesday, January 23, 1917, or earlier, the right being reserved to reject any applications and to award a smaller amount than applied for. The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice.

A first payment of $50 per $1,000 bond subscribed for must accompany all subscriptions. The balance of the amount due on bonds allotted upon subscriptions will be payable in New York funds on Friday, February 16, 1917, at the offices of the undersigned, against interim receipts, exchangeable for engraved bonds as soon as ready.

All allotments will be subject to the stockholders' authorization necessary in connection with the creation of the issue and to the approval of proceedings by counsel.

If no allotment be made the first payment will be repaid in full, and if only a portion of the amount applied for be allotted, the balance of the first payment will be applied toward the amount due on February 16, 1917. No interest will be allowed on such first payment. If any further balance remains, such balance will be repaid. Failure to pay the second instalment, when due, will render the previous payment liable to forfeiture.

Subscriptions for the bonds will be received in Boston by Messrs. Kidder, Peabody & Co.

New York, January 17, 1917.

REACTION IN COTTON ON LIVERPOOL RUMOR

Steps Further to Restrict Speculative Business in English Market Reported.

NET LOSS OF 17-23 POINTS

World's Visible Supply of American Cotton Shows a Decrease of 99,426 Bales for the Week.

The cotton market yesterday, after opening at from 4 to 7 points above Thursday's closing prices, sold at about 14 points net higher during the early trading, but later reacted, closing steady at a net decline of 17 to 23 points.

The principal item of news was the report that the Liverpool Cotton Association had taken steps further to restrict speculative business in the Liverpool market. Although there was no confirmation of the report, its circulation appeared to make a bearish impression on sentiment in some quarters. There was a feeling that this would shut out support of one sort or another and restrict the volume of straddle business. At the same time there were others who felt that the action was merely in line with the general policy of belligerents to concentrate all financial and other resources to the securing of ample war materials and other necessities. This would naturally include Lancashire requirements of raw cotton, and it was argued in certain quarters that any measure tending to insure such supplies might be regarded as an ultimately bullish factor.

The world's visible supply of American cotton shows a decrease of 99,462 bales for the week compared with a decrease of 59,923 last year, and is now 4,419,706 bales against 4,697,122 last year.

State Superintendent of Banks E. L. Richards is paying an additional 11 per cent. dividend to depositors of the defunct State Savings Bank of New York City. With the payment of this, the sixth dividend since the bank closed, a total of 65 per cent. will have been disbursed, 54 per cent. having already been paid. The payment of the 11 per cent. dividend will result in returning to depositors $20,366, making a total of $120,235 paid to date.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana declared yesterday a regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. and an extra dividend of 3 per cent. The declaration of an extra disbursement marks the resumption of extra cash payments, which were cut off at the end of 1914. The regular 3 per cent. quarterly has been paid throughout 1915 and 1916.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

The wheat market experienced an early advance, which carried prices to the high point of the week, but, subsequently, values eased off sharply, and at the close were 1¼ to 2⅛c net lower. In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.13; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.24; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.24¼, all free on board New York.

CORN.

The corn market experienced a partial reaction from Thursday's advance, closing 1 to 1¼c net lower. There was a fair export inquiry, but sales for the day were moderate, amounting to 200,000 bushels. The Argentine crop news was again bullish and shipments for the week were 1,748,000 bushels, compared with 2,295,000 last year. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.12, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was firmer, closing at about the best for the day. Reports from the West indicated a better cash demand and the hog markets were higher. The movement of hogs was moderate and the trade at large seemed to take a bullish view of the hog situation. Receipts of hogs at Chicago, 34,000; estimated for Saturday, 19,000. Kansas City received 4,000 and Omaha 22,500.

COFFEE.

Evening up of commitments after the moderately active business of the earlier week caused irregular fluctuations in a comparatively narrow coffee maket yesterday. The opening was unchanged to 1 point lower, and the more active positions sold about 4 to 5 points under Thursday's closing prices during the middle of the day. The local spot market was quiet and unchanged on the basis of 10c for Rio 7s and 10⅛c for Santos 4s.

SUGAR.

Sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower, with the market dull. Later in the day a little covering by local trade interests caused prices to advance a couple of points, but the volume of business was small and the near months were the only positions which showed steadiness, later options being weak and lower. Final figures were 2 points net higher to 10 points net lower, with sales for the day 1,450 tons. Range of prices:

The market for refined sugar was steady and unchanged at 6.75c for fine granulated, but there was only a moderate demand, with buyers as a rule purchasing only from hand to mouth. Raw sugar was barely steady at quotations, with refiners and operators showing a little less interest at the close of the market. Quotations follow: Centrifugal, 5.27c; molasses, 4.40c, cost and freight, 4¼c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 5,546 packages. Not enough strictly fine fresh creamery arriving to fully supply the demand and prices on such are well sustained. For all other grades—and these comprise the bulk of the offerings—the market is again lower and very dull. It is difficult to interest buyers in any considerable quantity of stock at any reasonable price. Quotations have been revised to cover this situation. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per pound, 40@40½c; extras, (92 score,) 39@39½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 34½@38c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 32½@34c; thirds, 31½@32; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 41@41½c; extras, 40@40½c; firsts, 35@39c; seconds, 33@34½c; creamery, held, higher than extras, 37@37½c; extras, 36¼@36¾c; firsts, 34@36c; seconds, 32½@33½c; thirds, 31@32c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 37½@38c; good to prime, 34½@37c; common to fair, 29@34c; renovated, extras, 34@34½c; firsts, 32½@33c; lower grades, 30@31½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 31@32c; ladies, current make, firsts, 30c; seconds, 28½@29c; lower grades, 27½@28c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 28½@29c; No. 2, 28c; lower grades, 26@27½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 4,865 cases. Total arrivals are moderate, but there is a pretty good proportion of fresh gathered stock in the receipts and surplus beyond current trade needs is still burdening the market. Some of this is held under shippers' limits or by local owners, who believe in the possibility of a recovery in prices, but the quantity free to be sold is rather urgently offered, and the market showed further decline, closing unsettled and irregular. Storage eggs are generally held with some confidence, and the moderate sales reported are within the ranges last quoted, although very little of the remaining supply passes above the grade of seconds or commands any higher price than quoted for that grade. Nearby eggs are in liberal supply; there is an accumulation in many stores, and pressure to sell is causing a further decline, the market closing quiet and without much stability. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 47@48c; extra firsts, 46c; firsts, 44@45c; seconds and lower grades, 40@43c; refrigerator firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 37@37½c; lower grades, 36@36½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 52@53c; ordinary to good, 48@51c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 47@52c; nearby pullets eggs, whites, 42@45c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 49@50c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 45@48c.

MORGANS GIVE PRICE OF NEW BRITISH LOAN

99.52 for $100,000,000 One-Year and 99.07 for $150,000,000 Two-Year Notes.

TO YIELD 6 PER CENT.

Names of Banks and Bankers Through Whom the Offering Will Be Made Also Announced.

Further details of the new British Government $250,000,000 secured loan were made public yesterday by J. P. Morgan & Co., who announced that $100,000,000 of the one-year notes would be offered at 99.52 and interest, and that $150,000,000 of the two-year notes would be offered at 99.07 and interest. Both series of notes bear interest at 5½ per cent., and at the offering price will yield to investors 6 per cent.

The notes are convertible at the option of the holder, at any time before maturity, into twenty-year 5½ per cent. bonds of the Government. The loan is secured by the pledge of securities valued at $300,000,000, which are divided into two groups: First, consisting of securities of American municipalities and corporations, and obligations of the Dominion of Canada, the Colony of Newfoundland, Canadian provinces and municipalities, and stocks and bonds of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company; and second, bonds of the Governments of Argentina, Chile, Cuba, Australia, Egypt, Japan, New Zealand, and Union of South Africa and securities of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, and bonds or Argentine and British railway companies.

Besides J. P. Morgan & Co. the offering of the British Government notes will be made under the names of the following banks and bankers:

First National Bank, National City Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Brown Brothers & Co., William A. Read & Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Lazard Frères, Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., White, Weld & Co., Guaranty Trust Company, Bankers Trust Company, Farmers Loan and Trust Company, Central Trust Company of Illinois, (Chicago,) Union Trust Company, (Pittsburgh,) Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, (Chicago,) First and Old Detroit National Bank, (Detroit,) and Marine National Bank, (Buffalo.)

On the Curb yesterday the one-year notes, "when issued," were quoted at 99⅝ bid and 99⅝ asked. The two-year notes were quoted at 98⅞ bid and 99¼ asked.

REORGANIZATION OPPOSED.

Bondholders of United Railways of San Francisco to Act.

The committee of which John Henry Hammond of Brown Brothers is Chairman has issued a circular for bondholders of the United Railroads of San Francisco opposing the reorganization plan.

It is set forth in the circular that the surplus net earnings over the total interest requirements for the underlying, as well as the 4 per cent., bonds would, under usual conditions, make a readjustment or reorganization unnecessary. Reorganization, it is stated, in this case, is caused by other than insufficient income. Sacrifice of capital by the 4 per cent. bondholders required by the present plan is declared to be unnecessary. Although, as shown by the statement, the earnings were sufficient to meet that obligation, the coupons on the 4 per cent. bonds due October 1 last were not paid.

EGGS DOWN 7 CENTS.

Retail Price Expected to Follow Wholesale Rates Today.

Fresh eggs have dropped seven or eight cents this week, the quotations of yesterday showed. There is always a drop in the price of fresh eggs in January, but this week's decrease is more than usual. Fresh eggs from nearby henneries were quoted at 60 cents on Monday; they were 53 cents yesterday. Fresh-gathered firsts were 53 cents on Monday; they were 45 cents yesterday. Cold-storage eggs sold for 40 cents on Monday; they were 38½ cents yesterday.

The retail prices yesterday varied, but did not show a drop in proportion to the decrease in the wholesale quotations. The retail price for eggs costing 45 cents wholesale was 52 cents yesterday in west side stores. It was predicted that the price would fall today. At the State Department of Foods and Markets it was said that the cause of the drop was importation of eggs into New York above the demand.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Transactions in the outside security market yesterday amounted to 728,169 shares of stocks and $430,000 of bonds. The sales of stocks were divided as follows: Industrials, 84,449; railroads, 12,550; oils, 222,575, and mining, 408,595. The range of prices of all issues in which transactions were recorded was:

OFFERS NEW PLAN FOR RAILROAD LABOR

Lee, Chief of Trainmen, Advocates Creation of a National Board of Control.

FIGHTS ADAMSON BILL

Firemen's Chief Thinks Press Was Influenced by $3,000,000 in Railroad Advertising.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—W. G. Lee, head of the Trainmen's Brotherhood, today presented a substitute plan for President Wilson's railway labor legislation to the House Commerce Committee.

A board of eight, equally divided between railway workers and operating officials, appointed by the President, would solve all the present difficulties over working conditions, he said; would command unqualified support of the four brotherhoods; and, despite the fact that it would be evenly divided, he predicted there would be no deadlocks.

Mr. Lee appeared primarily to oppose the Adamson bill to compel ninety days' notice of a strike or lockout.

"Let the President create, so as to take it out of politics," said Mr. Lee, "a board of eight members for handling this work—four practical railroad workers, such as conductors, brakemen, trainmen, or engineers, and four practical operating officers.

"There would be few deadlocks on such a board, despite the fact that it was evenly divided. Men who know their subject, as these men should, would seldom be without a majority. Under such a plan both sides would get justice and there would be no necessity for the Adamson bill now before you or any other legislation relating to hours or wages."

Chairman Adamson expressed opposition to Mr. Lee's plan.

"The public would be no better off under such a plan than it is at present," he said. "Now the employers and employes of the roads get together and make deals so that the public suffers and they would do the same thing if Mr. Lee's plan were adopted. My purpose still is to protect the public with this bill."

Action on the proposition was indefinitely postponed, which has the effect of ending the incident.

W. S. Carter, head of the firemen, who also appeared before the committee, maintained that the present agitation for the compulsory arbitration feature of the Adamson bill was due to sentiment stirred up by the "subsidized" press which, he maintained, had received about $3,000,000 in advertising contracts from the railroads since last October.

"Would you say," he was asked, "that the President has been influenced?"

"I suppose he is just as susceptible as any one," Mr. Carter responded. Then he added:

"We are going into a publicity campaign ourselves. We have no funds to make such a campaign as the railroads have made, but we intend having our members distribute printed matter setting forth the truth of situations that may arise."

Denouncing politics, divided on the lines of "servant and master" classes, Mr. Carter said that the passage of strike prevention legislation would drive workers into a party of their own.

Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor also addressed the committee briefly, opposing the bill.

Railroad officials said last night that the suggestion of W. G. Lee that a board of four railway workers and four railway managers should be created to settle railroad disputes was unsound and unfair because it did not provide for representation of the public.

"It is very clear that such a plan would believe the whole theory of Government supervision on behalf of the public," said an official of the National Conference Committee of the Railways. "If such a joint board were created, the public should have strong representation."

It was also pointed out by railroad men that the creation of such a body might provide a good Government berth for the heads of the four brotherhoods.

SEES GOOD IN SPECULATION.

Professor Crook Says Forecasting of Market Benefits Society.

The services of stock exchanges and commodity exchanges outweigh their evils, in the opinion of Professor James Walter Crook of Amherst College, who spoke last night at Wadleigh High School under the auspices of the Bureau of Lecturers of the Board of Education on "Wall Street and Speculation." Professor Crook will give his talk again tonight at Cooper Institute.

"The difference between legitimate and illegitimate speculation lies neither in the form nor the subject matter of the transaction," said Professor Crook, "but in the intent and purpose of the operator. Those who merely take chances on the fluctuation of prices are engaged in gambling, and their activities are not useful to society. On the other hand, those who anticipate the needs of the market and make use of their power to assume risks by making contracts to meet these needs are performing absolutely essential functions for society."

The speaker described as probably the three greatest evils of Wall Street:

"1. Speculating with other people's (borrowed) money.

"2. Manipulation by corners and markets.

"3. Participation by the public."

He thought the raising of margins to 50 per cent. or compelling the outright purchase of stocks would do much toward eliminating buying by the public.

FIGHT NEW LITERACY TEST.

Proposed Amendment to State Constitution Strongly Opposed.

The Naturalization Aid League, with offices at 175 East Broadway and branches in all boroughs of this city, whose purpose is to aid aliens to become American citizens, is fighting the concurrent resolution to amend the State Constitution to the effect that "After Jan. 1, 1920, no person shall be entitled to vote by attaining majority, by naturalization, or otherwise, unless such person is also able, except impeded by physical disability, to read and write English." This bill was introduced by Senator Elon R. Brown.

The league has called a conference at the Broadway Central for 4 o'clock this afternoon, to which the following organizations have been invited: The Committee for Immigrants in America, (non-sectarian,) the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, the League of Foreign-Born Citizens, the Young Men's Christian Association, and the National Workmen's Committee on Jewish Rights.

$12,000 FOR HAARLEM HOUSE

More Gifts Are Received Toward Fund for Doubling Its Work.

The Haarlem House campaign for enlargement of its work in Harlem's Little Italy was advanced last night by gifts amounting to more than $12,000, bringing the total to date to about $30,000. The campaign is undertaken for $60,000, which will double the resources of the house.

At the Haarlem House campaign headquarters last night, before an audience of 100 workers, Miss Bertha Muriel Gage, headworker at the settlement house, said that scores of young Italian girls, now working in humble shops, had gone without their lunches for three weeks in order to contribute 10 cents each a day to the campaign fund. Already the children who are served at Haarlem House have raised through their friends and employers more than $250.

The team of Mrs. James B. Mabon headed the list of contributions last night with $5,782. Miss Honora Spalding's team was second, with gifts amounting to $5,175.

REINDICT POULTRY MEN.

Swann Takes Cases Before Grand Jury After Dismissal by Nott.

Following the dismissal by Judge Nott in General Sessions yesterday of the indictments charging violations of the Donnelly Anti-Trust act against the five alleged Directors of the Harlem and Bronx Live Poultry Association, District Attorney Swann went before the January Grand Jury and had the men reindicted on the same charge.

Judge Nott dismissed the indictments on the motion of Samuel Koenig, attorney for the defendants, holding that there had been no evidence before the Grand Jury that the indicted men controlled the poultry market in New York. The defendants are Harry Baff, Louis Werner, Max Sokoloff, Charles S. Frank and Dr. Paul Abelson, the last named an official of the Kehillah. They will be arraigned for pleading on Monday.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

To the stockholders of THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of The Equitable Trust Company of New York is, by authority and direction of the Board of Trustees of the said Company, hereby called to be held at the principal office of the said Company, at No. 37 Wall Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on the 22nd day of January, 1917, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon. The object of the said meeting is

(a) To authorize an increase of the capital stock of the Company from $3,000,000, consisting of thirty thousand shares of the par value of $100 each, to $6,000,000, consisting of sixty thousand shares of the par value of $100 each being an increase of $3,000,000, consisting of thirty thousand shares of the par value of $100 each;

(b) To authorize the offering of such increased stock, to wit, $3,000,000, for subscription at the rate of $150 for each $100 par value thereof, pro rata in proportion to their several holdings, to the stockholders of the Company of record at the close of business on a day to be fixed by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Company, such subscriptions to be made on or before such date and under such regulations and provisions as shall be determined by said Executive Committee; notice of the time and manner of making such subscriptions to be given by the Secretary of the Company to each stockholder of record on the day so fixed by said Executive Committee, by mailing a copy of such notice to each stockholder at his last known post-office address, at least thirty (30) days before the termination of the period during which such subscriptions can be made; and to authorize the sale by or under the direction of the said Executive Committee of all shares of such increased stock not so taken and paid for to such persons, in such manner, at such times and at such prices as said Executive Committee shall determine; such prices, however, to be not less than the market value of the said shares as the said market value shall be determined by said Executive Committee (its judgment in this regard to be final) and not less than $150 per share;

(c) To take such other action as may properly come before the said meeting in relation to the proposed increase of said capital stock and the disposition thereof.

Dated, New York, January 5th, 1917.

PROPOSALS.

SEALED BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED AND opened by the Parish of St. James's Police Jury until February 20th, 1917, at eleven o'clock A. M., for the purchase of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000.00) of bonds of the Parish of St. James, issued for the purpose of constructing, improving, and maintaining the public roads and highways of said parish.

Said bonds will mature on the 15th day of January, 1918, and shall be due and payable on the 15th day of January of each year to and including the 15th day of January, 1937; said bonds of four hundred (400) in number, numbered from one to four hundred, both included, and are of the denomination of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), all dated January 15th, 1917, and bear interest at the rate of Five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on the 15th days of January and July of each year. Both principal and interest of said bonds are payable at the Hibernia National Bank in the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, or at the office of the Treasurer of the Parish of St. James, Convent, Louisiana, at the option of the Holder.

Each bid is to be accompanied by a certified check in favor of the Treasurer of the Parish of St. James, of two and one-half per cent. of the face value of said bonds.

All bids must be addressed to F. M. Bertaut, Secretary of the Police Jury of the Parish of St. James, Lauderdale, Louisiana, and superscribed, "Bids for bonds of the Parish of St. James issued for constructing, improving, and maintaining of public roads and highways."

The privilege is reserved to reject any and all bids.

BATTERY APPROVED BY EDISON'S EXPERT

Report to Daniels Calls Inventor's Storage Device Most Suitable Obtainable.

DISCUSSES E-2 EXPLOSION

Prolonged Reversal of Cells Given as Cause—No Danger of Repetition of Accident.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Edison storage battery, which was criticised after the explosion on the submarine E-2 at the New York Navy Yard a year ago, is declared by Lamar Lyndon, an eminent consulting engineer of New York, to be "the most suitable battery now obtainable for service on submarine vessels."

This is the expert opinion of Mr. Lyndon, given in an exhaustive report on the relative merits of the Edison battery and lead batteries submitted under date of Jan. 7, 1917, to Secretary Daniels, who will lay it before the House Naval Affairs Committee next week. On Oct. 7 last Thomas A. Edison retained Mr. Lyndon in a consulting and advisory capacity on the subject of storage batteries.

Mr. Edison directed Mr. Lyndon to get at the bottom of the whole matter, and said that although he, Mr. Edison, had sepnt several hundred thousand dollars trying to develop his new submarine battery, he would wipe the whole project off his slate and go out of the business of supplying submarine batteries, rather than be subjected to criticism, if Mr. Lyndon should report adversely.

The expert's report to Secretary Danials says the E-2 explosion was caused by "prolonged reversal of the Edison cells," adding, "but, in spite of this fact, there is no danger to be apprehended from the production of explosive gases in Edison cells under operating conditions, whether normal or unusual. The unusual circumstances which produced this explosion and the impossibility of another similar occurrence in practice is clearly indicated.

"Most Suitable" Obtainable.

The report states that the Edison battery advantages so far outweigh the disadvantages that it is to be considered "the most suitable storage battery now obtainable for service on submarine vessels. It notes particularly that the battery will not generate the deadly chlorine gas.

Mr. Lyndon's report contains a summary and conclusions in part as follows:

"From the considerations which appear in this report, it is clear that the Edison storage battery is suitable for service in submarine boats because:

"It is the lightest battery and occupies the least space for a given output over a long period of time, of any now obtainable Its electrolite is non-corrosive and is not injurious to the steel work of the hull or fittings. It cannot cause leaks by corrosion of rivets or joints, no matter how much electrolite might escape from the cells. In event of sea-water entering the boat through leaks caused by submarine mine explosions or otherwise, the personnel cannot be asphyxiated by the formation of chlorine gas.

"It is impossible to buckle or distort the plates. The capacity does not diminish with use until about half its life is passed, and the diminution is then very gradual. There is no dismantling the battery necessary for any purpose during its life. It has a longer life, under any given conditions, than any other available battery.

"The individual cells are comparatively light and may be easily handled, if necessary. A large excess emergency capacity may be stored by prolonged overcharge. An excess emergency capacity may be produced by increasing the density of the electrolite. The plates are not injured by standing discharged in the electrolite. No hydrometer readings are necessary.

Full Charge in an Hour.

"It can be charged at higher rates than any battery now obtainable. A full charge can be given it in one hour. A boat equipped with an Edison battery can be kept in service, and does not have to be laid up on account of batery conditions when it may be required for military purposes. In an emergency sea water can be used for replenishment of the electrolite. Oxygen is given off at low rates of discharge. This helps to maintain the atmosphere of the boat in condition for breathing in a long period of submergence. Carbon dioxide exhaled from the personnel is absorbed by the potash of the electrolite. In case of protracted enforced submergence the air can be circulated through some of the cells via the drain tubes and the carbon dioxide abstracted.

"It also has certain disadvantages, which are:

"It loses some of its charge if it stands idle. It has a somewhat lower electrical efficiency than lead cells. If one cycle immediately succeeds another at high rates, and this practice is continually followed, the life would be somewhat reduced.

"It requires a considerable quantity of cooling and ventilating air on charge. The rubber covering is detrimental to the operation of the cell, as it retains heat, thereby raising the temperature of the electrolite. There are more cells in each battery to be replenished with water than obtains with a lead battery equipment."

Edison batteries have been installed on some of the new submarines of the navy, and a naval board reported unfavorably on them after the explosion on the E-2.

Cause of E-2 Explosion.

Regarding the E-2 explosion Mr. Lyndon says in part:

"This being the first submarine installation of these batteries in the navy the ventilation, according to claims made by Mr. Edison, was defective, some cells reaching abnormally high temepratures on both charge and discharge. An effort was made to improve the ventilation and the E-2 having gone to the dry dock, it was requested that all the cells of the Edison battery be discharged to zero in order that those which were of lower capacity than the others by reason of the improper distribution of cooling air might be located. While this discharge was being made Jan. 15, 1916, an explosion occurred.

"The crux of the situation is this: The guaranteed capacity of any Edison battery is delivered without any gassing or reversal, and this capacity is considerably exceeded before any reversal occurs. If a purchaser desires to obtain something in excess of that which has been sold to him, and for which he contracted, he can get it out of the Edison storage battery, but after passing this limit he must be willing to accept the changed conditions which arise when the guaranteed limit has been exceeded, and which, in any case, cannot become a menace in practical operation of a submarine boat.

"In other words, to stigmatize the Edison storage battery as dangerous, simply because it is able to give an emergency discharge, and because the plates are not injured by taking energy from them after the rated capacity has been discharged, is without proper basis. It means that the battery is actually penalized for one of its best qualities. If the Edison battery were subject to injury from overdischarge, and you had warned the authorities in the navy yard that your battery would be ruined if discharge were prolonged until the voltage fell below 150 volts, for the entire battery, just as the manufacturers of other types do, no reversal would have occurred, and the Edison battery would not now rest under any suspicion of being a dangerous contrivance.

"It is inconceivable that in the present knowledge of the Edison battery the available means of detecting low or reversed cells and the reliable devices for indicating the hydrogen content in a submarine boat, that any danger from explosive mixtures of evolved gases could, under any circumstances, ever occur."

CANCELS GRAIN PENALTIES.

Commerce Board Nullifies Railroad Plan to Lessen Congestion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today disapproved proposals by the trunk line railroad companies to double and quadruple storage charges on export grain at elevators at New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston, Newport News and other Atlantic ports, where such grain is held longer than sixty days.

New charges for the storage of export grain in cars awaiting unloading at Baltimore and Philadelphia also were disapproved.

The proposals, made by the railroads, were designed to relieve congestion at Atlantic ports and to insure, through enforcement of penalties, a freer flow of grain through the elevators. Another intention of the railroads was to prevent the premature shipment of grain to the seaboard without export contracts or prior to making arrangements for its ocean transportation. The scarcity of ships is said to have resulted in choking the elevators with grain which could not be moved without long delay.

In its decision, the commission holds that the objects sought by the railroads should be attained by other methods than the one proposed, which would place heavy penalties upon the traffic.

"We are of the opinion," reads the decision, "that the carriers should study the situation in all its aspects, and that they can and should devise methods to correct the misuse of their equipment and facilities which would have the full sanction of the commission.

"It has not been shown that the proposed charges will accomplish the end they seek, nor will they be free from unjust discrimination. While abnormal conditions require drastic remedies, the cure must be one which is lawfully permissible."

The proposed increases in storage charges varied slightly at different ports. At Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston they provided for an increase of 100 per cent., or from one-eighth to one-quarter of a cent a bushel for each five-day period after sixty days, and for an increase of 300 per cent. to one-half cent per bushel for each five-day period after 120 days. The elevators affected have a capacity of approximately 16,000,000 bushels.

FIND THE SENATE LEAK.

Newlands Admits He Posted Daniels on Cummings's Speech.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The threatened Senate leak investigation collapsed suddenly this afternoon when Senator Newlands arose and admitted that it was he who furnished to Winthrop Moore Daniels, recently confirmed as Interstate Commerce Commissioner, a copy of the speech against his confirmation made in executive session by Senator Cummins. The discussion of the resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Norris, asking for an investigation, developed into a skirmish on the floor over the merits of the rule of secrecy in executive sessions, for which the resolution had obviously been designed as a stalking horse. The move to discredit secret sessions was led by the same group of progressives who inspired the fight against Mr. Daniels, among them Senator Norris, the author of the resolution.

Senator Norris started to discuss his resolution, but Senator Gallinger, the Republican floor leader, closely followed by Senator Lodge, demanded that the whole question be considered behind closed doors. Senator Norris demanded the yeas and nays. The antisecrecy group was able to muster only thirteen votes against the secret session, those of Senators Borah, Cummins, Curtis, Jones, Kenyon, La Follette, Lane, Martine, Norris, Poindexter, Sherman, Sterling and Watson. All of these except Lane and Martine are Republicans. At the close of the executive session, however, they were able to obtain permission to have the proceedings made public.

The Norris resolution was first laid on the table at the suggestion of Senator Hughes, since Senator Newlands's confession made an investigation superfluous. It was called up again, however, by a motion from Senator Norris that it be referred to the Rules Committee, together with Senator Newlands's admission, and that the committee should have power to devise "proper and adequate punishment" for the indiscretion of the Senator from Nevada, with the alternative of providing an amendment to the rules by which proceedings in executive sessions are now held secret, so that they should be kept secret only by special vote of the Senate. For this reason its supporters were able to obtain only seven votes, those of Senators Brady, Kenyon, La Follette, Lane, Martine, Norris, and Poindexter, with several of those who had before voted with them absent. The resolution was then postponed indefinitely on motion of Senator Gallinger.

COMPLETES PAPER REPORT.

Trade Board Prepares to Submit Findings to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A final report to Congress on the news print paper investigation virtually was completed today by the Federal Trade Commission, and will be prepared tomorrow for submission.

The commission already has turned over to the Department of Justice for use in possible prosecutions much of the information gathered.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 19.—The Maine Press Association today appointed a committee to investigate the feasibility of forming a co-operative agency for the buying of news print paper. The committee consists of rank B. Nichols of Bath, C. H. Fogg of Houlton, and J. H. Ogier of Camden.

MUST HAVE CHEAPER PAPER.

Missouri Senate Asks State Departments to Obtain Fair Prices.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 19.—Resolutions were adopted today by the Missouri Senate stating that State Departments in Missouri "should not enter into a contract with any Missouri jobbing house for paper supplies until reasonable proof has been furnished to the effect that such jobbing houses are selling their material at fair prices and without any understanding as to charges to publishers of the State."

The belief among newspaper publishers "that an unlawful combination" exists between jobbers in Missouri "to extort an unreasonable and unwarranted price for all classes of paper was given as the reason for the resolution."

NEWSPAPERS' PRICES UP.

Philadelphia Publications Will Sell for 2 Cents Beginning Jan. 29.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Philadelphia newspapers now selling at one cent will increase their price to two cents beginning Jan. 29.

The high cost of newsprint paper and other materials entering into the making of a newspaper is given as the cause for the increase.

Widow and 5 Children Need Help.

The Widowed Mothers' Fund Association, 192 Bowery, appeals for aid for a widow with five children, the eldest 8 years old. The baby was born last August. Her husband died in October, and little was left for his family. As there is no other source of income, the association will give the aid that is necessary, and any one wishing to contribute toward a fund for this purpose may send donations to Mrs. Henry Zuckerman, 52 Broadway, or to the association. Acknowledgment is made of the following gifts: "From a widow," $1; S. G., $1; A. L. M., $3; L. & Z., $1; E. M. L., $10; I. K., $2; A. B. C., $10; W. W., two petticoats.

Stocks of Sumatra Tobacco Low.

Cigar manufacturers who use Sumatra tobacco for wrappers apparently will be hard put to find enough of it before very long. Reports from authoritative sources say that present stocks of this tobacco in the hands of local importers total less than 3,000 bales, and that no new tobacco will reach the United States before June. With the normal annual consumption of Sumatra stock in this country placed at 30,000 bales, this means that the cigar trade faces the prospect of stretching a little more than one month's supply over the next five months or so, as stocks in the possession of the manufacturers are said also to be small. The present scarcity here is attributed largely to shiping difficulties. The fact that the next public sale in Amsterdam probably will not take place until May will not help things any. Prices have gone up as a result.

***

Jewelry Failures Fewer.

According to the annual report of Secretary Laurence Gardner, the National Jewelers' Board of Trade recorded 478 business embarrassments in the jewelry trade during the last year, compared with 808 in 1915. This is taken as definite corroboration of the reports that came from the trade during the last year concerning the improved condition of business. Of the 478 failures recorded, 414 were supplied by retail jewelers, the others being apportioned as follows: Manufacturers, 28; wholesalers, 22; wholesalers and manufacturers, 3; repairers, 3; 5 and 10 cent stores, 2; refiners of jewelry, wholesale mail order houses, wholesale notion houses, manufacturers of novelties, and department stores, 1 each. The membership of the board on Jan. 1 totaled 870.

Gray Goods Inquiry Improves.

While the actual business put through in the local gray goods market yesterday did not show a great deal of improvement over that of the earlier days of the week, a change for the better in the number of inquiries was in evidence. Several staple constructions of printcloths were sought, principally for spot and nearby deliveries, but the prices bid were on a parity with offerings from second hands and the mills did not care to take the business. Most of them are very well covered for the first quarter of this year, at least, and can afford to be independent. Some business was put through on coarse-yarn goods, including heavy sheetings. Sales of 36-inch 3-yard sheetings were reported from first hands at 11¼ cents for nearby delivery. Printcloth quotations on first hand goods were nominally as follows at the close:

39-inch,	80-80s...	10¼c	38½-inch,	64-60s..	7½c

Linoleum Lines Well Sold Up.

As a result of the buying that anticipated the general rise of prices, about 10 per cent. on Monday last, Spring lines of all kinds of linoleums are well sold up. While the call for printed and inlaid coverings has been active, the most active demand has been for heavy plain goods of the battleship variety. As a consequence, these linoleums are sold up into August in some quarters of the market. Stocks, both of raw materials and finished linoleums in the hands of the manufacturers, are said to be smaller than for some time, the difficulty in obtaining sufficient supplies of wide burlaps being especially marked. Supplies of cork are also subnormal as a result of the scarcity of freight space, and while linseed oil can be had, the prices have been sharply advanced. It looks now as if the usual filling-in trips of the salesmen will be largely of a "Howdy do?" nature.

***

High Cost for High Colors.

High colored dress goods, so the suit manufacturers have found, cost them quite a good bit more these days than if they were to buy goods in darker shades. This is rather a change from the time when premiums were asked for such colors as navies and blacks. It turns out now that the only stock goods on hand are those in dark colors, and there is a shortage of goods in the gray that can be dyed in the brilliant shades of the season. Thus, in the case of a gabardine coating, $1.50 or $1.60 will buy it in navy or black, whereas the cost of the same goods in the popular high colors, such as gold or rose, is $1.80 and $1.90.

***

Spring Carpet and Rug Sales Big.

Instead of hampering business, the advances that have been made on leading lines of carpets and rugs in this market have apparently stimulated buying to such an extent that the Spring business now on the books of the manufacturers is of record proportions. Not only have the jobbers and retailers bought well, but concerns that make a specialty of hotel and other contract work say this business has been excellent. All grades of merchandise have sold well to the general trade so far this season, and with the scarcity and increased cost of raw materials presaging still higher prices on the finished goods, more good buying is looked for in the next sixty days. Some buyers are in the city now, but for the most part both buyers and sellers are marking time for the present.

***

Dress Goods Deliveries Slow.

The garment trade is complaining of slow deliveries on the part of dress goods mills. Selling agents for the latter say they are doing all in their power to keep shipments up to date, but explain that many difficulties are met with in keeping up the proper production. Labor, for one thing, is a source of constant worry to the mill owners, the shortage of help being especially marked where women are concerned. The latter are now leaving their positions, owing to the better wages paid the male members of the family. Furthermore, yarn deliveries are behind hand, not only in a general way, but also on special yarns necessary to the manufacture of certain fabrics.

***

Tendency Toward Darker Shades.

A change in the color style is expected to set in toward the close of the Spring manufacturing season. It is rumored in the dress goods, as well as the women's wear trade, that navies, Copenhagens, blacks, and grays will return to favor when the fad for brilliant colors reaches its height. Materials imported from France have a well defined leaning toward the darker colors, and the more representative garment houses are expected to fall in line. If they do, it will be only a short time before the rest of the trade follows.

***

Will Also Manufacture Coats.

As a measure of precaution it is understood that several women's suit manufacturers will take up the making of coats for the next Fall. Quite a few houses in the trade were badly set back by the absence of a fair suit demand last Fall and suffered losses from having all their eggs in one basket. From rumors now current in the trade, the next Fall season will again see dresses and coats at the zenith of popularity, and for the same reason that made them sell big last season, namely, lower prices as compared with suits.

***

Shoe Salesmen Held Back.

Unsettled conditions in the hide and leather markets are advanced as reasons why salesmen for jobbers and manufacturers of shoes who sell direct to the retail trade are being held back from road trips with Fall samples. In spite of the lower prices that have developed on certain hides, and the lack of active leather buying on the part of manufacturers, sole and upper stock is steady now and has the shoe producers guessing just which way it will go, if it changes at all. Because of this no one appears willing to rush the season. A nice business has been booked for Spring on all kinds of footwear, deliveries of which are now being made. Current business is confined largely to skating shoes and other specialties.

DRY GOODS SALES LARGE.

Merchants Visit the Chicago Market in Great Numbers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale shipments of dry goods show substantial gains over the corresponding period of a year ago. The total volume of road sales is running well ahead of the same week 1916. Merchants have visited the market in larger numbers Collections are in excess of the same week last year."

BUSINESS NOTES.

Aimaro Sato, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, has accepted the invitation of the Silk Association of America to attend its forty-fifth annual dinner, which will be held at the Hotel Astor on Feb. 3. The committee in charge of the dinner is made up of M. W. Dippel, Chairman; Charles E. Lotte, George A. Post, Jerome C. Read, and H. Schniewind, Jr.

The New Toy Company, Incorporated, manufacturers of dolls and toys, have taken over the business of the New Toy Manufacturing Company, Newark, N. J. The local office and showroom of the company is located in the Fifth Avenue Building, with Meyer Yondorf in charge.

The following are the delegates from the Silk Association of America to the fifth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States which will be held at Washington on Jan. 31, and Feb. 1 and 2: Ramsay Peugnet, Horace B. Cheney, Raymond Skinner Clark, W. C. W. Aufermann, Edward E. Bradley, George A. Post, and Albert Tilt.

D. E. Douty, general manager of the United States Conditioning and Testing Co., will start in the early Spring on a trip to Japan and China for the purpose of investigating silk production methods and studying the physical properties of silk and its classifications.

Edward A. Dow, United States Consul at St. Stephens, New Brunswick, will be at the New York office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Custom House on Monday and Tuesday and will be glad to meet and confer with business men interested in export trade in his district.

INTERBORO EARNINGS GROW

Shonts Issues Statement for Consolidated Corporation.

Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough Consolidated Corporation, issued yesterday a statement of the income account of the company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1916, which showed a surplus of $1,875,877 after the deduction of interest charges amounting to $3,795,138, the payment of $2,744,430 in dividends upon the preferred stock and an appropriation of $350,000 for the retirement of Interborough-Metropolitan ten-year 6 per cent. collateral gold notes.

The surplus balance carried over from Dec. 31, 1915, amounted to $1,834,089. The dividends earned on holdings of stock of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company stock amounted to $6,782,560, and the interest and dividends received from other investments amounted to $122,876.

President Shonts says that the gross revenue of the subway and elevated lines for the six months period ended Dec. 31, 1916, notwithstanding the strike, increased approximately $2,193,000. The earnings on the surface lines, he says, are gradually assuming normal proportions.

CONTESTS JOHN FOX'S WILL.

Granddaughter of ex-Senator Wants Last Testament Set Aside.

The trial of a suit to set aside the will of John Fox, at one time State Senator and head of the National Democratic Club, began yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss and a jury. Edmund L. Mooney, counsel for the plaintiff, Miss Eleanor Fox, who is a granddaughter of the deceased, told the jury that it was not until after Mr. Fox had suffered a stroke of paralysis that he made a will providing that Mrs. Catherine H. O'Brien, his housekeeper and niece by marriage, should be executrix and have one-third of the income, while his son, John Fox, Jr., and granddaughter got the remainder. The will provides further that if Miss Fox marries and has children half the principal is to go to her issue and half to Mrs. O'Brien's issue, and if she has no children the O'Brien heirs receive the entire estate on the granddaughter's death. Before he suffered the stroke Mr. Fox made two wills giving his granddaughter the entire estate, Mr. Mooney said.

The value of the estate is estimated at $500,000.

APPRAISE $2,260,975 ESTATE

Mrs. Mary Van Nest Jackson Had $2,169,864 in Stocks and Bonds.

Mrs. Mary Van Nest Jackson, who died Feb. 19 last at her home, 763 Fifth Avenue, left an estate appraised yesterday at $2,260,975, of which $2,169,864 was in stocks and bonds. Mrs. Jackson, who was a daughter of Abraham R. Van Nest and the widow of Charles Carroll Jackson, bequeathed $80,000 to St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children, $25,000 each to St. Luke's Hospital and Trinity Chapel Home, and $10,000 each to the House of Mercy and Trinity College.

The chief legatees were the decedent's sisters, Jeanie, wife of Giraud Foster, and Anna, wife of Richard Gambrill, who got $861,705. Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, an adopted daughter, got $200,000 in trust. Her most valuable articles of jewelry were a diamond dog collar worth $2,250, and a gold and diamond hair ornament worth $1,850. Her largest stock holdings were 1,673 shares of Lackawanna, worth $373,079, and 1,790 shares of St. Paul preferred, valued at $230,015.

Mrs. Baker, who received $200,000, was the daughter of Charles Carroll Jackson by a former marriage, and lived with Mrs. Jackson until she became the wife of William Osborne Baker.

CIGARETTES TO GO UP.

Advance in Price Laid to the High Cost of Paper.

Cigarettes—at least the medium-priced brands—are to be from one to three cents higher, beginning on Monday, at one big retail cigar company's stores, and it is only a question of time when the other concerns that have been selling at cut rates must follow suit. The increased cost of paper, it was said yesterday by a representative of one of the biggest cigarette manufacturers, was chiefly responsible for the increase.

Several manufacturers announced a rise in prices recently, ranging from 25 cents to $1 a thousand, and notices were posted in the stores that cigarettes would cost the buyer from one to three cents more a package. In the new scale cigarettes which used to sell at 13 cents will cost 15 cents. Probably there will be no advance in the more expensive brands, but fewer coupons will be issued with the sales.

Paper is a big item in the cigarette business, it was said yesterday. The pasteboard used in the boxes is what counts chiefly.

SEIZE WIRELESS IN JAPAN.

Police at Kobe Arrest Two Employes of American Company.

KOBE, Japan, Jan. 19.—Two foreigners named Scofield and Dresser have been arrested here. The men, who are supposed to be Englishmen, were employed by an American Company in installing wireless plants in houses and exchanging communications. The apparatus used was confiscated.

It is understood that as a measure of precaution steamship companies have decided to discontinue the publishing of dates of arrivals and departures of steamers.

RAILROADS ANSWER JERSEY RATE CLAIM

Rivers or Harbors Should Not Be Factors in Freight Zone, Witnesses Assert.

TELLS OF MILEAGE BASIS

Lackawanna Official Admits Jersey City Already Is Getting a Preferential.

The railways yesterday introduced testimony to show the effect of rivers or harbors, competition, commercial demands, and other special conditions on freight rates, at the hearings being held by Examiner Wilbur La Roe, Jr., of the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the Chamber of Commerce on the petition of New Jersey interests for preferential rates over New York.

It was the purpose of the roads to show that there was no difference, so far as rates are concerned, in crossing a river or harbor with cars on car-floats or bringing them by rail. It was contended that all parties within a given rate zone derived equal benefits from it. It also was contended that New Jersey shore points received equal advantages for freight originating on the other side of the Hudson, with New York's advantage when the freight originated on this side.

Questions asked in cross-examination developed the possibility that it might be suggested that a preferential go to New Jersey by raising the rate to New York instead of by cutting the existing rate to Jersey points.

E. P. Bates, assistant freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was the first witness. G. Stuart Patterson, general solicitor of the road, conducted the examination. This witness testified as to existing conditions in Philadelphia and Camden, Pittsburgh and Allegheny, Wheeling and Bellaire, and Norfolk and Portsmouth, where rivers or harbors intervene. He said rates for both short and long hauls to these points were unaffected by the water situation.

A. L. Learoyd, general freight agent of the Lackawanna Railroad, said that the Lackawanna had adopted a mileage basis for computing its rates except in instances where it was forced to depart from it to meet the competition of the New York Central or other lines. Preferential rates already were being given to Jersey City by his road as well as by the Erie and the Central Railroad of New Jersey on short hauls, he said. The railways will resume their case at 10 o'clock this morning.

DISAGREE OVER HOSPITAL.

Some Witnesses Say Philanthropin Is Dirty, Others That It's Clean.

The investigation into conditions alleged to exist in the Philanthropin Hospital Fifth Avenue and 128th Street, was continued yesterday by the State Board of Charities, in the Charity Organization Building, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street. The investigation is being made to determine whether the hospital's charter should be revoked, and was begun by request of eight doctors attached to the institution. Dr. Steven Smith, Chairman of the State Board's Committee on Hospitals, presided at the hearing.

Mrs. Margaret Helman, who spent three weeks in September, 1915, at the institution, testified that the night she arrived at the hospital, she had been forced to vacate her bed for a Morris chair because of the vermin. Frequently she had been compelled to send back food brought to her because the tray was dirty.

Baths, the witness said, were part of her treatment, but she never had any, since the hospital did not have any hot water, and, besides, the bathroom "wasn't fit for any one to take a bath in."

Mrs. Mary Richter, who went to the hospital in the early part of last June, gave testimony on the same line.

"That place shouldn't be called a hospital," she concluded with emphasis, "for it simply isn't."

Dr. Reuben Cronson, in charge of the institution, jumped to his feet with a protest when one of the doctors who asked for the investigation, requested that Dr. J. Richard Kevin, who was cross-examining Dr. Lazarus W. Zweisohn, chief surgeon at the Philanthropin, inquire about an alleged attempt at an irregular operation. Dr. Cronson declared it was a "foul attempt to besmirch Dr. Zweisohn's reputation," and became so excited that Dr. Kevin said he would have to eject Cronson if he did not subside.

A number of physicians and nurses gave the institution a clean bill of health. These were Mary A. Skelly, a nurse, of 136 West 102d Street, and Dr. F. M. Bauer of 318 East Eighty-sixth Street, who said he had visited the place last October and found everything all right. Mrs. Emma Blauberg of 120 West 123d Street, a patient for twelve days, found no fault with her treatment.

The hearing will be resumed next Wednesday.

DEFENDS HEALTH INSURANCE

Miles M. Dawson Says Gompers's Fears Are Unfounded.

Miles M. Dawson, who spoke yesterday at a meeting of the International Child Welfare Association at the Park Avenue Hotel, said that he regarded as ill-founded the fears of Samuel Gompers and other labor leaders that compulsory workingmen's health insurance legislation, like the Mills bill now at Albany, would weaken unionism or give employers increased power over labor.

Where health insurance was provided by individual employers, Mr. Dawson said that an employe might in some cases fear to strike because he would thereby lose the sickness insurance. On the other hand, he continued, if health insurance were made compulsory and universal by State law, no man would hesitate to quit one job on such grounds, because he would be equally protected in his next employment. While praising Mr. Gompers, the speaker pointed out that he had at first opposed workingmen's compensation laws on similar grounds, but had been won over to them by their success in operation. Mr. Dawson said the fact that, under the proposed law, workingmen would be compelled to contribute a portion of the premium for the insurance policy could not justly be regarded as "slavery."

Mme. Alexander Kollontay, a Russian writer and author of a work in Russian on maternity insurance, was applauded when she urged that the proposed maternity legislation should be based on the French law of 1915, which provided a cash allowance and medical attention for all workingwomen who became mothers, and required no payment of premiums on their part. The proposed law for this State provides for medical attention and two-thirds wages for workingwomen who become mothers, but requires nominal insurance fees from them. Miss Helen Todd, who presided at he meeting, said that a committee would be appointed to consider urging an amendment to the Mills bill along the lines suggested by Mme. Kollontay.

105 ALIENS MADE CITIZENS.

Flags Deck Hackensack Courtroom—Oriental Wears Green Skull Cap.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 19.—One hundred and five aliens, representing seven nations of Europe, renounced their allegiance to their former Governments and were made American citizens by Judge William M. Seufert in a flag-bedecked courtroom in the Bergen County Court House today.

The Court House was crowded with applicants and their witnesses all day. More than fifty candidates for citizenship were advised by the court to study more before taking the oath. A little excitement was created when Dr. D[illegible]shah T. Ghadiali of Hillsdale, N. J., General Manager of the engineering department of the Union Smelting and Refining Company of New York, appeared in the court room wearing a turban hat, which he refused to remove when ordered by the court, and was ousted. He appealed to counsel and said it was the custom in his native land, India, to be sworn that way. "I am a descendant of the Parsee fire worshippers. I was graduated from Chicago University in 1899 with a degree of M. D."

After a consultation between Judge and counsel he was allowed to appear wearing a green skull cap, but his application was laid over till March to get new witnesses.

AMUNDSEN MAKES PLANS.

Explorer Denies Postponement of North Pole Journey.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the south pole, is here conferring with the magnetic department of the Carnegie Institution of Washington regarding instruments to be used on his expedition to the north polar region. The conferences may result in the institution receiving original copies of Amundsen's observations.

Captain Amundsen said today that arrangements for the expedition which he plans to lead across the arctic basin were nearing completion, and that he probably would start in 1918, the interval being spent in testing supplies and fitting out his ship, which is to be launched in Norway in March.

The explorer today emphatically denied reports reaching this country from Copenhagen that he had postponed his trip until after the war because of the present high cost of supplies.

SMALLPOX ON A LINER.

One of Kristianiafjord's Crew Died on Voyage to Norway.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Norwegian-America liner Kristianiafjord, which left New York on Jan. 6 for Bergen, Norway, has arrived at Christiania, according to the Tidens Tegn of that city, and reported that one member of the vessel's crew died of smallpox during the voyage. Five passengers have been detained by the Norwegian authorities.

According to the newspaper, it was reported that the smallpox was taken aboard the Kristianiafjord when the steamship made her last trip to the United States.

On arriving at New York from Bergen on Christmas Day, the 430 steerage passengers on board the Kristianiafjord were removed to Hoffman's Island because a passenger from Finland had contracted smallpox on the voyage. The first and second class passengers were permitted to debark.

STATE HAS 43,346 INSANE.

Hospital Board Wants $10,000,000 for New Wards.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—One out of every 261 persons in the State is insane and under treatment in an institution, according to the report of the State Hospital Commission for the period from Oct. 1, 1915, to June 30, 1916. The total number of insane patients under treatment in institutions in the State during the period was 43,346.

The commission emphasizes the fact that the State hospitals are overcrowded. Approximately 6,000 patients are now being cared for in excess of the normal capacity of the institutions—an average overcrowding of 22 per cent. In its request for appropriations the commission emphasizes the need for additional accommodations to provide for the overcrowding and recommends that sufficient funds be provided for such purposes by means of a bond issue of $10,000,000.

Discussing the causes of insanity, the commission points out that the number of admissions to the hospitals directly due to the excessive use of alcohol is falling off slightly. The report shows that the number of first admissions in which alcohol was reported as a causative factor decreased from 900 in 1910 to 624 in 1915. The number of cases diagnosed as alcoholic insanity also decreased nearly 30 per cent. in this period. The commission concludes, therefore, that one of the promising measures in the prevention of mental disorders is preventing excessive indulgence in liquor by the public generally and prohibiting entirely the use of alcohol by persons with mental or physical deterioration.

Company Yields in Gas Rate Fight.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 19.—The Public Service Gas Company gave up today its fight for restoration of the rate of $1 per thousand cubic feet for gas. In 1913 the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners fixed the price at 90 cents and the case was carried by the company to the Supreme Court of the United States

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The South Manhattan Realty Company represented by William A. White & Sons, has resold through Charles B. Van Valen the six-story office building, 103 and 105 William Street, to an investor.

The structure, which occupies a plot 42.11 by 77 feet, adjoining the southwest corner of John Street, was purchased last November through the same brokers for $300,000.

A revival of activity in this particular section is indicated by several recent transactions, the most important of which was the sale of 110 to 116 William Street and 69 to 77 John Street, where the new subway is to have an entrance.

Another Deal on East Seventy-fifth Street.

An important east side deal that will aid greatly in reclaiming a block for residential purposes was closed yesterday by Pease & Elliman, who sold for Lucy A. Banfield, the five-story modern garage at 112 and 114 East Seventy-fifth Street, and the adjoining stable, 116 and 118, for Elwood Banfield. Each structure occupies a plot 50 by 102 feet, being directly at the rear of a site at the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Seventy-fifth Street, assembled for Samuel Borchardt by Pease & Elliman, and which is now being improved with a thirteen-story apartment house.

The property just sold also abuts the new apartment house erected by Charles Mayer on Seventy-fourth Street and which was completely rented from the plans by Pease & Elliman.

Last week there was announced through the same brokers the sale of the garage at 124 East Seventy-fifth Street on this block for the estate of William R. Grace to Seth M. Milliken, owner of the adjoining parcel at 120 and 122. His holdings at that point now front 85.7 feet.

The new owner of the Banfield property has no plans at present for its improvement.

Thomas A. Edison, Inc., Buys Jersey Acreage.

Thomas A. Edison, Inc., purchased a tract of land in the Township of Kearny, N. J., fronting on the Hackensack River, comprising about ten acres. The property immediately adjoins that recently acquired by the White Tar Company of New Jersey, and in the immediate vicinity of the large by-product coke ovens now being erected by the H. Koppers Company of Pittsburgh.

The site is in the heart of the recent industrial activity on the Meadows, having a frontage on the Hackensack River of about 200 feet and running back to and fronting on the Belleville Turnpike. Running through the property are the tracks of the Erie Railroad.

Joseph P. Day, the broker in the transaction, stated that Mr. Edison acquired the property for the future expansion of his many different lines of business.

Investor Buys St. Nicholas Ave. Flat.

An investor purchased from Regina Dinkelspiel 165 St. Nicholas Avenue, a four-story flat, on a plot 31.8 by 100 by irregular, located 63.11 feet north of 118th Street.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

Dr. Luigi Capablanco purchased from the Meister Builders 335 Pleasant Avenue, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 18.6 by 75 feet, located near 118th Street.

Frank J. Callahan purchased from the Hugh Danahar estate 240 West Twenty-fifth Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 15 by 73.9. Finneran & Ryan were the brokers.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, sold to a client of J. Irving Walsh 146 West Seventy-sixth Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 102.

Bronx Sales.

Harry W. Davis purchased from the Fogel estate a plot 50 by 100 feet, on the east side of Decatur Avenue, 245.5 feet north of 194th Street.

Everett L. Bernard sold to the Nason Realty Company the six-story apartment house at 80 to 88 Fordham Road, southeast corner of University Avenue, valued at $100,000, and located one block from the new Fordham Road subway station. The structure contains four stores, and occupies a plot 111 by 77 by 89 by irregular. Jacob Leitner was the broker in the transaction.

Frederick Brown, operator, sold to an investing client of Samuel Cowen 1,075 Simpson Street, a five-story new law tenement, on a plot 37.6 by 100.

Brooklyn.

The McInerny-Klinch Realty Company sold for a client to Rose Rothman for investment the three-story brick business and apartment building located on the west side of Flatbush Avenue, 183 feet and 10 inches south of Cortelyou Road, on a plot with a frontage of 21 feet on Flatbush Avenue and a depth of 96 feet.

The Bulkley & Horton Company sold 316 Greene Avenue, a three-story and basement brick private dwelling, between Classon and Franklin Avenues, for Mrs. Mary B. McGinness to a client.

Frank A. Seaver & Co. sold a plot, 40 by 100, on the north side of Sixty-seventh Street, 200 feet east of Eleventh Avenue, for T. P. Brennan to an investor.

Long Island.

Shields Brothers, Inc., have sold to F. A. Morin a plot of one-quarter acre at Plandome, on Manhasset Bay, as a site for a dwelling.

New Jersey.

John C. Conover reports unusual activity at Deal and Allenhurst, where he has sold for the estate of J. G. Payne of Washington, D. C., to A. E. Fitken of Manhattan, the southwest corner of Corlies Avenue and Ocean Place, Allenhurst, for $20,000. The same broker also sold to G. B. Woodward, Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, a large plot of ground at Deal Park, Deal, as a site for a $30,000 Summer home.

Frederick Collins sold to Charles Edgar for Wendall & Treat a seventeen-room dwelling in Essex Fells, on four and one-half acres, with garage. Mr. Edgar also purchased three and one-half acres adjoining. The same broker sold for the Kokosing Land Company to Dixon E. Van Ness the seven-room bungalow 73 Arlington Avenue, Caldwell.

Westchester County.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold a plot on Depew Street, in the Nelson Estates section of Peekskill, N. Y., to Eli Conklin.

Lease Site in Dyckman Section for Baseball Park.

As a site for a baseball park C. J. Savage, manager of the Kingsbridge Athletics, has leased from James N. Butterly a plot of forty-two lots in the Dyckman section. The property has a frontage of about 400 feet on Academy Street, 350 feet on Nagle Avenue, and about 485 feet on Tenth Avenue, and is directly opposite the block front on Tenth Avenue, between 201st and 202d Streets, leased for a long term to the American Smelting and Refining Company, on which they are about to erect an electrical experimenting plant. Wertheim & Clear negotiated the lease.

Recent Buyers.

The U. T. Hungerford Brass and Copper Company is the purchaser of 90 and 92 White Street, the plot of 4,300 square feet recently sold by the Charles F. Noyes Company in conjunction with Joseph P. Day and William C. Walker's Sons. The buyers will improve with a three or four story heavy storage building and occupy for their own purposes. The property was purchased on an all-cash basis, and will be held free of mortgage.

The Eighty-fifth Street Garage Company, composed of J. Dietz, H Hoffman, and W. Rosenblat, is the buyer of 230 and 232 East Eighty-fifth Street.

William E. Mason is the buyer of 1,846 Washington Avenue, a three-story dwelling on a lot 27 by 109.

Commercial Leases.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for a long term of years ground floor space in the Woodbridge Building, 100 William Street, to the General Accident Fire and Life Assurance Corporation, Ltd., at an aggregate rental of $25,000; the ground floor at 231 Fulton Street for John Glaskner to J. Hungerford Smith Company, now located in the Cuyler Building on Thirty-second Street, and ground floor space in 46 West Twenty-fourth Street, the Masonic Building, to Louis Hoffman.

The Cross & Brown Company leased the entire building 448 Broome Street to L. Federman & Son for a term of years.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Mrs. Walter Oakley to Ely J. Rieser, manufacturer of office fixtures, the five-story building at 311 West Fifty-ninth Street, a few feet west of Columbus Circle.

Frederick Southack and Alwyn Ball, Jr., have leased the store at 65 East Ninth Street for J. Allen Townsend to William Pollack.

Harris & Vaughan, Inc., have leased the store and second floor of the Anderson Galleries, 17 East Fortieth Street, to the Choralcelo Company, manufacturers of musical instruments.

Pease & Elliman have leased to the Schulte Cigar Company the store in the Colonial Hotel, northeast corner of Columbus Avenue and Eighty-first Street.

Henry Hof has leased for Jacob Quinn the building at 213 East Thirty-eighth Street to Schleich & Smeraldi, interior decorators, now at 103 Park Avenue.

Realty Notes.

The Remington Typewriter Company is moving to its spacious new building at 374 Broadway, corner of White Street.

The Thaddeus Davids Ink Company secured title to the property at 95 and 97 Vandam Street yesterday. The firm has occupied the property for many years under lease.

The Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the sale of the northwest corner of 186th Street and St. Nicholas avenue to the Church Extension Committee of the Presbytery of New York.

James C. Bolger, President of the United States Realty Corporation, announced yesterday that a consolidation had been effected whereby the Realty Corporation takes over the real estate interests of the United Cigar Stores Company, and that hereafter all real estate business of the cigar company will be handled by the realty company exclusively.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Pressure changes have been attended by snow flurries in the north border States from Maine westward to Montana, and local rains in New Mexico, Arizona, and Southern California. The weather was much colder Friday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States, while there was a general rise in temperature in the upper Mississippi Valley, the plains States, and the Rocky Mountain and western plateau region. Temperatures were below zero Friday night in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Northeast New York. The weather will continue generally fair east of the Mississippi River during Saturday and Sunday. The temperature will rise Saturday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday: North Atlantic, moderate, variable; Middle Atlantic, South Atlantic, East Gulf, West Gulf, gentle to moderate, variable.

FORECASTS FOR TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Northern New England—Snow flurries and warmer Saturday. Sunday overcast.

Southern New England—Fair and warmer Saturday. Sunday overcast.

Eastern New York—Fair in the south, probably snow flurries in the north, warmer Saturday. Sunday overcast.

Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware—Overcast and warmer Saturday. Sunday unsettled.

Western Pennsylvania and Western New York—Overcast and warmer Saturday. Sunday overcast and colder, probably snow near the lakes.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

The commission announces for Jan. 30 an examination for assistant epidemiologist, for men only, to fill vacancies in the Public Health Service, at salaries ranging from $2,000 to $2,500 a year. Certification to fill the higher salaried positions will be made only from those attaining the highest average percentages in the examination. The duties will be to make epidemiologic and sanitary surveys to determine the prevalence and causation of disease, to conduct laboratory studies in relation thereto, and to recommend measures to prevent and control outbreaks of disease. It is desired to obtain persons thoroughly competent in the various branches of sanitary bacteriology, and especially in isolating the typhoid bacillus from infected persons and materials. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on general education and medical training, laboratory experience, experience in epidemiological work, and publications or thesis. Graduation from a medical school of recognized standing, and at least three years' experience in epidemiological work under Federal, State, or local authorities, and experience in laboratory technique, especially in regard to malaria and typhoid fever, are prerequisites. Applicants must have reached their twenty-third but not their fortieth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes

A license for the season of 1916-1917 as substitute teacher of corsetry in evening high schools has been granted to Alice N. Hosbach.

A license as substitute teacher of embroidery in evening elementary schools has been granted for the season of 1916-1917 to Ethel Wyburn.

Licenses for the season 1916-1917 as substitute tool boy in evening high schools has been granted to John Insinga and Bernard J. Schwartz.

There have been placed, as of Dec. 1, 1916, upon the eligible lists of persons holding licenses as assistant teacher in high schools the names of the following: Isaac Pitman Stenography and Typewriting, Stella Wilcox, 73.525. Mechanical Drawing, Fred Siegel, 80. Spanish, Paula C. Lambert, 76.

There have been placed, as of Jan. 19, 1917, upon the eligible lists of men holding licenses to teach in evening high schools (the subjects respectively indicated the names of the following:

Laboratory Assistant.—Max Steigman, 76.5.

Machine Shop Practice.—Frederick H. Hammer, 85.2; Dazine Blumberger, 80.8; Charles W. Seller, 80.4, and William B. Riblett, 75.6.

Mathematics.—Sanford D. France, 94.

Modeling.—Louis J. Urich, 87, and Frank Tucek, 70.

Spanish.—Luis N. Sherwell, 75.

Tailoring, (Ladies.)—Charles Kaplan, 83.3, and Martin Schwartz, 74.6.

In response to a recommendation made by Dr. C. Ward Crampton, the records of the physical and medical examinations of the boys and girls who graduate from the elementary schools in February and go to the high schools, will be taken by them to the high schools and given to the physical training teachers. These will provide what records are made by the Health Board to the physical training teachers to support their work in the removal of physical defects in general hygiene and physical training. These are kept up to date through the high school, and upon graduation from the high school they are sent to the physical training office for distribution to the training schools to accompany the high school graduates who enter these schools. If there has been established a complete and definite method of keeping track of the physical condition of the pupils of the schools of the city from the time they enter to the time they leave, this is particularly valuable. In the case of these pupils becoming teachers in their turn upon application for License No. 1, in the future the examining physician can be given a complete health record. This is another evidence of the co-operation between the Department of Health and the Department of Physical Training of the Board of Education, inasmuch as the elementary school records are made by the Department of Health, and the high and training school records are made in the Department of Physical Training.

The Teachers' Council has sent to the Board of Education and to the Board of Superintendents resolutions adopted by it recently. These resolutions state that the council views with regret such recent consolidations of elementary schools as have resulted in some cases to schools of 80, 90, and 100 classes, with organizations of thousands of pupils made solely on the ground of saving salaries of principals and heads of departments, and for which no pedagogical or educational reason is or ever has been offered. Magnus Gross, President of the council, has arranged for a hearing at the De Witt Clinton High School, at 4:15 P. M., on Jan. 26, to discuss this subject.

Dr. William H. Maxwell is at Atlantic City. He will not return to his Flushing home for several weeks.

The Board of Examiners announces the need for substitute teachers of shop mathematics, technical English, trade drawing, and mechanics in continuation classes. Applications should be submitted on forms, which will be provided on request. An examination for the license will probably be given about ten days hence. To be eligible to enter this examination it is necessary that a candidate shall be a college graduate, or shall have had four years' satisfactory experience in a trade or vocation related to the subjects to be taught. The sessions are usually conducted in manufacturing establishments, one to four hours daily, on five days per week. The compensation is $1.50 per hour. There is a vacancy at present in Brooklyn, and it is expected that about twenty new positions will soon be created.

Among the speakers at the Conference on Vocational Training held by the City Federation of Women's Clubs in the Russell Sage Foundation Rooms yesterday afternoon were two Hunter College alumnae, Olive M. Jones, '90, Principal of the Disciplinary School, and Jessie Colburn, '82, Principal of P. S. 104.

Louise Antoinette Smith, who will graduate from Hunter College this month, is the second Hunter alumna to be appointed as assistant in the bacteriology laboratories of Lincoln Hospital within a few weeks.

Classes in stenography and typewriting have been arranged in connection with the evening session of Hunter College. No academic credit will be given in these classes, and only students who are taking at least one other course in the evening session will be admitted. Under the classical department the usual freshman work in Horace and Livy will be given. In English, Dr. Blanche Colton Williams is planning courses in "The Short Story," "Business English," "Chaucer," "Early Nineteenth Century Poetry," and "The English Novel in the Nineteenth Century."

Will for Probate.

GOMPERS'S CRITIC ASSAILED

Central Federated Union Demands Apology from Marsden Scott.

The attack by Marsden G. Scott, International President of the Typographical Union, on Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor; Organizer Hugh Frayne of the American Federation of Labor, and Ernnest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Federated Union, for their support of the general strike of employes on New York City Railways last Summer, was denounced in a resolution adopted last night at a meeting of the Central Federated Union in Labor Temple on Eighty-fourth Street. The resolution was introduced by Bernard Nolan, delegate of the Pressmen's Union.

It was stated in the resolution that the motives which inspired Mr. Scott stigmatized "the fair name of the trade union movement." The resolution also demanded a retraction and apology from Mr. Scott through the same source in which the attack was made.

Mrs. Ella Reeve Bloor, Delegate of the Millinery Workers, reported last night that the average wage for millinery workers in 183 shops was not less than $5.50 a day.

OPPOSE MOVIE TAX.

Producers Give Their Reasons Before Legislative Commission.

The legislative commission appointed to investigate the motion-picture business to determine whether it is a fit subject for a special tax resumed its hearings yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel. On the first day of its sessions a representative of exhibitors was examined and yesterday the committee confined its attentions to producers.

William L. Sherrill, president of the Frohman Amusement Corporation, and P. A. Powers of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, were the witnesses examined. The testimony of both pointed to the fact that the small theatres were being crowded out by the larger ones, which, by reason of their greater capacities, could give more costly programs.

Mr Powers expressed the opinion that the increased cost of production brought about by higher salaries for stars and directors, better scenarios and settings, made the business a precarious one, and that many films cost more than they ever earned. He said that in 1909 to produce an average foot of film cost about 50 cents as compared with a cost of $2.50 today.

Some of the highest salaried screen stars will probably be examined by the commission during its investigation.

WOMAN IS SURETY FOR SWANN WITNESS

Mrs. Hart Went on Wilson's Bond for $10,000 After His Change of Attitude.

BRECKINRIDGE IS CONFIDENT

His Friends Not Worrying Over Situation Arising in Case Former Subordinate Recants.

Mrs. Freda Hart of 59 West 119th Street, it was made known yesterday, was the person who on Thursday procured the release from a detention cell in the Tombs of Albert I. Wilson, whose mysterious departure from the City Prison was a cause of conjecture yesterday. Wilson is claimed by each side as its star witness in the countercharges District Attorney Edward Swann made against Lucian S. Breckinridge when the latter became one of the chief supporters of the allegations of misconduct in office lodged against the New York County Prosecutor.

Mrs. Hart is the wife of Max M. Hart, a real estate operator at 280 Broadway. Hart is a lieutenant of Samuel Marks, Tammany leader of the district in which the Harts reside. Mrs. Hart in providing the $10,000 bail bond under which Wilson was released gave as security property valued at far in excess of that amount.

"Albert Wilson has for many years belonged to the same fraternal organization that I do," said Max Hart last night. "Owing to this fact I visited him in the Tombs on Sunday. He told me a story that wrung my heart. I told him that it would be investigated, and if it proved true I would do everything in my power to help him. After investigating what he told me I decided to see that he was admitted to bail. Wilson told me that people in this city were actually 'framed up,' and that the reason why one man resigned his office and charges were made against another was because Judge Swann refused to stand for the framing up."

At the District Attorney's office yesterday it was said that Wilson had sent word to John T. Dooling, Mr. Swann's principal assistant, that he wished to see him. Though the District Attorney, when he had Wilson committed, said his opponents were to have every access to the witness, while Mr. Swann and his supporters were not to see him, Mr. Dooling had Wilson brought over to the Criminal Court Building. The two men conferred at length and then bail was arranged and Wilson was released. Mr. Swann refused to see reporters yesterday, but it was said about the Criminal Court Building that the prosecutor could produce Wilson whenever he was wanted in court or before the Grand Jury.

Mr. Breckinridge's friends professed themselves yesterday to be undismayed by the reported change in Wilson's attitude, though they frankly interpreted it as indicating that Wilson had gone over to the District Attorney's side. When Wilson, learning he was wanted as a witness, first voluntarily returned to this jurisdiction, he made a statement to Martin W. Littleton, Breckinridge's counsel, in which he denied the District Attorney's charge that Wilson had acted as go-between and had collected money from manufacturers and paid it to Breckinridge for prosecuting labor cases, though Breckinridge was paid by the County as special counsel to do that work. Wilson asserted his financial transactions with Breckinridge were legitimate and that he collected money from the manufacturers only for his own services as strikebreaker.

Mr. Breckinridge's supporters said yesterday that in view of that statement and Wilson's past record, if he recanted now he would only discredit himself. They were not annoyed by a statement attributed to Wilson that he would dismiss Lloyd P. Stryker, an associate of Mr. Breckinridge, and get other counsel.

Martin W. Littleton laughed yesterday at the whole incident.

"It is the first case I ever heard of," he said, "in which the District Attorney first clapped his own witness in jail under $10,000 bail, and then bailed him out again."

Mr. Swann yesterday continued his preparations for his appearance before Governor Whitman next Friday to answer the City Club's charges against him of misconduct in office.

UNION DEFENDS SWANN.

Activities of His Foes Are Resented by Garment Workers.

Renewed charges that James A. Delehanty and Lucian S. Breckinridge, as Assistant District Attorneys, had waged relentless war on union labor, and that their present attack on District Attorney Swann was a political feud instigated by Republicans, were made by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union last night in an unsigned statement sent out from its headquarters, in which it was announced that a call would be issued for all unionists to get together and defend themselves in the attack on Mr. Swann.

The statement repeated the allegation that the labor union cases which Mr. Swann is accused of having failed to prosecute for political reasons were without merit. The history of the "stolen papers," which Mr. Swann says Mr. Breckinridge caused the District Attorney's Office to buy for $1,000 seven years after they disappeared from the garment workers' headquarters, is reviewed in the statement.

Sentenced on Fiftieth Birthday.

On his fiftieth birthday, Joseph E. Coleman of 109 West 109th Street was sentenced yesterday by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions to from twenty years to life imprisonment in Sing Sing for the murder of his eighteen-year-old daughter, Irene, on Sept. 3, 1916, while intoxicated. Assistant District Attorney Minton accepted a plea of murder in the second degree because no premeditation could be shown.

Instrumental and Vocal Triumphs in New Columbia List

THE most brilliant names in the instrumental field distinguish this month's list of Columbia Records: the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, with Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries;" Pablo Casals, with Schumann's "Abendlied;" Josef Hofmann, with Paderewski's "Minuet in G;" Kathleen Parlow, with the "Cavalleria Rusticana" Intermezzo; and Eddy Brown, with Massenet's "Elegie."

Equally distinguished is the vocal list, with Oscar Seagle singing Moore's "Meeting of the Waters;" Lucy Gates rendering "Come My Beloved;" David Bispham with his famous "Danny Deever;" and Vernon Stiles singing "At Dawning" and "Because."

Among the sixteen popular recordings, Al Jolson is again the headliner, singing "A Broken Doll"—"London Taps."

A Few of the Song-Hits and Dances Listed:

A 2143 10-inch 75c. — THEY'RE WEARING 'EM HIGHER IN HAWAII. Morton Harvey, Baritone. / PRAY FOR THE LIGHTS TO GO OUT. George O'Connor, Tenor.

A 2153 10-inch 75c. — WHO'SE PRETTY BABY ARE YOU NOW? Henry I. Marshall, Baritone. / HOW'S EVERY LITTLE THING IN DIXIE? Arthur Fields, Tenor.

A 5918 12-inch $1.00 — MURIEL WALTZ. Prince's Orchestra. / BETTY. Betty Waltz. Prince's Orchestra.

A 5914 12-inch $1.00 — MY LONELY LOLA LO. Medley Fox-trot. Introducing 1. "When Evening Shadows Fall." 2. "On the Arm of the Old Arm Chair." Prince's Band. / DANCE OF THE DOLLYS. Fox-trot. Prince's Band.

Then there is a wonderful choral recording of the second-act finale of "La Traviata," the initial recordings of James Harrod, tenor, two monumental hymns, Charles Harrison in two songs of the heart, light orchestral selections and overtures, marimba and accordion-banjo novelties, and even two story-records for the children to make this interesting list complete. Whatever your tastes, you'll be sure to enjoy a visit to your dealer's today!

THERE is something very human in this story of a man who bungled his start in life (though the world called it success). Real success was built from life's raw materials in a cheap New York boarding house.
